request of the government, to prevent drainage of that fund. These wells then would be abandoned.

OBJECTION TO FORM

Although the offer for the reconstruction of a board of experts determined that the contracts were not wise, advantage and the best that the government could have made, the committee decided to transmit it to the Senate Monday without recommendation.In the committee discussion objection was raised in the Senate that the offer had not been signed by Mr. Doherty, but by his counsel.
Some Senators expressed doubt of the wisdom of passing on the proposal in that form.Independent of the Doherty offer, Democratic leaders reached an agreement today, whereby a subcommittee for the Caraway Teapot Dome lease cancellation resolution will be offered in the Senate Monday with a view to its speedy adoption, probably on that day. It will be in the same general form as a resolution offered in the House today by Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, after a conference with Senators Walsh, Hiram, and Clegg, who have had the lead in the prosecution of the oil inquiry, and Caraway.The resolution would "authorize and request" the President to institute immediately legal proceedings looking to annulment of the Teapot Dome (Wyoming) oil lease to the Sinclair interests; to enjoin further extraction of oil from the reserve, and to employ special counsel who shall have charge of the prosecution of such litigation, anything in the statutes touching the powers of the Attorney-General, or the Department of Justice, to the contrary withstanding.A similar resolution respecting the California naval lease was offered by Representative Garrett, some members of the Senate committee said such a resolution would be withheld by the Senate until there had been discussion of the Doherty offer.There was indication, however, that unless the Doherty proposal was submitted in writing over the signature of Mr. Doherty himself, the resolution might be pressed at a later time.

COOLIDGE ASKS ADVICE

While the Senate committee was re-examining Archie Roosevelt, not of the former President, and G. D. Wahlberg, Secretary to Hiram, E. Sinclair, an effort to get more light on the relations between Sinclair and Fall, President Coolidge calledon the Interior Department for expert advice as to the wisdom of the policy under which the Doherty and Sinclair interests obtained leases from Mr. Fall for the California and Wyoming oil reserves.A public statement of the government's intentions, both as to criminal and civil proceedings, may be made by President Coolidge after the Interior Department and the Department of Justice have concluded their investigations and Mr. Fall has had opportunity to be heard before the committee his financial transactions with Mr. Doherty and Mr. Sinclair.That farm Secretary was to be heard Monday, but Chairman Lusk announced tonight that his examination had been deferred until Tuesday, both because of his physical condition, and the impending Senate debate on the Teapot Dome lease cancellation resolution.Mr. Fall remained confined to his bed today at the home of J. W.
Zevy, Mr. Sinclair's personal attorney, who disclosed yesterday that Sinclair had loaned Mr. Fall $25,000 in Liberty Bonds after Fall left the Cabinet. The note which, it is declared, demonstrates this debt, was presented to the committee today on behalf of Mr. Zevy.

COOLIDGE SEES ADAMS

The development in the oil investigation was the subject of a conference today between President Coolidge and John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Adams indicated afterward that his views on the subject were set forth in an editorial in the National Republican, which he had written with the statement that "every body travels of trust by whomsoever committed, should be prosecuted with a view to punishment of the guilty."Chairman Hull of the Democratic National Committee, in the oil investigation was the subject of a statement declaring that "the Teapot Dome naval oil scandal standing out as the greatest political scandal of this or any other generation, has created an additional political issue for the 1924 campaign." He said the issue "hindi-cates" in whether the United States shall "have corrupt government or clean government."About the only new development in the rehearing today of Mr.
Roosevelt and Mr. Wahlberg was the presentation by G. T. Stanford, counsel for Mr. Sinclair, of two checks aggregating $68,000 and drawn to the order of S. C.
Hildreth, trainer at Sinclair's Rancho stables under date of the 14th inst. Wahlberg testified that these were the checks about which he spoke in his conversation with Mr. Roosevelt concerning the Teapot Dome lease.Mr. Hildreth identified the checks as those he had received—$25,000 for salary for 1923, and $43,244 as his 10 per cent commission on the winning of Mr.
Sinclair's horses in the same year.

Mr. Hildreth produced a letter dated the 15th inst., with which the witness stand in advance of Archie Roosevelt. He stated that he desired to be heard with regard to the testimony given yesterday by J. W. Zevy, personal counsel for Mr. Sinclair, to whom the oil magnate had loaned $500 shares of Consolidated stock which were converted into cash for Zevy's benefit and $25,000 in Liberty Bonds, which Zevy stated had been loaned by Sinclair's direction to former Secretary Fall.Explaining that Zevy was unable to be present today, Stanford submitted to the committee in his behalf a note dated March 23, 1923, for $25,000, payable in twelve months, which Fall had given to secure the loan of the Liberty Bonds. Stanford wanted to withdraw the original and substitute in its place a photostat, but this the committee refused to permit.

SINCLAIR TO RETURN

The committee was told by Stanford that he had received a cablegram from Sinclair in Paris stating that he would expedite his business and return to the United States at the earliest possible date.
Replying to a question from Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, Stanford stated that he would cable Sinclair for information as to the location of the books of the Hyva Corporation, a holding company, privately organized by Sinclair, and ask his permission to examine them before the committee. He said he expected to receive a favorable reply from Sinclair.Archie Roosevelt then was asked by the committee to explain his previous testimony, Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, declaring that the universal opinion affected by the testimony of the subsequent evidence given by G. D.
Wahlberg was "that nothing definitely had been arrived at, especially with reference to the canceled checks for $68,000 which Roosevelt had stated Wahlberg told him had been drawn to the order of the manager of the Fall ranch in New Mexico.After explaining the length and character of his conversation with Sinclair, company, Roosevelt was asked by Senator Smoot whether he had discussed with any one in the Sinclair company, besides Mr.
Wahlberg, the matter of payments made by Sinclair to Fall."Yes, I have," he replied. "I have told him that I have asked them if it could be possible that such things could happen. I have been worried about it. I do not want to get any more people into this than I can help."

COMMITTEE SEES FACTS

What the committee wants are the facts in the case and we are altogether unconcerned as to who shall be called," said Senator Smoot.There is nobody with whom I have discussed the case who had any definite information, he confided to them my suspicions and have asked them if there was anything to them. I was particularly anxious to know whether he should resign from the company.""When did you first think of resigning?""I have always thought I resigned and went into business for myself."Then you know of no one who stated they knew of any fraud on the part of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company in these leases?""No, sir, I can definitely state that."Telling the committee that he had been worried about this thing for several reasons, especially because of his brother, Theodore, who was in the Navy Department, Roosevelt related his visit to Wahlberg's office, and their conversation to which he previously had testified, especially with reference to the canceled checks for a $62,000 loan, and Mr. Wahlberg's suggestion that if he was that he should be expected to lie, Wahlberg had complained to him several times, the witness said, "about his general hard conversation with me.""Did he say anything about Sinclair helping others and not helping him?" Senator Smoot asked.

"I do not think so."

"You are quite sure he said the canceled checks were checks sent to the manager of the Fall ranch?"

"That is what I understood."

"You do not think you could be mistaken?"

"He did not see how I could be."

"I do not think he mentioned that at all."

TALKED AT WINDOW

The witness declared that he had not seen any checks during his talk with Wahlberg, explaining that the conversation took place behind a window. Led by the questions of the committee, the witness repeated his former testimony that Wahlberg at 1:30 and 7 o'clock last Monday morning, the day of their previous appearance before the committee.The witness maintained that during the earlier talk Wahlberg had made no denial of Roosevelt's statement that he had been paid in canceled checks drawn to the order of the foreman of Fall's ranch, but that during the later telephone talk Wahlberg had denied that he had made any statement concerning canceled checks.Roosevelt stated that in the last telephone conversation with Wahlberg he had asked him whether he was scared and Wahlberg had replied he was."I told him, 'I too, was scared,'" the witness added.Several times Roosevelt repeated, in reply to questions from members of the committee, that he could not have been mistaken that Wahlberg had told him of canceled checks for $62,000 drawn to the order of Fall's ranch foreman.Roosevelt said he had gone to automobile from Washington to Baltimore last Monday to meet Wahlberg, who was on his way to Washington. His wife accompanied him. Roosevelt said, and they with Wahlberg, occupied a drawing-room on the trip from Baltimore to Washington. The purpose of making the trip, he explained, was to discuss again with Wahlberg the matter of the canceled checks and see if he could not refresh the latter's memory.

CATTLE MENTIONED

"I asked him if he was sure that he had not referred to the canceled checks for $62,000," Roosevelt said, "and Wahlberg replied that he was. I said that I was sure that he had, and he asked me what I was going to do about it. I said I think I must say that it was the case."The witness remembered a conversation about cattle on the Fall ranch," asked Chairman Lusk."I remember he mentioned cattle," Wahlberg had not told him about the $25,000 loan to Mr. Fall which Zevy testified to yesterday, the witness said.Replying to inquiries by Senator Walsh, the witness declared the first information he had received from the newspapers. He said he was immediately interested because of the connection with the Navy Department. He said he was not a stockholder in the Sinclair Company at the time the Teapot Dome case was made.After another series of questions he admitted that his business connection with the Sinclair company was rather nominal. In his opinion the stock from Mr. Sinclair most advantageous to the government. It had not caused him, however, to make any check of the Mammoth Company, which he owned the lease. Pressed by Senator Walsh as to whether he considered himself an expert in the situation to be placed on officers, Roosevelt replied that he did not.

SIXTY TAKEN IN RAIDS IN COUNTY

Liquor, Stills and Gambling Devices Seized

Five Arrested on Charges of Bookmaking

Concessionaires at Ocean
Resorts are Held

In a county-wide series of raids, in which police, deputy sheriffs and investigators of the District Attorney's office participated, more than sixty men were arrested on various charges and liquor, stills and gambling devices were seized yesterday afternoon and last night. In a general clean-up throughout the city of suspected bootleggers, the entire personnel of the police vice-squad worked until late last night, making a dozen or more raids. In these raids, eight men were arrested on liquor charges, five on a charge of bookmaking and seven Chinese on a gambling charge.

SCENE OF RAIDS
The places in which men were arrested on liquor charges were: 137 Lyons street, Sixteenth and Union streets, 2115 South Western avenue and another at Fourth and Los Angeles streets. The Chinese were taken at 399 North Los Angeles street. The five men accused of bookmaking were arrested at 747 South Hill street. Twenty-three concessionaires in the amusement districts of Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica were arrested and their places of business closed by the District Attorney during the afternoon. George Contreras and ten investigators participated in the raids. At about the same time, police arrested twenty-four men, all negroes, in a place at 1360 East Ninth street. They stated that the men were engaged in poker and crap games at the time of the raid. The men were booked on a charge of gambling.

TWELVE ARRESTED
Twelve men were arrested, five on charges of violating the Wright Act and seven on vagrancy charges, in raids by Deputy Sheriffs Wilcox, Segely and Wheeler last night. The deputies first visited a place at 1414 East Sixty-seventh street, near Huntington Park, arresting R. Polanco, A. Torres and C. Alon on Wright Act charges. A still and a quantity of mash and liquor were seized.

Shortly afterward, they raided a place at 1918 Stanley avenue, North Long Beach, arresting nine men, Tim Cronin and C. Doherty on charges of violating the Wright Act and seven others on vagrancy charges. The latter were put in the Long Beach Jail, while the others were brought to the County Jail here.

The raids of District Attorney's investigators on beach concessionaires provided amusement for a large Saturday afternoon crowd. The concessionaires were working in Venice, provided in rapid succession from one concession to the next and closed the places on the ground that gambling laws were being violated.

Those taken into custody were herded into the Santa Monica City Jail, where their bail was fixed at $400 each. The majority of them were able to furnish this. The remainder have sent out distress calls to friends to bail them out.

TEST CASE HINTED
It is believed here that the raids are a forerunner of a test case to determine once for all the validity of the State law against games of chance. Concessionaires operating games where the element of skill enters were not molested by the raiders.

The entire outfit of A. Mayana, who conducts a "race horse" stand in Venice, was confiscated by the raiders, who said it would be used in the test case.

Geddes Receives Twenty-one Gun National Salute

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Sir Auckland Geddes, retiring British Ambassador, when leaving for home today on the Aquitania, gave an interpretation of the clause in the run-running treaty with Great Britain which refers to an hour's steaming distance from American shores.

"The provision will cause no difficulty," he said. "When a vessel is boarded by customs officers or other officials it will be easy to determine her speed from examination of the engine. The distance was estimated closely and the time she would need to traverse it determined."

An unusual honor was paid to the departing Ambassador as the Aquitania steamed down the bay, the soldiers at Governors Island firing a twenty-one gun salute.

SENTENCES COLORADO SLAYER TO GALLOW

JUDGE DENIES NEW TRIAL IN SETTING EXECUTION
FOR MAY

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)
GOLDEN (Colo.), Jan. 26.—Arthur H. Mitchell, convicted of the slaying of Mrs. George Bryan at the Andrew H. Sheerle ranch house near Golden, today was sentenced to die by hanging on October 23, 1925, today was sentenced by Judge Johnson to be hanged some time during the week beginning May 18 and ending May 25. Sentence was placed after Judge Johnson had denied a motion by Mitchell's attorneys for a new trial.

Mitchell's attorneys were granted sixty days by Judge Johnson in which to perfect an appeal to the State Supreme Court. The attorney originally had asked for ninety days.

The crime for which Mitchell was sentenced was the slaying of Mrs. George Bryan, wife of William A. Bryan, assistant fire chief of Denver. The bodies of Mrs. Bryan and Andrew Sheerle were found by neighbors at the Sheerle home. They had been shot to death. Mitchell later in the day confessed the double slaying to his wife, a minister and to the police. He declared his infatuation for Mrs. Bryan was responsible for the deed.

ZONING CHANGE PROTESTED

City Council to Reopen Hearings on Ordinance That Permits Laundry Near Bimini Baths

Numerous protests of property owners have been received against the ordinance adopted by the Council on the 7th inst. at the request of the Gillette Realty Company which consists of a change of zoning regulations making possible the building of a laundry adjoining the Bimini Baths, according to President Workman.

In view of these protests, President Workman said he intended to ask the City Council to reopen the matter so as to give the objectors an opportunity to present their side of the matter to the Council. The ordinance does not take effect until February 19. The original application for a change of the zoning regulations for the property adjoining the Bimini Baths to permit the building and operation there of a laundry was made to the City Planning Commission by the Gillette Realty Company, G. G. Gillette, president, Waldo A. Gillette, secretary. The offices of the Gillette Realty Company were given as at Alvarado street and Ocean View avenue, near Westlake Park.

The City Planning Commission recommended to the Council that the application for the placing of the property in a "D" or industrial zone be denied.

The Gillette Realty Company, through its president and secretary, on December 31, 1923, appealed to the Council from the decision of the City Planning Commission, and then upon recommendation of its Public Welfare Committee, the Council overruled the City Planning Commission and ordered the change of zone so as to permit the building of the laundry.

President Workman, as acting Mayor, signed the ordinance on the 7th inst., but he said yesterday that he did so because he could see no

Pueblo Public Work Shut to Outside Labor

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
PUEBLO (Colo.), Jan. 26.—The following statement was issued today for general circulation over the signatures of Walter L. Wilder, editor of the Pueblo Chieftain, and Frank S. Hoag, publisher of the Pueblo Star-Journal:

Employment agencies in many parts of the country are advertising for men to go to Pueblo, holding out as an inducement that Pueblo is about to begin construction of a conservancy district improvements amounting to $3,500,000, and that thousands of men are wanted.

While it is true that improvements contemplating the expenditure of the amount and for the purpose stated will be made, covering a period of about three years, it is also a fact that there are sufficient men within forty to fifty miles of Pueblo to supply all of that kind of help that will be needed, and it is an injustice to other men and to this city if additional men from remote sections are urged to come here under existing conditions.

PADEREWSKI GIVEN CHILLY RECEPTION

GREAT PIANIST STAYS ABOARD CAR WITH MERCURY BE-LOW IN CHICAGO

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Ignace Jan Paderewski, once the world's greatest pianist, arrived here today from Louisville under conditions that created a wish for the balm saphyrs of Southern California, where he once wished to make his home.

His private car, Ideal, arrived at Park Row Station while the thermometer hovered around 10 below. When the steam was disconnected Jack Frost began his artistic work on the window.

One glance through the frosted panes was enough for the artist. Pulling on another blanket and calling for his usual cup of tea, M. Paderewski announced he would not get up until the car was warm. As a consequence he remained abed until afternoon.

Paderewski lives in the Ideal entirely. He would not admit any reporters. He will give a concert here tomorrow.

MISSING MAN FOUND WITH CRUSHED SKULL

(BY A. P. MORT WIRE)
RED BLUFF, Jan. 26.—The body of a man, identified as Henry Lewis, who disappeared from a ranch near here on October 15, 1923, was found today on Deer Creek, near Vina, with the skull crushed. The body had been rolled in a blanket and covered with brush. Before disappearing Lewis told friends that he was about to receive $1100 from a sister in Illinois. Police officials here believe that he may have received the money and then been murdered.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 26.—Scorning factional politics and its entanglements, Gov. Richardson today announced the appointment of Jesse O. Olney, a resident of Adelanto for the past five years and formerly a leading attorney of San Francisco, as jurist of the San Bernardino county Superior Court to succeed the late Judge Frank B. Daley.

Judge Olney's appointment came as a surprise as he is not a member of the San Bernardino County Bar Association. He comes from a widely known family of lawyers of New York State.

WOMAN IS ACCUSED OF BRUTALITY

Children Found Beaten and Half Starved When Man is Arrested

Los Angeles police last night were looking for a woman alleged to have been living with Fred Hatch, a Santa Ana oil worker, who had been arrested on charges of child abuse. The children, Ernest, 5 years of age, and Alta, 6, had been brutally treated and almost starved.

The children, their faces and bodies black and blue from beatings, and in an emaciated condition, were under treatment at a Santa Ana hospital. Several neighbors of the family, living at 130 East Stittler street, Santa Ana, complained of the mistreatment. One neighbor woman said she had repeatedly driven the children away from her garage, from which they were eating. Another said that the little boy would be set to work in the yard, and that one day she saw him sitting in the yard after dark. She said she asked him why he was sitting there, and he answered, "I'm afraid."

The woman, who went by the name of Mrs. Bertha Hatch, but who Hatch denies is his wife, had two children of her own, who neighbors said were well treated and well fed. She took them with her yesterday when she fled. The mother of the two mistreated children died about a year ago in Los Angeles.

At the hospital yesterday, the little boy said, "She kept hitting me in the face with a broomstick. That's what makes it black and blue. She said she wished we were in hell."

He told nurses that he never got enough to eat, and that he and his sister were kept awake shivering all night long. He said he was afraid to complain.

Det. Atty. C. N. Mosley of Orange county, who personally investigated the complaints, said the mother of the children was sick with the influenza. He said he found them in bed, but discovered that they did not have the influenza, but were unable to walk because of their bruises.

The boy told the prosecutor that he and his little sister got very hungry and that when they were placed on the table, they were eager to eat. He said that the women would grasp them by the throat and take the food away from them, telling them that they took too large bites.

ALL BUT NINE DAYS SUNNY

Los Angeles in 1923 Lived Up to Its Reputation
Rainfall for Year Nine Inches Below Normal

Los Angeles fully lived up to its reputation for sunshiny days in 1923, only nine days passing without some sunshine, according to the annual report of the local Weather Bureau, just completed by Charles F. Marvin, director. The city received 72 per cent of the largest possible amount of sunshine, there being 215 entirely clear days, seventy-eight partly cloudy, and only sixty-one cloudy. There were five thunderstorms in five separate months, and only two heavy frosts, both in February, neither killing.

The temperature very nearly approached the ideal, the mean annual temperature being 63.7 degrees above zero. The greatest daily range was 31 degrees. During the year there were only thirty-two rainy days. Four of these came one after the other in January, but for eighty-seven days from June 16 to September 10, inclusive, there was not even a trace of rain. The total for the year was only 6.23 inches, which was 3.82 inches below the normal.

The thermometer never registered 100 degrees during the year. The highest was 99 degrees, on May 9, and the lowest 34 degrees, on February 1. There were only nine days when the mercury rose above 90, and only three when it dropped below 40 degrees. As usual, the city experienced few high winds. The average hourly velocity was only 5.5 miles an hour, the maximum velocity being 23 miles on September 9. For the most part, there was little wind.

The general summary of weather conditions for the year follows: January—Unusually warm and dry weather prevailed till the 12th, which was the beginning of a period of rains and somewhat lower temperature. The temperature was below normal after the 12th and light frost occurred on the 26th and 28th. February—There were several abnormally cool days from the first to the 11th, with light frost on the 2nd, 4th, 6th and 7th and heavy frost on the 1st and 10th. The weather was below normal after the 11th.

March—A measurable amount of rain fell on only two days, and the period from the 4th to the 30th was rainless. There were a few cool days early in the month, with light frost on the 1st and 2nd.

April—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

May—This was an exceptionally warm and dry month, the average daily excess in temperature being 1.3 degrees, and the rainfall less than 2 per cent of the normal. There was a marked excess in sunshine, and no dense fogs were recorded.

June—June was an exceptionally warm month with an excess in temperature and the third with marked deficiency in rainfall. A notable feature was a windstorm lasting three days from the 8th to the 10th.

July—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

August—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

September—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

October—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

HEARING OF GREER MAY BE DELAYED

Condition of Dines May Result in Postponement of Case Thirty Days

A possibility that a reopening of the preliminary hearing of Horace A. Greer, charged with attempting to kill Conrad S. Dines, will not take place within thirty days was learned yesterday following inquiries concerning the condition of Dines.

Dines was scheduled to appear in Justice Hanby's court Wednesday morning to undergo a second examination regarding his version of the New Year's night shooting. Court had been adjourned last week with this understanding. But Dines will be unable to leave the Good Samaritan Hospital next week, according to the broker's counsel, W. I. Gilbert. Attorney Gilbert stated that his client's condition remained unimproved, and that he has been informed by hospital authorities that the man's removal from the hospital may result in his death.

While prosecution and defense were marking time yesterday, Dist. Atty. Keyes was studying the statement of Dines. A marked deficiency in sunshine and a moderate deficiency in rainfall were recorded only on the last three days. July—Practically normal conditions prevailed throughout the month, except that foggy mornings were somewhat less frequent than usual.

August—An excess of cloudy weather during the day resulted in unusually low maximum temperatures and a moderate deficiency in the mean for the month, although the minimum averaged above the August normal. September—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

October—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

November—The month averaged unusually warm with a decided deficiency in rainfall. Only two showers, both of which were very light, fell during the month. One was accompanied by a thunderstorm. No dense fogs were recorded.

KEYES ASSAILS CRIME BOARD

District Attorney Charges All Manner of Evil

Alleges Politics and Effort to Usurp Offices

Defends His Own Conduct in "Big Hutch" Case

Dist. Atty. Keyes made a bitter attack upon the Los Angeles Crime Commission in a speech which he read from manuscript before the City Club yesterday. He read it, he said, that he would not be misquoted. But one copy of the speech was available and that was given to the local paper which is also attacking the commission. Asked by other newspaper men for copies Mr. Keyes said he did not know if any were available.

Mr. Keyes admitted that he had expressed his sympathy with the avowed purpose of the commission and pledged his co-operation to its work, but said that the breach came when the commission "became imbued with the idea that the District Attorney's office was created solely for the purpose of beam-riding and punishing the Crime Commission's particular enemies." In the substantiation of this charge he referred to a case which was referred to the Crime Commission's attention by certain city officials but which the commission declined to take any part in. He said that outside their purview. In spite of this fact, Mr. Keyes made the astonishing statement that he is convinced that the commission's disapprobation and "enmity of this Crime Commission specifically on my refusal, on evidence submitted to me by the Crime Commission to prosecute two Councilmen of the city of Los Angeles, who are staunch proponents of municipal ownership."

Mr. Keyes said the commission is "minister in its purpose" and that he seeks to usurp the prerogatives of public officials. He took exception to the word "commission," saying that the word is calculated to give the idea that the board is legally constituted, which it is not.

"BIG HUTCH" CASE

Referring to his secret attempt to secure the release on parole of Everett A. Hutchings, "Big Hutch," the most dangerous bunko man who ever operated in this county, by a letter to the parole board written when Hutchings had served several months of a ten-year term, Mr. Keyes said: "I have no apology to offer for my action in connection with this parole, though the Crime Commission has been convicted by the parole board of a crime against property, over which the commission always seems to be most seriously concerned, my actions did not meet the approval of the commission. I think in this instance a great disservice was done the people of California when the Crime Commission by its actions nullified the efforts of the parole board to secure the release of this prisoner. In consideration of parole he was to furnish the office of the District Attorney with precise information which would have led to the end of the trail of other equally dangerous and clever criminals, with every prospect of sending them to the penitentiary to pay the penalty of their misdeeds. I am here to state that at any time this District Attorney can, by the release of one convicted man on parole, through information delivered as the price of that parole, convince himself, as I was convinced in this case, of the possibility of sending two, or more criminals of equally evil potentialities where they belong, there would be no hesitancy in favorably considering such an application for parole. And in so doing a distinct service would be rendered to society."

Mr. Keyes called attention to the fact that the Crime Commission has made no objection to a pardon for Otis Berry, a branch bank manager convicted in connection with the disposal of loot of other bunko operations. He did not say whether he had written any letter asking the release of Berry, Mr. Keyes charged that the Crime Commission attempted to prejudice the case of Capt. Lee Heath, accused of playing politics in the police department and at the same time to intimidate the Mayor in that connection.

Referring to the efforts of the commission to reduce the number of cases of probation granted criminals against the recommendations of probation officers, Mr. Keyes charged the commission with "an invasion of the judiciary" and "an attempt to place the judiciary on a mathematical basis, with its integrity and efficiency measured from the standpoint of cold statistics."

ON DISMISSALS

Mr. Keyes further objected to the action of the Crime Commission in publishing statistics regarding the number of cases which he has caused to be dismissed in the penitentiary. He said that in many such cases the defendants were already serving sentences in the penitentiary. The latest survey referred to by Mr. Keyes, that for the month of December, showed that his office had tried thirty-nine felony cases, thirty-nine such cases were dismissed. Fifty-seven cases were dismissed on motion of the District Attorney, of which twenty-two were on the ground of insufficient evidence; two "in the interest of justice" fourteen on the ground that the defendant had been sentenced on other charges, and eighteen without any reason being stated in the records. Two cases were dismissed on motion of defendant's counsel. The commission's report set out all of these facts. For the month of November the survey showed fifty-one cases tried and fifty-seven dismissed, while in October forty-five were tried and forty-six dismissed.

Mr. Keyes closed by charging the newspapers with suppressing news and with endeavoring to mold public opinion, favorable to the Crime Commission and the latter with giving undue prominence to such conclusions as it may itself arrive at "in furtherance of its own self-interest and political power."

BIRTH RATE HIGHER

PHOENIX, (AP), Jan. 26.—Arizona's birth record for 1923 was greater by 373 than in the previous year, the Arizona State Board of Health reports. There were 1661 births of which 1644 were boys and 2657 girls. Seventy-two twins were reported.

Charles Scribner Spending Vacation at Pasadena, but Finds Time to Invoide Many Book Shops

Everybody has heard the story about the bus driver who spent his vacation riding around with his substitute. And in opposition, the remark of the Kentucky philosopher, that "there are some things that cannot help, but no man need wear side whiskers unless he wants to." Simple enough, but suppose that for the past fifty years your business had been books—the making and publishing of books—and you took a trip of 3000 miles across the continent to Southern California to get away from business for a spell? There'd be books on the train, wouldn't there? And books in the railroad stations? And you could hardly go out for a walk, could you, without bumping into a book shop? And of course you'd want to look at the books, wouldn't you? And so the problem of spending a vacation would not be so simple after all, would it?

And so Charles Scribner, head of the famous New York publishing house who with Mrs. Scribner is spending the season at the Vista del Arroyo Hotel in Pasadena, is really enjoying his vacation but not without becoming more or less familiar with what is on the outside and inside of the book shops of Los Angeles and Pasadena.

It isn't so certain that Mr. Scribner wants to get entirely away from books. Even though he is arranged, not so easily, but yet possible, just as civilized man could, in a pinch, get along without books. But for a maker and lover of books like Mr. Scribner to wander into a book shop and look around, even if he is on his vacation, that is recreation.

Mr. Scribner explains that his trip to Southern California and his winter residence at the Vista del Arroyo was to "avoid a slight drop in Eastern temperature" and to get away from the "grind" of business and for that reason he preferred to discuss the amazing growth and development of Southern California and its rising population and industry rather than "talk shop."

GROWTH INSPIRING
"The city's growth is going on such an expansive scale, he said, 'that it is most inspiring."

CHIROPRACTORS' PROGRAM

Outline of Three-Day Sessions of Association at Which 1000 Delegates are Expected

Announcement is made of the complete program for the three-day convention of the California State Chiropractic Society, which is scheduled for this city next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. More than 1000 delegates will be in attendance, it is said.

The sessions will be held at the "Chiropractic Philosophy," the contestants being limited to active alumni associations in California. The contestants are Dr. J. W. Koe, Los Angeles College of Chiropractic; Dr. J. H. Burke, California Chiropractic College; Dr. Carl Hotchkiss, Electric College of Chiropractic; Dr. A. T. Blair, Palmer School of Chiropractic; and Dr. C. T. Sheridan, Universal Chiropractic College. An address by Attorney M. A. Sparling on "Chiropractic Jurisprudence" will follow.

ANNUAL BANQUET

In the afternoon Dr. J. B. Edgerton of Banning, Dr. Albert Peterson and A. J. Hill, representing the Chamber of Commerce, will speak. Gov. Richardson is also expected to address the meeting. Mayor H. Palmer of Davisport, Iowa, will speak at this session.

The annual banquet will be at the Alexandria in the evening. A dinner about 7 o'clock will be served. Dr. B. J. Palmer, recognized as the leading chiropractic authority in the country, will address the convention Sunday morning in the afternoon. In the evening Dr. Palmer will speak on "Visions or Illusions" this meeting being open to the public.

The members of the convention committee in charge of the arrangements for the meeting are: Dr. Frank Pyott, S. F. Porter, Linnie A. Cale, Henry McFarland, E. P. Webb, J. H. Reardon and Henry Ford.

ASKS QUIZ IN HAINES DEATH

Coroner's Jury Requests Special Investigation Into Supposed Suicide of Ex-Officer's Wife

A special investigation of the District Attorney into the death of Mrs. Florence Haines, wife of a former Los Angeles police officer, was requested by the coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday.

Mrs. Haines was discovered in a burning house, with a bullet wound in the head, in her home at San Fernando several days ago, when her four small children called neighbors to help put out a fire in the home.

The jury's verdict was that Mrs. Haines came to her death from a gunshot wound, but did not state an opinion as to whether the wound was self-inflicted or not.

"When she was taken from the house," the jury said, "she was found in a burning house, with a bullet wound in the head, in her home at San Fernando several days ago, when her four small children called neighbors to help put out a fire in the home."

POLICE SEEK PROMOTION

More Than 500 Patrolmen Take Examinations for Sergeant Vacancies in Next Three Years

Future sergeants of the Los Angeles police department will be picked from a list of 534 patrolmen who yesterday underwent a five-hour written and oral examination conducted by the Civil Service Commission at the Manual Arts High School.

The entrants were required to have been a member of the police department for more than six months. Some of them, however, were veterans of eighteen years experience.

According to C. M. Briggs, chief examiner for the Civil Service Board, this is one of the largest number of contestants yet to take the sergeant's examination. From these men the police department will choose its sergeants for the next three years. The patrolmen will be promoted in the order of their standing in the examination.

Mother of Two and Divorced; Aged Thirteen

BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE
CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Carried at the age of 10, a mother of two children at the age of 12, and divorced at the age of 13, is the record of Mrs. Florence Haines, who made application for a license to wed Vito Michele de Alcantara, Mrs. Sarno gave her age as 30, and the clerk went back on his records to prove that she was married twenty years ago and had two children eighteen years ago and was divorced in 1908.

LIGHTS FAIL AT THE BILTMORE

Extra Current for Motion Picture Blows Fuses

Looked Like "The House of a Thousand Candles"

Hotel Lighted by Flickering Tapers for Hour

Stygian darkness reigned throughout the greater part of the Biltmore Hotel for more than an hour yesterday, when the electric fuses blew out following the turning on of an extra heavy current to provide illumination for taking motion-picture scenes in the hotel ballroom.

The picture, which is being produced by the Laasy studios under direction of Cecil B. DeMille, is entitled "Triumph," but anybody entering the hotel during the period of obscurity would have been led to believe that the production was probably "The House of a Thousand Candles."

LIGHTS LIKE FIREFLIES
Everywhere gleamed puny lights, like fireflies flitting about the corridors, the elevators, the offices, the conference rooms, in every nook and corner not directly open to the light of day. Every available candle in the house was brought out two minutes after the lights disappeared and raids were made on nearby shops for an additional supply of the paraffin illuminators.

The main elevators ceased operation as soon as the power was cut off, only the freight elevators, reached through obscure places, being on duty. The power is supplied from another trunk line. Every clerk, porter, bellboy and assistant manager in the place was busy lighting the guests to and from these elevators and assisting them to find their way along the lanky passages.

MEETING IN SESSION

In one of the conference rooms on the second floor, where the council of the State Medical Society was conducting a session, the secretary was vainly reading reports and making notes in the uncertain light of a half dozen flickering candles on the desk, while the council members, seated a few feet away could hardly be discerned in the gloom.

As the guests took the whole matter as a joke, laughing good-naturedly when they stubbed their toes or bumped their heads against objects they could not see. Only one man was heard to complain mildly that he had had to shave in the dark and the result was not so good.

POLICEMAN IS STRIPPED OF INSIGNIA

Galloway Lodged in Jail on Charge of Violating Wright Act and of Assault

Patrolman T. A. Galloway was stripped of his badge and uniform yesterday and lodged in the City Jail on charges of violating the Wright Act and of assault with a deadly weapon.

The officer was arrested at 136 North San Pedro street by members of the police flying squadron, who responded to a call for help from J. Miyashima, owner of the store at that address. The arresting officers reported Galloway had been drinking highly potent sake and had created a near panic in the district. He is also accused of having threatened a reversal of the Wright act, a reversal which would have given him a pool hall at 135 North San Pedro street.

Shortly after being lodged in jail the officer was suspended by Police Lieutenant Ferns, who said a bottle of sake had been found in the prisoner's possession. Galloway was confined in a patrolman on December 1, 1923.

Last Rites Are Conducted for Mrs. Leonard

Funeral services for Mrs. Carl Leonard, conducted yesterday at the family home, 3 Chester Place, followed by a requiem mass at St. Vincent's Church with Father Rootes officiating. The body was placed in the family vault in Calvary Cemetery.

Although Mrs. Leonard had been ill since the Christmas holidays, her friends and family believed her well on the road to recovery and her death last Thursday afternoon came as a shock.

Mrs. Leonard was born in Germany in 1860, emigrating from there as a bride more than forty-five years ago. She, with her husband, came to Texas where two daughters were born, Amy Leonard Powell, wife of Frank Powell, vice-president of the Southwestern Portland Cement Company, and Amy Leonard McGinnis, wife of F. R. McGinnis, assistant passenger traffic manager of the Southern Pacific. They moved to Los Angeles thirty-five years ago, where the husband, Carl Leonard, has taken part in the development of this section. Mr. Leonard was for many years one of the leading contractors of the West.

Mrs. Leonard was for many years a leading figure in the social and charitable life of Los Angeles, and active in philanthropic work.

Funeral services were: C. A. Fellows, Dwight Hart, Paul Lichtenberger, George Lichtenberger, C. Merrill and J. C. Chalmers. C. Merrill and J. C. Chalmers.

ALLIANCE TO PICNIC
Robert A. Gonzalez, president of the Spiritual Alliance, announced yesterday that his organization will give a picnic at 4713 Brooklyn avenue next Sunday, starting at 10 a.m. Addresses in English and Spanish will be given. The chief speaker will be Judge R. N. Matthews, who will read a letter from Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

STANFORD HUMBLER U.S.C. QUINTET IN EXTRA-PERIOD GAME, 25 TO 19

SCORE TIED, 18 TO 18 WHEN WHISTLE BLOWS Ending Work of McHose Brings Victory for Cards; Nevers Also Shows Class

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 26.—Breaking into its stride in the five-minute extra period, Stanford's basketball team ran wild to win from U.S.C. here tonight.

The extra game was a hard-fought battle, with Stanford leading 17-16 at the end of the first half. In the second half, Stanford's defense was particularly effective, forcing several turnovers from the Cards. The game was tied 18-18 when the whistle blew at the end of regulation time.

In the extra period, Capt. McHose, Stanford's star player, showed exceptional skill and class. He scored several key points, including a clutch shot in the final minutes of the game. Nevers, Stanford's other star, also contributed significantly to the victory.

The Cards, led by their star player, fought hard but were unable to overcome Stanford's defense. The game was a testament to the skill and teamwork of both teams, but Stanford's extra period performance proved to be the difference.

The victory for Stanford was a significant one, especially considering the extra period. The team's performance was praised by fans and coaches alike. The Cards, on the other hand, were disappointed but proud of their effort.

The game was a classic example of the intensity and excitement of college basketball. The extra period added to the drama, making it a memorable event for all who watched.

Stanford's victory was a morale booster for the team and its fans. It showed that the team was capable of performing under pressure and winning in the most difficult circumstances.

The Cards will be looking to bounce back in their next game. They know they were outplayed in the extra period and want to show that they are still a competitive team.

The game was a great example of the spirit and determination of college athletes. It was a hard-fought battle that went down to the wire.

Stanford's fans were cheering loudly throughout the game. They were especially proud of their team's performance in the extra period.

The Cards' fans were also cheering, but they were a bit disappointed with the outcome. They felt their team was outplayed in the extra period.

Bow to Pomona in Snappy Battle in Claremont Gym, 25 to 14; Lorbeer is High-Point Man

The speed of the Pomona basketball team was evident last night at Claremont, when the Aggies triumphed, 25 to 14, in easy fashion. Although pressed hard in the first half, the Pomona men hit their stride in the second period and played up a comfortable lead.

At the end of the first half Pomona led, 9 to 7, and Caltech, who were confident of victory, began to locate the hoop with frequency. In the second half, however, the Pomona team pulled away from their rivals.

Lorbeer was the high-point man for Caltech, while Pomona's high scorer was... The game was a snappy battle, with Pomona's speed being the key to their victory.

The Aggies' defense was particularly effective in the second half, forcing several turnovers from the Engineers. Pomona's offense was also in top form, scoring easily in the second period.

SETTLE GOLF TITLE TODAY

Sarazen and Havers Meet on Hillcrest Links

Play Final 36 Holes of Big International Match

That is, Unless the Rain Cums Things Up

BY CHARLES WEST
Providing Old Japs Finlay lets Sunny Southern California live up to its name, two of the greatest golfers in the history of the game will tee off this morning at the Hillcrest Country Club in the final thirty-six holes of a seventy-two-hole match play contest, in which the international championship is at stake.

American professional champion, and Arthur Havers, British open title holder, are the principals in the match, which has created more interest than any one golfing event ever stirred up before. Sarazen starts today's portion of the match with an advantage of three holes, obtained by expert use of his putter at the Lake Merced Golf and Country Club in San Francisco Friday. The Britisher is far from beaten, however, and a crowd of at least 1000 will undoubtedly be on hand to see the rival champions fight it out for the premier links honors of the world.

TUTS TO DECIDE
Ed Tutts, president of the U.S.G.A. and one of the referees in the thirty-six-hole battle, will give the climatic official inspection this morning, and if he decides that the rapidly approaching deluge will accommodate itself to the match, he will call it off for another twelve hours. The match is on, however, it will be held Wednesday, according to Robert Harlow, promoter of the contest.

Sarazen and Havers arrived yesterday from the scene of their aquatic endeavors in San Francisco, accompanied by Harlow, Jimmy Oakesden, French open champion and present caddy for Sarazen.

It is generally to be hoped that Arthur Havers will have managed to settle down to his real game of golf for the final thirty-six holes of his championship match with Sarazen. Havers is a far better golfer than he has been able to demonstrate in California so far, but he should be able to show his class at the Lake Merced Club Friday to indicate that he still can play great golf.

The manner in which the British champion fell down during the rain is something of a surprise, as he had been expected to feel right at home in the dampness, but to everybody's surprise Sarazen scored better in the day than Havers did. The arrangements at Hillcrest call for careful policing of the gallery by Hillcrest members. It is to be hoped that the crowd will be orderly and give everybody a chance to watch the champions play.

Andy Charlton, Australia's best amateur golfer, is expected to be in the gallery to watch the champions play. Charlton, who is a member of the Olympic team, is expected to be in the gallery to watch the champions play.

With few weeks ago, Sarazen made a sensational showing, a year ago by winning on one of the Australian courses, a world record for a new world's record for the half-mile.

Charlton's performance was a highlight of the game. He scored several key points, including a clutch shot in the final minutes of the game.

The Engineers will be looking to bounce back in their next game. They know they were outplayed in the second half and want to show that they are still a competitive team.

QUAKERS BEAT BULLDOGS

Whittier Basketeers Subdue Redlands Five in Hoop Contest by 17-to-11 Score

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
REDLANDS, Jan. 26.—Whittier trampled on the University of Redlands in basketball here tonight taking the conference game played at the Y.M.C.A. by a score of 17 to 11.

The Quakers took the lead early in the game and held it throughout, although soon after the second half started the Bulldogs climbed up within a point of the victors.

SWITCHES LINE-UP
Cushman made a change in his line-up for the game. Jeffers played less than two minutes of the game, Brown being sent in to play for the Quakers. Cushman used a number of combinations in an effort to stem the Quaker tide, but it was in vain.

Whittier exhibited something that Redlands lacked, two forwards who were shooting from difficult angles. The short-passing game of the Bulldogs did not seem to bother the Quakers although at times it was effective. The half ended with a score of ten to three in favor of Whittier. Three minutes after they started in the second half the Bulldogs had climbed up to ten and Whittier had made but one point in that time. Then Eckles and Rasmussen unhooked their topmost speed and sunk three baskets from difficult angles in a few minutes. The last four minutes of the game was played without either team scoring or getting many shots.

FREE THROWS POOR
The scoring from free throws was poor. Redlands made but five out of thirteen tries. Whittier but one out of eight chances. The scoring was:

Whittier: Brown (17), Eckles (10), Rasmussen (10), Jeffers (1), Cushman (1). Redlands: Brown (10), Eckles (10), Rasmussen (10), Jeffers (1), Cushman (1).

Southern Branch Quintet Trounces Bengals in Cage Game, 40 to 9

The local University of California basketball team swept the Occidental College players off their feet in the first half of last night's game at the Vermont avenue gym and the result was 40 to 9 victory for the Cubes. It was a plain case of massacre in the first session, the Bruins running up 29 points while the Tigers were running wild collecting a lone digit. At no time in the period did the Bengals even faintly resemble anything that looked like a good basketball outfit.

Capt. Bill Goetz and Herman Brown ran wild in the first twenty minutes, the latter being especially effective, scoring six field goals and two free throws. Brown was all over the floor and his shooting was uncanny.

The Tigers showed much better in the second half and when Johnson finally got a field goal the cry of joy was loud enough to be heard in Santa Monica. In justice to the Bengals it must be said that the Cubes had wonderful luck with their shots in the first session and didn't look nearly so good in the latter period.

In a preliminary game the Southern Branch Branch triumphed the Oxy post-grads 37 to 27, Dougherty making a whole raft of points in the second half when the Cubes looked hopeless.

Varsity line-up:
Cubs (40): Goetz (17), Brown (10), Johnson (10), Smith (1), Martin (1). Tigers (9): Johnson (9), Smith (1), Martin (1), Goetz (1), Brown (1).

GROWTH OF PASADENA RECALLS PIONEER DAYS

Nana Farming Adventurers Gave California Community Known Throughout World

(Picture in Photographic Section)

Many years ago today, on January 27, 1875, a little group of pioneers gathered on the gentle slope of Carmelita Hill, in the sagebrush, cactus and fragrant wild flowers, and established their ranches and homes in what is now Pasadena.

A century has wrought a great transformation, and today, a city of 60,000, in the heart of the nation, is known from one end of the globe to the other. Where the pioneers and the rattle-snake roamed, where the Indians lived through the thickets and the hills of sheep and cattle, today the slopes of the friend-ly mountains are covered with the beautiful homes and the business establishments of a modern city.

The growth of Pasadena is a story of the courage and vision of the pioneers who gave the city its name, and the story of the growth of a city from a small settlement to a great metropolis.

ALASKANS
IN UNIQUE DIVERSION

Pool for Nearest Guess on Break-up of Tanana River Goes to Winner

BY GEORGIA MAXWELL

Are your hunches good? How good? Accurate to the sixteenth part of an hour, so the sixteenth part of a minute? If they are, you can get $10,000—maybe more—by turning in on your hunch next April.

All you have to do is to predict what minute and second (not what month, or week, but minute and second) the ice is going out on the Tanana River, at Nenana, way up in the interior of Alaska.

This ice-pool at Nenana is one of the big excitements of northern Alaska each year. There are other pools, at Fairbanks and at various towns along the Yukon, but the ice-pool at Nenana is the peer of them all; last year the winner pulling down $16,000 cash.

This pool closes officially April 30, and the box of guesses, at one dollar per, is closed and sealed. Then the excitement begins. As in every year since the pool was started the ice has gone out between April 30 and May 12. And how is the break-up determined to the fraction of a minute? It is all accurate, and beyond the possibility of fraud, of chance. The first of April, a tripod is fixed into the ice. Exactly a hundred feet below the tripod, heavy wire is stretched across the river. This wire is connected to the power-house, and to a battery with an exceptionally big fuse, also with an alarm clock which is under lock and key.

All is now in readiness. It's up to the sun. As the time draws near, the water front is crowded, and the river is watched with eager, anxious eyes, each person's mind fixed on his own guess.

Sometime between April 30 and May 12, that tripod moves. The watchers hold their breath. Slowly, slowly, inexorably it moves. It hits the wire. The wire lights. The fuse is pulled, the click in the powerhouse steps on the second, the whistle on the powerhouse blows long and loud. Who has won? Who has guessed nearest the hour, the minute, the second? Some one has. The time has all ways been guessed within one or two minutes, often one or two seconds. Sometimes one person wins the whole amount, sometimes the prize money is split three or four ways, if some group wished to put their money in that way.

But fate plays no favorites. Last year there was an old man, ill, and in a hospital. In need. The $10,000 to him would have been a godsend. He missed it by less than half a minute. But it fate plays no favorites, at least it champions its own, for no Chechaco has ever won the pool. Of course an outsider can watch conditions closely—does not know how severe the winter has been, how many warm days (comparatively warm) have preceded April 30, how thick is the ice, what conditions com-

Out in the Palo Verde Valley, once desert but now irrigated farm land, there are some 8000 forward-looking citizens who have been trying for years to get better methods of communication with the outside world. They are barred from it now by one of the few remaining western deserts, as the valley lies along the Colorado River about midway north from Yuma, Ariz., to Parker. There is arid land north and south, and an arid stretch on the Arizona side of the river, and the only traveled automobile road running west into the upper portion of the Imperial Valley also passes through a district that has its horrors in the summer months. They are the largest community in California not served by the highway system.

Because of this condition the people of the valley have had to rely for years upon rail transportation, supplied originally by the California Southern Railroad Company, which has lately been absorbed by the Santa Fe system.

The valley has organized and is trying hard to get the Highway Commission of the State of California, and the Supervisors of Riverside county, to join with the highway authorities of Arizona in paving the road from Phoenix west across the Colorado at Blythe to join existing California paved highways at Mecca. In so doing they are urging the construction of a bridge across the Colorado River at Ehrenberg, which is a ferry point three miles from Blythe.

The valley people are basing their plea upon not only the evident needs of their own section, but also the needs of the nation.

RAIL BOARD PROBLEM IS METER CASE

Consumer Frequently Ignorant of Intent to Defraud Company

"Among the most delicate problems with which the State Railroad Commission is confronted is a case in which the amount involved is usually comparatively small," said Examiner E. B. Williams, speaking generally of the work of the commission during the past year.

The class of cases alluded to is that in which a utility company finds that a consumer has been receiving service and that the commodity has not been passing through the meter provided for that purpose. Companies dislike to prosecute these cases, Mr. Williams said, because of the chance that the present consumer may be entirely ignorant of the condition and because of the difficulty of securing convictions in any case.

Many ways have been devised, some of them extremely ingenious, in which meters can be beaten, and in cases where there is clear evidence of intention to defraud, the consumer is usually willing to settle quietly on the basis of the company's estimated bill.

Occasionally it happens that a meter has been tampered with by a prior tenant and the present consumer is entirely innocent and genuinely unaware that he is receiving more service than he is paying for. In other cases, consumers realize that their bills are too small and advise the company accordingly. The trouble is investigated and corrected and a compromise is usually reached on the total amount estimated to be due.

In a recent case it was discovered that an electric meter accounted for only half the current used in a building. As the landlady was obviously unaware of the condition and would have used much less light if she had known the true cost, the company compromised the matter by rebating half the amount estimated to be due.

SCIENTIST BRINGS DEAD
BEETLES BACK TO LIFE

Drowned Ladybirds Revived by Use of Salt; Resurrection of Humans Is Forecast

BY RANSOME SUTTON

In this article we shall venture close to the boundary line between life and death—the bourn from whence no travelers have returned, unless perchance my Ladybird beetles may have done so. I shall state the facts and leave readers to draw their own conclusions.

Mankind has always been peculiarly interested in beetles. The Egyptians worshipped "Scarab," which are scavenger beetles, called tumble bugs. There are good and bad beetles, but the best of all the species are the ladybirds, immortalized by Mother Goose:

"Ladybird, ladybird, fly away home;
Your house is on fire, your children will burn."
Though popularly called ladybugs, the right name is ladybird. Ladybirds are doing more for California than their ancestors ever did for Egypt; for if they should go on a strike, our oranges, lemons and grapefruit would be devoured by aphides and mealy bugs. Ladybirds lay their eggs in the nests of the lice and scale pests, so that when the eggs hatch the larvae find themselves surrounded by living food of the only kind they can eat. For the juices of the pests are to larval ladybirds what milk is to human babes. Female ladybirds will die sooner than lay eggs anywhere than in the nests of the pests.

DOG SHOW TO SET RECORD

More Than 205 Shepherds to Be Entered for Exhibit Saturday; $3000 in Prizes Offered

With entries totaling more than 205 dogs a new record has been set in the entries for the third annual Shepherd Dog Show. Some of the finest-bred Shepherd dogs in the West are to be entered in this exhibit, according to Mrs. Elliott Dexter, president of the Shepherd Dog Club of the West, the organization sponsoring this exhibit, which will be held in Hollywood next Saturday.

The American entry mark for the shepherd-dog shows was set in New York in 1922, but this show will surpass that mark considerably and it is expected to more than equal any shepherd-dog show ever held.

The exhibit is being held under the rules of the American Kennel Club. Prizes totaling in value more than $3000 will be distributed.

Though this is but the third show given by the Shepherd-Dog Club of the West, it bids fair to attract dog lovers from all over the West. As it was found impossible to bring all the remarkable dogs of the West together for any long period, this show will be held for one day only and will be opened from 9 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 at night.

Thirty classes of shepherd dogs will be entered. Every person entering a dog will be awarded an autographed picture of Strongheart, the dog which was the first to be entered in the show.

CONVENTION OF FLORISTS HEREMeeting to be Three Days in AugustHeadquarters and Show at AmbassadorMany Other Organizations to Gather

The national convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists is to be held from August 19 to 21 inclusive. It is expected that about 1500 people will attend. Meeting with this association will be the Ladies' Society of American Florists, which numbers 300.

Fifty-five local florists and horticulturists are working out arrangements for the affair. John Young of New York City, national secretary of the association, has been in Los Angeles on arrangements.

ARTISTS EXPECTED

According to Charles A. Cooke of the convention department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, this convention will probably be one of the most artistic events in Southern California this year. It is the intention of the committee to use the house show arena at the Ambassador for the trade exhibits, while the grounds at the Ambassador are to be landscaped and planted with flowers especially for the occasion.

Headquarters for the convention will be at the Ambassador, and the convention sessions will be held in the theater and hotel. It has been agreed among the local growers that they will do their planting so that their flower fields will be in blossom at the time of the convention. Roy E. Wilson of Montebello is general chairman of arrangements.

VISITORS ATTRACTED

Mr. Cooke also announced that other conventions scheduled to meet in Los Angeles between now and September will bring no less than 35,000 visitors. Following are the conventions booked by the chamber bureau for the next twelve months:

Second annual Western Radio and Electrical Exposition, February 1-10; Common Brick Manufacturers' Association, February 11-12; National Surety Company, agency convention, February 13; Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, regional, February 13-15; Third annual Horse Show, February 16 to March 1; California State Credit Union Association, first week in March; Southern California Retail Hardware Association, March 11-13; Associated and Constables Association of Southern California, April; Savings Banks of Southwest, February 13-15; National City Planning Conference, April 7-10; Volunteers of America, national conference, May 1-5; Order of the Broom, May 1-5; California Selective Draft Association, May 14-16; American Veterans of World War, May 16-18; National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association, Western zone, May; Western Traffic Conference, regional, May; General Federation of Women's Clubs, national, June 1-3; California Shoe Retailers' Association, June 3-11; National Live Stock Exchange, May 12-13; National Association of Retail Grocers, June 14-17; National Association of Life Underwriters, July 12-15; Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, agency convention, July 12-15; Mutual Life Insurance Company, agency convention, July 12-15; International Association of Photo Engravers, July.

JOINT-EASE For Stiff, Swollen JointsRheumatic or Otherwise
Says: "When Joint-Ease Gets in—Joint Agony Gets Out."

It was a high-class pharmacist who saw prescription after prescription fail to help hundreds of his customers to get rid of rheumatic swellings and stiff inflamed joints.

And it was this same man who asserted that a remedy could and should be compounded that would make creaky, swollen, tormented joints work with just as much smoothness as they ever did.

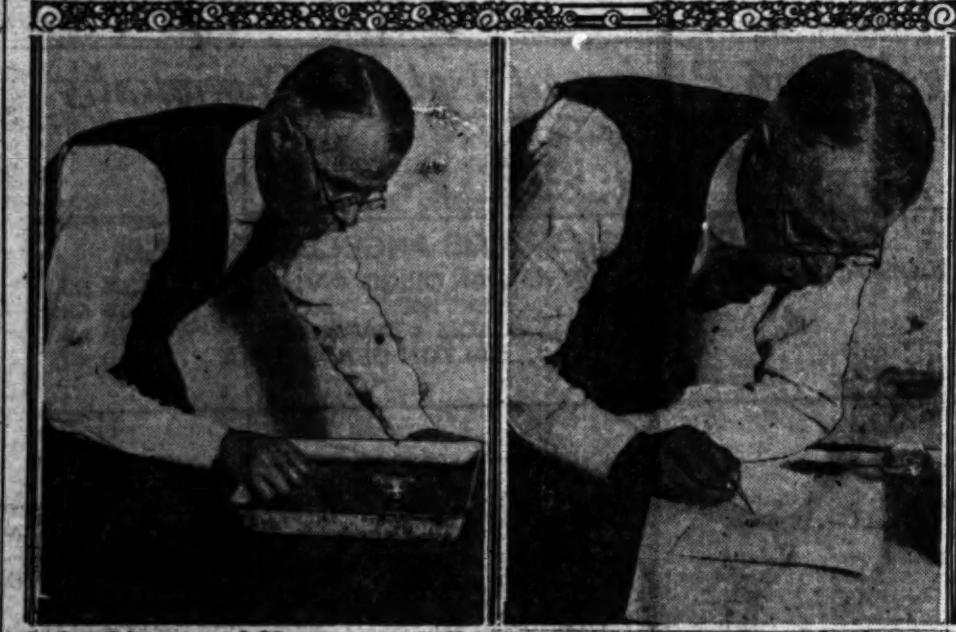

Now, this prescription, rightly named Joint-Ease, after being tested successfully on many obstinate cases, is offered through progressive pharmacists to the millions of people who suffer from ailing joints that need limbering up.

Swollen, twingy, inflamed, stiff, pain-tormented joints are usually caused by rheumatism, but whatever the cause Joint-Ease soaks right in, through skin and flesh and gets right to work and corrects the trouble at its source.

Remember Joint-Ease is for ailments of the joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, spine or finger, and when you rub it on, you may expect speedy and gratifying results.

It is now on sale at druggists everywhere for 50 cents a tube.—[Advertisement.]

Journeys Into Realm of Death and Back

Mortality is Deified

Ransome Spitton revives air-breathing insects after they have been "dead" for several days.

The meaty bug is that its progeny feeds upon our lemons and oranges. One of the finest things we can say about mother mealy bugs is that they give both their bodies and souls for their babies—ugly little creatures, which the mothers never see. For the larvae of eggs is the meaty bug's last act; beside the cluster of roundish little eggs, her spent body breaks down, unscathed, turns to cotton and this cotton—the web and wool of her tissues—serves as swaddling clothes for her young. Under the cotton covering, among the meaty bugs' unhatched eggs, ladybird mothers deposit their own—like cuckoos, which lay their eggs in other birds' nests.

In larval form, ladybirds are bizarre, caterpillar-like creatures, born with ravenous appetites and, for about thirty days, they do nothing but eat and grow. Then they pupate, change into adult ladybirds, lay eggs and die. Those eggs hatch, live larval lives, pupate, lay eggs and likewise die. Throughout the summer, the same life-cycle is repeated; but the last brood of each season (usually the fourth brood) neither lays eggs nor dies. This whole brood simply vanishes away. At the present time, not a living ladybird of the kind that devours aphides exists in the orchards. But each spring, the ladybirds come back—from where? Where do they go in the fall and how do they spend their winters? A. H. Tolhurst, who produces motion pictures in the field of their life histories, undertook to find answers to these questions.

WINTER IN SNOW

From Mr. Esler, at the La-Manda Park Insectary, we learned that the ladybirds spend the winter in hibernating resorts above the snow line on the Sierras. The entomologist of Ventura county, Mr. Call, put us in touch with Calvin Hatcher, a twing man who makes trips to the hibernating grounds and brings back ladybirds by the basketful. He sells to citrus growers for $100 per million. For years he has prospectured for ladybirds "mines," as mine prospectors call them, and has located four "bug mines," as he calls them—two in canyons near the top of Topo-Topo Mountain, one at Arroyo Hill, and the fourth on the Big Seeps.

With Mr. Hatcher as guide, Mr. Tolhurst, Mr. Esler and myself left Santa Paula on the morning of the 5th inst., rode horseback over the head of Santa Paula Canyon, camped in snow on a ledge about 7000 feet high, the steep sides of the narrow canyon being checker-boarded with patches of green and snow. In the bottom of the canyon, on a V-shaped bed at a point where two gulches run together, we found the ladybirds. They were in a bed no larger than a city lot. The figures are fairly accurate, for we filled a bag from one square foot, gauged them by Mr. Hatcher's measure, and multiplied the number by the number of square feet in the bed. What we did not do, however, was to estimate the number of ladybirds underground. To a depth of several inches the soil consists of vegetable mold, honeycombed with living and dead beetles.

MORTALITY GREAT

The ladybirds have selected a very cold and desolate place for their winter sleep. But it is a safe place, for as their worst enemies are concerned, for nowhere in Rattlesnake Canyon did we see a single ant, and we saw only one small bird. Not until about 12 o'clock did the sun strike down into the bottom of the canyon; an hour later the sun had set. During the warm, sunshiny hours, the ladybirds awoke from their frozen sleep, seethed upward in great masses here and there, presenting a scene which can better be imagined than described. Counting those that burrow in the ground, as well as those that lie under the vines and leaves on the surface, there must be more ladybirds in that V-shaped bed than there are human beings on the whole earth. Across the gulches, a ladybird was found, but in this strange, selected bed—millions upon millions.

So to Rattlesnake Canyon, and similar hibernating grounds, the ladybirds go in the fall, place themselves in cold storage during the winter, the out come find their way back into the orchards in the spring. Nine-tenths of them probably never return; they are too weak, for they need a tough food from the time they leave the orchards until they come back in the spring.

Plainly, the mortality is very great, for the surface soil consists of beetle ash, wings and legs. Many questions arise, but the question that interests me most was: How do the hibernating insects escape drowning in the spring, when for at least an hour or longer every day, the grounds must be flooded with melting snow-water. For ladybird beetles possess no aquatic equipment, such as water-born insects have; they are air-breathers, purely and simply and if submerged long enough they drown the same as all other land animals. To be true, they do not breathe through their mouths, but by means of air-tubes, which arise as inpinnings of their chitinous skin, and ramify to every nook and corner of the body. But in both cases the process is the same—the getting of oxygen out of the air to keep the fire of life burning. If the supply of oxygen be shut off, the fires go out and the outcome is death, the one on will argue, therefore, that air-breathing beetles cannot be drowned. Then what keeps them from drowning when the snow melts on Topo-Topo and the canyon sides in the spring?

BEGINS EXPERIMENT

I brought a supply of ladybirds home, placed a dozen in a small hour-glass and submerged it in a basin of water. As every body knows, insects live longer under water than mouth-breathing animals, because the surrounding water imprisons a small amount of air in the tubes, and they do not drown until the oxygen in the imprisoned air becomes exhausted. After an hour and fifteen minutes, however, the immersed ladybirds collapsed. To make sure of this, I placed them on a piece of paper in the sun and watched them see if any "came to." After waiting for what seemed a reasonable time, without observing any signs of life, I covered them with a moist table salt; for it has long been known that salt exerts a peculiar effect upon life processes. A frog's heart, for example, can be kept beating for hours, after being removed from the frog's body, by letting salt water drop upon it. Despite this virtue of salt, however, I could hardly believe my eyes, when all of the drowned ladybirds promptly "came to."

I repeated the experiment time after time, extending the period of immersion up to thirty-six hours. Fifty ladybirds were submerged in the thirty-six-hour test, and after the first hour all appeared to be dead. Toward the end of the test, some of the insects began sinking to the bottom; these had turned several shades darker, and had begun to about half their normal size. The others still floated against the screen, but they were not as buoyant as before. Toward the end of the test, the shrunken beetles, weighing now more than the water displaced by their bodies, sank to the bottom. By the end of the thirty-six hours, twelve lay on the bottom of the basin. Thinking these were dead, I placed them on a clean sheet of paper in the sun, divided into four lots:

In Lot 1, I laid fifteen and covered them with salt.

In Lot 2, I left fifteen drowned beetles without any covering of salt.

In Lot 3, I placed six of the twelve which had sunk and covered them with salt.

In Lot 4, I placed the other six that had sunk, and did not cover them with salt.

The eight remaining ladybirds were used in a different kind of experiment.

For two hours, not a leg nor an antennae quivered; then those in Lot 1 began to "come to," and during the next half hour all of the salt-covered insects were restored to life, whereas only seven of the fifteen unsalted ones ever recovered.

The power of salt was better shown in lots 3 and 4, and in the twelve ladybirds that had sunk, after floating against the screen for two nights and a day, it did not act quickly, however, as the lot of the twelve stirred up to midnight, when I went to bed. Over each of the two lots, I stood a glass, so that if perchance any should revive, there would be no question as to which lot it belonged. As they appeared at midnight, any Coroner's jury in the land would have pronounced both lots irretrievably dead. Entomologists would hardly have recognized these almost black and shrunken bodies the beautifully marked ladybirds, since they seemed to have lost both their dignity and their life in the water.

The next morning, however, under the glass which covered the salted creatures, I found all six crawling around, as if nothing unusual had happened, but under the other glass not one of the six unsalted insects showed the faintest signs of life. I kept this lot six in a safe place forty-eight hours longer, when it became evident they were hopelessly dead.

CYANIDE RESISTED

The strangest part of this story has not yet been told; it has to do with the fate of the eight ladybirds, which were not used in the experiments referred to. I took the eight from the water in which they had been immersed for thirty-six hours, and corked them in a cyanide bottle for five minutes—I wanted to find out if drowned insects, if they breathed, would however slightly, they would inhale the fumes of the cyanide and die instantly, for a single inhalation of cyanide stops the beating of the human heart. If they had already ceased to breathe, it seemed barely possible that the deadly fumes would not have taken into their system and that, therefore, they might be restored to life.

Removing them from the cyanide bottle, I placed four in plain water and covered them with salt, leaving the other four uncovered. The salt-covered four all recovered; not one of the other four ever recovered. The experiments are simple; they can be repeated by anyone, and any kind of hard-shelled insects can be used, if ladybirds are not available. What light the results throw upon the question of life and death, I do not know, nor I have been able to find out, by consulting scientists who have explained the facts to experts at the insectories, to doctors, biologists and others—all expressed great surprise, save one entomologist, who suggested that beetles can hibernate under water. This may be true—until they drown.

At the time of the experiment, I was not aware of the fact that the insects which do not hibernate, such as house flies, likewise respond to the action of salt.

I think Dr. Millikan (this year's winner of the Nobel prize in physics) will not object to a quotation from his letter. After referring to the effect of salt water on insects, he writes: "The effect of salt in facilitating life processes is, therefore, very marked in a number of cases. I limit myself to one example to offer, because I have myself made no serious studies in the realm of biophysics. Whether the phenomenon, which we have observed, is new or not, I am quite unable to say. It is certainly most interesting. Drop a line to Dr. Jacques Loeb, Rockefeller Institute, for Meigs Research, New York City, and ask him if it is new."

It was Dr. Jacques Loeb who succeeded in hatching unfertilized frog's eggs, by pricking them with a needle and immersing them in salt water. Putting salt on wet insects would result in filling their flooded air-tubes with a saline solution, and the only explanation I can offer is that the saline solution and the cells lining the tubes, chemical reactions may have occurred and started the stalled clock-work going.

Another question likewise leads to the vital question as to whether ladybirds are alive or dead during their long frozen sleep. At an elevation of between 4000 and 5000 feet, the below-zero temperature in which they sleep night after night, for weeks at a time without thawing, freezes them stone still. In our camp, a half inch of ice froze the ground, and the insects were eating breakfast.

Insects, as well as ourselves, are composed of protoplasmic cells, and these cells, if they should not be stopped and started up anew, there seems to be no reason why human cells should not similarly respond to proper stimulation.

VALLEY SEEKS

but also the claim established by the surveys that such a route would materially shorten the distance from Arizona and southern points to Los Angeles and Southern California generally. The map reproduced herewith shows that the distance from Los Angeles to Phoenix by the three recognized existing routes is in every instance at least ninety miles more than the Mecca-to-Blythe route.

On a paved road, taking out old curves and twists, the distance would be much greater. Furthermore, they point out, while there will remain a space of desert to be crossed by this route, there is less desert mileage than on any of the other routes. As the map indicates, there are at present three recognized routes from the southern portion of the country, all of them coming west through Phoenix and diverging, the first at Palo Verde south by the Bankhead Trail and north by the Sunkist Trail and the National Old Trails Route; these two routes again dividing at Victorburg, the more direct one being that portion of the Sunkist Trail that is the Mecca-to-Blythe road, and the northern route going further north and crossing the Colorado either by ferry at Parker or by bridge at Topock.

to-Blythe project has been carried on for years. That section has sent its delegations to Legislature and at a couple of sessions have received legislative encouragement, but economy in State funds subsequently caused the necessary funds to be withheld. It has been included in the State highway system and $200,000 State bond funds allotted to it. At the last session of the legislature the matter again came before the lawmakers, but the anti-bond measures of the State budget system prevented an allowance being made.

FINANCING CONSIDERED

Thereafter, the interested people succeeded in getting the Highway Commission and Gov. Richardson to tour the road in company with Riverside county and Arizona officials, and after all of them had seen the good that would result to the people of the valley, as well as to the incoming tourists, they took steps to find funds for the necessary work. Chairman Toy of the State Highway Commission recently said some money would soon be made available.

Opposition of the road have called attention to the necessity for ferrying the river at Ehrenburg. The valley people have met this criticism by saying that today it is the only road open the year round, and by causing preliminary surveys to be made for construction of a bridge over the Colorado between the States of California and Arizona. They say that statistics have shown that the Colorado River has remained below its flood stage at Ehrenburg since 1916.

RIVER TAMED

This, they say, is a very strong factor in forming a certainty that the bridge should be built at Ehrenburg. They say it is the only place along the Colorado River in this section where performance has proved that the river would stay under the bridge. The Colorado, one of the few outflow rivers of the country, has a habit of moving from place to place unexpectedly, and that is the principal reason that engineers fear to attempt to bridge it.

In addition to giving an outlet for the products of the Palo Verde Valley, and providing a short route from points East to the Coast, the valley people say that the project is a very important one, as it will aid in the reclamation of the district which now lies almost entirely under the water of the Colorado.

They say that wherever good roads have gone through land of this character, the requirements of the valley have been met, and that the valley people have proved that the project is a very important one, as it will aid in the reclamation of the district which now lies almost entirely under the water of the Colorado.

When it is built, the pioneers who reclaimed that portion of the desert will again be in close touch with the outside world and will see some future hope for better returns on their labor than the past has produced.

When it is built, the pioneers who reclaimed that portion of the desert will again be in close touch with the outside world and will see some future hope for better returns on their labor than the past has produced.

to-Blythe project has been carried on for years. That section has sent its delegations to Legislature and at a couple of sessions have received legislative encouragement, but economy in State funds subsequently caused the necessary funds to be withheld. It has been included in the State highway system and $200,000 State bond funds allotted to it. At the last session of the legislature the matter again came before the lawmakers, but the anti-bond measures of the State budget system prevented an allowance being made.

Thereafter, the interested people succeeded in getting the Highway Commission and Gov. Richardson to tour the road in company with Riverside county and Arizona officials, and after all of them had seen the good that would result to the people of the valley, as well as to the incoming tourists, they took steps to find funds for the necessary work. Chairman Toy of the State Highway Commission recently said some money would soon be made available.

Opposition of the road have called attention to the necessity for ferrying the river at Ehrenburg. The valley people have met this criticism by saying that today it is the only road open the year round, and by causing preliminary surveys to be made for construction of a bridge over the Colorado between the States of California and Arizona. They say that statistics have shown that the Colorado River has remained below its flood stage at Ehrenburg since 1916.

This, they say, is a very strong factor in forming a certainty that the bridge should be built at Ehrenburg. They say it is the only place along the Colorado River in this section where performance has proved that the river would stay under the bridge. The Colorado, one of the few outflow rivers of the country, has a habit of moving from place to place unexpectedly, and that is the principal reason that engineers fear to attempt to bridge it.

In addition to giving an outlet for the products of the Palo Verde Valley, and providing a short route from points East to the Coast, the valley people say that the project is a very important one, as it will aid in the reclamation of the district which now lies almost entirely under the water of the Colorado.

They say that wherever good roads have gone through land of this character, the requirements of the valley have been met, and that the valley people have proved that the project is a very important one, as it will aid in the reclamation of the district which now lies almost entirely under the water of the Colorado.

Bernardo Exhibits to be Larger Than Ever

Governor to be Honor Guest on February 16

Mandarin Decorations for Hugo Fruit Tent

Richardson will be the guest of honor at the fourteenth annual Orange Show on Saturday, February 16, in company with several hundred editors of the State, who will be in session in San Bernardino, according to announcement by R. H. Mack, general manager of the citrus classic. It will be a Governor and Editorial Day at the exposition.

Special excursions are being arranged from the Santa Monica pier and from Long Beach. Excursions are being arranged by Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs of the south half of the State, special days being arranged for each of these clubs. Last year's record of almost a quarter of a million persons in attendance at the show is expected to be broken, if there is no rain.

All of the great tents are now in place. They cover forty acres of the fair grounds. The work of decorating the interior of the fruit tent has begun. The scheme of decoration is being completed. The tent will be a masterpiece of Chinese architecture. Incense pots will be burning all the while. Attendants will be dressed in Chinese costumes. Many of the exhibitors will carry out the Chinese idea in their displays. To have a surprise in store for the Orange Show visitors," declares the manager, "our exhibit is about complete, and will be transported to the Orange Show in a few days. We expect to win first prize for our exhibit."

General Manager R. H. Mack announces that there is no more room in the big fruit tent, and that the exhibit will have more space than ever before. Seventeen exhibitors have been entered in the fruit tent class. All rack displays are gone, which means that there will be more than five million oranges, lemons and grapefruit on display anywhere.

The Santa Monica Band, under the direction of Tommasini, will head the parade. The band is augmented by musicians for the Orange Show. In addition to the National Band, a Mexican orchestra from Mexico City will be a feature. The attraction is the girl's orchestra, a quartet and soloists. The band will play a carnival company, will operate the Orange Show grounds to the benefit of those who are in the carnival spirit.

MAKOTANS TO FROLIC

Who ever lived in North Dakota invited to meet for a picnic all day, Saturday, February 1, in a Spangrove Grove Park, Los Angeles. There will be no charge and no headquarters.

There will be a brief program of about 5 o'clock. All the time and visitors from the old State as well as our residents are invited. Coffee will be served for all. Further information may be had of the secretary, R. H. Harold, 697-701 or R. Parsons, phone 473-511.

nursery of tropical fruit and other trees.

There will be planted during the first season five acres of grape cuttings—one-half for raisins and one-half for wine, one acre of orange trees and twenty acres of wheat, on each tract of land. In planting the wheat, however, boundary lines will not be considered, but it will be put in, in one tract of say, 1000 acres. During the second season five acres more of grapes, one acre more of fruit trees, and twenty acres more of wheat on each tract will be put in, and so on each season the number of acres of each variety of cultivation will be increased.

To create a fund to meet these expenses, assessments will be made on each member as follows: June 1, 1923, $10; July 1, 1923, $10; August 1, 1923, $10; September 1, 1923, $10—total $40—and thereafter on the first day of each month an assessment of like amount, or if found necessary, $15.50 per month will be made.

When the first four assessments have been paid in, the pioneer party, composed of one of the executive committee and a director in the member of the colony) will start for the lands purchased and commence operations at once. This party will be empowered by the executive committee to purchase implements, seed, etc., and hire sufficient labor for the proper cultivation above mentioned.

INCREASES AREA

All money received from the sale of groups will be paid over to the Treasurer and applied to the expenses of cultivation, thereby largely increasing the area of land brought under cultivation each season, and decreasing, if not wholly extinguishing, the monthly assessments.

After two seasons of the above described gradual cultivation and partial preparation of the lands for those members remaining at home, a certain time shall be set by vote of the colonists themselves, for allotting to each member his particular farm and town lots in the following manner, viz: As soon as the "pioneer" party arrive on the grounds, they will lay off the town into 100 lots of 300 square feet, so that each lot will have a frontage on a street, a lot of eight acres being reserved in the center for public purposes. Then the farms are to be laid off into tracts of forty, eighty and 160 acres. An average valuation for forty acres and a town lot, shall be placed upon the farms and town lots, then all those subscribing for forty acres and a town lot, shall pay the difference in money; those getting one of the greater valuations than the average, shall pay the difference. In like manner will the distribution be made of the eighty and 160-acre tracts, among those subscribing for eighty or 160 acres. But it is intended that each member (classified according to the number of acres subscribed for) shall receive a farm and town lot as nearly equal in value as may be.

After such allotment, all the tools, implements, stock, etc., heretofore purchased and owned by the colony, shall be sold, and the proceeds, together with any other surplus money on hand at that time, divided equally among the members.

ARRANGEMENTS CHANGED

After this time each member shall cultivate and take charge of his own place, the colony, as an association being dissolved, unless the members shall see fit to continue the organization for other purposes.

The following is a list of the members of the executive committee:

CRITIC LAUDS ART WORK

Miniature Portraits by Mrs. Smith Clark Win Praise of Count Chabrier of France

Two miniature portraits, exhibited recently by Mrs. M. Beatrice Smith Clark in the Museum at Exposition Park, have won high praise from Count Chabrier, one of the foremost of French art critics. Chabrier viewed the miniatures while on a tour of Southern California.

Writing in the Review of Truth and Beauty of Paris, upon his return to France, the famous critic says:

"In the section of miniatures I was particularly interested in the works exhibited by M. Beatrice Smith Clark. These consisted of two portraits of women, one of Mrs. H. Snowden Marshall and one of Mrs. Laura Armstrong. Both of these were executed with fineness and a rare stroke of the brush. The artist has given a magnificent and intelligent interpretation of the subjects."

Mrs. Clark has exhibited her works throughout the country and art critics uniformly have declared her portraits to rank with the masterpieces of the French and European. She came to California in 1921 and makes her home at 4818 West Second street.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in finding suitable land for at that time it was held chiefly in great ranches, with few water systems developed, and with grazing the principal industry. Then the panic of 1923 came along and left the committee stranded in Los Angeles with $150 in cash and no land purchased for the future colonists, who were anxiously waiting for news in their Indianapoli.

However, the project was not abandoned. Other fortune seekers had come to Los Angeles in search of wealth and some of them joined the Indianapoli men in their efforts to find suitable land for the colony. Benjamin S. Eaton, who was familiar with the San Pasqual Ranch, interested himself in the Indianapoli venture and convinced the committee that he had found the land they were looking for. The price was considerably higher than that stipulated in the agreement, so a reorganization was believed to be necessary. A meeting of those interested in the modified project was held in Los Angeles on November 18, 1923, and the San Gabriel Orange Grove Association was organized. It was then decided to purchase the interest of Dr. J. S. Griffin in the San Pasqual Ranch, consisting of about 4000 acres. On December 25, 1923, the purchase was completed at the price being $25,000 for 2,933.33 acres or at the rate of $17 an acre.

The next step was the sending of messages to Indianapoli of the action of the new organization, and early in the new year the colonists arrived in Los Angeles and on January 27, 1924, they selected their homes.

Having succeeded in getting a start, the colony grew steadily, developing its agricultural interests and in time taking on the semblance of a town. Until 1925 it was known as the Indiana Colony but at that time it was necessary to select a permanent name for its new home. The name "Pasadena" was chosen through the efforts of Dr. Elliott and was suggested by a friend in Michigan who submitted it to the colonists with several other names of Indian origin. Pasadena, meaning Crown of the Valley, was the one chosen.

Pasadena's remarkable growth during the past fifty years are familiar to all. It is visited annually by thousands of easterners and each year hundreds establish their homes in its hospitable atmosphere. Its famous Tournament of Roses, held annually on New Year's Day, is known all over the world, and this year's event was of special significance because it ushered in Pasadena's jubilee year. This year is to be celebrated by many different ways in Pasadena but today, Founder's Day, many Pasadenans are thinking of how the colony came to be established by those men and women of half a century ago who were proud to be known as "just out from Indianapoli."

Mrs. Boyle Workman Chosen Organization's President

An additional instructor has been assigned to the California Hut for disabled soldiers by the Board of Education, and the directors of the Hut are seeking to enlarge it by erecting another building. The Hut is used by disabled soldiers as a clearinghouse and display room for articles made by them. Products from Sawtelle, Barstow, Arrowhead and Whipple Barracks sold for $1985.18 in December.

At a recent meeting, officers and directors of the California Hut were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Boyle Workman; vice-president, C. Stanley Chapman; Mrs. Charles W. Decker; H. L. Snyder, Col. Arthur Williams; secretary, Miss Olive Leroy; treasurer, Victor R. Rosetti; other directors, Allan B. Bixby, Lem Brunson, Percy Weidner and Mrs. Seward Warwick.

The directors also are seeking contributions of materials, such as uniforms and woolen bathrobes which can be worked over by the workers.

University Is to Boost Music for Community

A community music conference will inaugurate the active program of the recently established department of community service of the University of Southern California, the conference to be held Monday evening, February 4, in the Touchstone Theater on the campus, University avenue at Thirty-fifth street. This theater is the old college chapel and is equipped with a pipe organ for musical productions.

Miss Nadine Crump, superintendent of the new department, announced yesterday that the musical conference will be the first of a series in which prominent people will take part and to which the public is invited.

Dr. Sigmund Spaeth of New York City, an outstanding figure in the world of music, will be one of the speakers and the conference will also mark the appearance of Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of the Hollywood Bowl concert who has recently returned from a tour of the eastern cities where she has made a special study of community music. While in the East Mrs. Carter addressed many municipal and musical organizations.

Alexander Stewart, executive director of the Civic Music and Art Association of Los Angeles, will make a short address in which he will outline the work of the organization.

Community singing will be a feature of the evening.

POLICE SEIZE SUSPECT

John F. Schleyer, asserted bandit, was arrested yesterday by Detective Lieutenants Bartley, Shannon and Cahill and lodged in the City Jail on suspicion of robbery.

blined, tend to make that tripod start.

Table looks simple. No so many days to choose from—only twelve. And not so many hours. Never yet earlier than 8 in the morning, not yet later than 2:23 in the afternoon. But yet, if you put a dollar on every minute, and on every second of that time, you'll put up quite a bit of money—and maybe miss it by days this time. For with the many earthquakes, both in Japan and in Alaska, the Japan current is changing, and is said to be doing strange things to Alaska this year. By the time you decide on second that the ice is going out, it may be out, and the people of Nennu may be planting oranges, and The Tavern, that wonderful place to eat, may be serving avocadoes and chicken, instead of delicious ptarmigan, moose steaks and caribou.

ALASKAN PIONEER DIES

News of St. George's Demise Is Wirelessly to Wife

A wireless message from Alaska yesterday carried to Mrs. Harry E. St. George, 1114 Western avenue, news of the sudden death of her husband, Harry E. St. George, while traveling aboard an Alaskan steamer approaching Juneau, Alaska. The death occurred suddenly at 10 o'clock, Friday night, and was due to a heart attack.

Mr. St. George was one of the earliest of Alaskan pioneers, and was widely known among former residents of the North. He was 55 years of age, and was born in Racine, Wis. Surviving him are Mrs. St. George and six children.

TRAVEL BUREAU REPORTS SHOW MANY GOING TO PARIS GAMES

Travel to Europe from Southern California is exceedingly heavy this season, according to the B. F. Robertson Travel Bureau. Many of these tourists plan to attend the Olympic Games in Paris, the French Exposition at London, and the Tulliteen Games in Ireland. Among those from Los Angeles who will leave for Europe soon are: Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. J. J. Carter, Mrs. Peter James, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Haldeman, Miss Dorothy Haldeman, Harry F. TO REPLACE TREES AT MALIBU LAKE

CLUB MEMBERS ARE URGED TO AID IN WORK OF REFORESTATION

Because a large number of trees were cut out of the bed of the Malibu Lake Club's artificial body of water which is being constructed in the Calabasas Mountains, President B. D. Lackey has called upon all the members to plant at least one tree on the big fish and game preserve, which is within thirty-eight miles of Los Angeles. Hundreds of trees were cut down along Malibu Creek where the lake bed will be and it is the desire to replace these along the lakeshore so as to keep up the average forestation and further beautify the lake.

Dr. George P. Clements, manager of the Chamber of Commerce agricultural department will be asked as the honor guest of the occasion and deliver a talk on the planting and care of trees.

REPORTED MISSING

Possibly Germany's hidden gold is at the end of the rainbow, which no one has ever been able to find.

THEY COME AND GO

The man who put his housework on a business basis and paid his wife wages of $100 a month added the familiar remark that it was mighty hard to keep a good one at that. And he was right.

POOR OLD MISSOURI

It is declared that Senator Jim Reed will be offered as the Missouri candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency and that he will have the backing of the Hearst papers—whatever that is worth in Missouri. This will be a slap on the wrist of Woodrow Wilson, but otherwise can have no effect on the fortunes of either Jim Reed or Missouri.

OH, DOCTOR!

There has been a slump of about 8 per cent in ten years in the number of doctors, but there has been an advance of 30 or 40 per cent in the efficiency of the doctors in getting about or of the ability of the patient to get to them. So it seems we are not suffering for medical attention, after all—in fact, there are many who insist that we are getting too much of it. Any man who really needs a doctor is reasonably certain to find one and he may be lucky if the physician does not get him first.

THE EAST LEADER

The new British Premier doesn't behave like the run of labor leaders. Apparently his first call for service requires longer hours on the part of the Cabinet and those who keep the government afloat. He intimates that he expects his associates to be early and punctual and he also expresses approval of the American quick-jump idea. Usually a British Cabinet officer expects to take about three hours for his lunch. Ramsay MacDonald displays a desire for work that does not fit with laborite fulminations.

WASTING TIME

The Soviet leaders admit that their adventure in Communism didn't pan out and have partly restored the rights of property and the principle of work for wages. But why should the Russians continue their adherence to a leadership that has confessedly failed? Why wait until their bones are convinced against their will, when intelligent or practical leadership would have them over the hump at once? The Russians are presently taking another detour in the work of restoration. Surely they are capable of achieving a popular plebiscite and a bloodless change.

DOUBLE-HEADERS

Editor Bok is fair enough. To the Senators who object to the award of his peace prize on the theory that the approved plan looks too much like the League of Nations he makes a counter offer. He proposes to duplicate his prize and will give $100,000 for any peace formula that the United States Senate can adopt. The money will never be claimed. The Senators can fight over peace as enduringly as any other matter. The United States Senate would reject the Ten Commandments and the multiplication table if they were dependent upon the unanimous vote of the members for support.

ESCAPING THE TAX

Standard Oil stock is considered pretty good stuff, but the inventory of the estate of the late William Rockefeller shows that that eminent financier turned much of his stock into tax-exempt securities. He had more than $40,000,000 worth of the treasury bonds which Rockefeller family companies are issuing in such dazzling profusion and which are freed of normal tax exactions. The sale of city, school and road bonds has been made so easy through this tax exemption that communities may yet go broke through their extravagance. The man who invented interest would in the long run have every dollar in the world if he could only identify himself.

TOO MUCH POLITICS

Democrats in Congress have apparently refused an offer from Republicans to take tax reduction out of politics and adopt a compromise measure. This attitude will not strengthen them with the people. Even the average Democrat is in favor of some program of tax reduction and if he finds that the Democratic leaders hinder rather than help in that direction he will not have much patience with them. The trouble is that Secretary Mellon has devised a scientific and practical formula for the readjustment of taxes that will be fair to all, bring relief where it is needed and encourage a return of capital to industry. If he had secretly slipped this to the Democratic leaders with his compliments they would have been charmed to claim it as their own, but as an independent offering from the Treasury Department it has to run the gamut of all the politicians—even the Republicans. There are certain Senators and Representatives who do not care what happens to public business so long as they may harry or discredit the administration. They are not all Democrats, at that.

THE MENACE OF ORGANIZED CLAMOR
 Robert Saner, president of the American Bar Association, has made a stirring appeal to the American people for a rebirth of constitutional ideals. He says that we have permitted ourselves in recent years to wander from the citadel of our liberties; that we have allowed demagogues and dreamers to lead us to the shrine of false and mischievous gods; that we are unconsciously destroying the institutions whose preservation is an absolute essential to the preservation of the republic.

In an interview granted recently to a representative of the New York World Mr. Saner said:

We have wandered far in the last ten or fifteen years from the ideals of the fathers as to constitutional government. It is a period that calls for serious thought on the part of every American citizen. Wherever a railroad crosses a highway there is a sign which reads, "Stop—Look—Listen." Moments of such changes have risen out of the World War. There are tendencies which are today as dangerous to the American people as an express train is to a man who stands in front of it. We ought to listen—now, at once, before it is too late—to the real voice of the great American people.

Asked "What is that voice? Where can it be found?" he replied: "In the Constitution of the United States. It represents the landmark toward which all efforts for a larger freedom and perfect government have converged and from which all our subsequent history developed. Here and now I plead that it shall not be removed."

Paradoxical as it may sound to the unformed, the head of the American Bar Association said that the voice of the Constitution is in danger of being drowned by the clamor of democracy.

"We hear much in these days," he said, "about 'making the world safe for democracy,' about 'the democracy of the American nation.' To those who have studied the history of the Constitution it is needless to say that never, in the wildest dreams that preceded its adoption, did the founders dream of establishing on this continent a democracy or a democratic form of government. The thought and purpose of those great men was to establish a republic and a republic was established. There is as much difference between a republic and a democracy as there is between day and night."

Asked what prompted the formation of a republic in preference to a democracy he continued:

The men who made the Constitution wisely foresaw that, with the diversity in population and with the possibility of its unparalleled extension geographically, this nation would not find the theory of pure democracy either a safe or suitable form of government. They therefore ordained that the only form of government, on the one hand, to safely serve from tyranny and, on the other, from anarchy, would be one in which the people, not as individuals but through their representatives, chosen for their wisdom, knowledge, sincerity and patriotism should control and govern. It was not until this present generation that the visionaries, the doctrinaires and the demagogues became an established institution in our national life and evolved a new theory for the government of the American people—the theory that change, rapid, unconsidered change—means improvement.

Mr. Saner called attention to the fact at the present time in the various State Legislatures and in Congress there are more than eighty proposals for amendments to the Constitution. He pointed out that between 1789 and 1909 but three amendments to the Constitution were adopted; and he intimated that many of the proposed amendments emanate from groups that seek not to strengthen and improve the Constitution, but to weaken and finally destroy it.

He has reached the conclusion that we live in an age of political quacks and political quackery. Bloc legislation is contrary to the spirit of the Constitution and it is the creation of demagogues and groups with special interest to foster and protect. He said that "Organized clamor rules today. Any minority, well organized, may overcome by letters, telegrams, petitions and personal appeal the manifest good of the people when that good is backed by a majority that is dormant." He is of the opinion that:

The restoration of good government reposes in the reviving of a sense of personal responsibility to the government. This spirit must be awakened. There can be no return to the wisdom of the great men who founded this republic until every citizen will recognize his duty to his country as being above the demands of any party, bloc or clique which he may have been induced to join.

Mr. Saner is but one of a group of eminent, public-spirited men who are seeking to awaken in the breast of the average citizen a realization of the dangerous tendency to treat the Constitution lightly, to support unthinkingly proposals which are advanced as improvements, but whose worth has never been proved, anywhere, at any time, by actual experience.

That so few people recognize the distinction between a republican form of government and a pure democracy is in itself an evidence that they have not thought deeply on the most important of all problems by which we are now confronted: the preservation of our liberties through forms of government that will give the greatest independence to the individual consistent with the unity of the nation as a whole.

We do not rely upon quacks for the preservation of our physical health nor upon profiteers for the preservation of our moral health. Why should we trust to political quacks, profiteers and demagogues the preservation of the national health? If one will but study the Constitution, together with the history of the first 125 years of the republic, he will find there an answer to the specious arguments of the political demagogues.

There is a Bible in almost every American home. Is there not an equal necessity for a copy of the Constitution? The experience of Russia is a warning to us that when the Constitution goes, the Bible will soon follow.

INDUCEMENTS OFFERED

The harems in Turkey were pretty well broken up during the war. Now they are trying to popularize marriage in the Anatolia district by making things easy for the bridegroom. They are limiting the bride to two dresses and a couple of hair nets. The furniture of the home is also to be modestly prescribed by the legislative assembly. By making marriage less expensive it should be possible to extend the habit.

AS OTHERS SEE US

Apparently there are some people in Europe who look with extreme disfavor on the era of peace in the Far East which opened with the signing of the treaties negotiated at the Washington conference. Some of the French political observers would prefer complications there; they would apparently like to stir up something that would distract American attention from what is taking place in the Rhine provinces.

So the offensive against the treaties of Washington has been launched in the French press. According to a recent article in La Nouvelle Revue de Paris, America is exploiting China to its commercial advantage and is making use of the missionaries and the Bible as a part of "hypocritical propaganda."

According to La Nouvelle Revue, "The gentlemen at Washington have issued orders to their loyal and grateful subjects in Asia; their missionaries, both Protestant and Catholic, their doctors and medical missions, their Y.M.C.A. organizers and a whole host of their kind. These propagandists are effectively supported by the moral and, above all, the financial backing of their countrymen. Simultaneously a liberally financed press, scattered everywhere in the blessings of the American civilization, the consolations of the Bible, the superiority of American products—in a word, the biggest advertising campaign on earth was begun."

"We do not criticize the United States for its campaign of publicity. Every nation has its own methods and we all know that good taste and moderation are not typical traits of our trans-Atlantic neighbors."

But we do wish to emphasize the insinuating and hypocritical tactics of these propagandists. Priests and preachers of every denomination are less intent on conversions than on commerce. They are not missionaries seeking to evangelize indifferent Chinese men, but commercial travelers."

And La Nouvelle Revue finds that this is all a part of the imperialistic policy of the American government—"a government that professes to be the least imperialistic in the world. It is not necessary to wear a sword or to talk in a military imperative in order to conquer. One can often make broader conquests with a Bible than with the arm or the last Yankee notion in one's pocket."

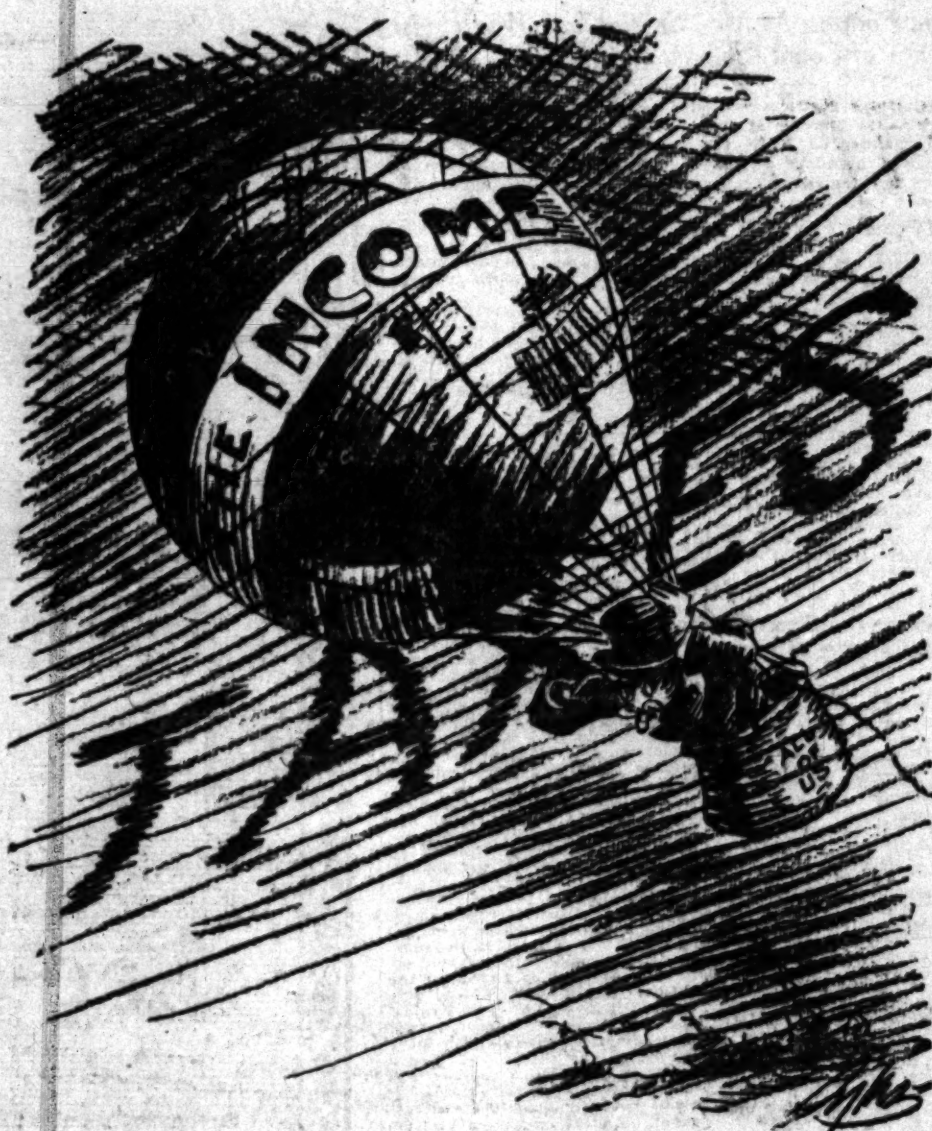

Really, we must be much more wicked than we had suspected. We are bent on the subjugation of China, without most of us knowing the least about it. Referring to the American consul, La Nouvelle Revue says, "It is impossible to call such sandwich men of American wares diplomats."

What we would do with China after we acquired it the good Lord and these French journalist politicians alone know. Our laws will not permit the Chinese to come here; and no one has found any extra inducements to cause any large number of Americans to emigrate to China. We have had one white elephant of the Far East on our hands ever since that May morning when Dewey sailed up Manila Bay. It has not proved sufficiently profitable that we should be looking for another.

America has supported missionaries to the Pacific area for a century; but it is information, indeed, that we have used them as political propagandists. And the charge that we are using the Bible for commercial advantage is, to put the thing mildly, far-fetched.

There are altruists in this country; although there is a group in France that seems to doubt it. For 100 years American associations have maintained representations in the more backward countries of the world for the sole purpose of establishing churches and schools for their moral and intellectual enlightenment. Not one in fifty ever lands the job for which she yearned; and in the end unwilling hands to heavy tasks are turned. It's sad to see the heartless maid, who dreamed of deathless fame, dispensing Volstead lemonade and fish and eggs and gages. It's sad to see her scrubbing floors and making windows gleam, and longing for the old-time chore before she dreamed her dream. WALT MASON.

WHAT? DETROIT!

It is reported that in Detroit deaths are exceeding births at present.

When one considers Detroit as the hub of the automobile industry that seems natural enough. Indeed, when one begins to ponder it, it fills him with renewed faith in the future of America that the same thing isn't true of every great city in this country. Who can fail to be cheered, for instance, by the fact that in even motor-crammed Los Angeles births keep leaping ahead of deaths like hares ahead of lame hounds.

And yet—

It was in Detroit that Henry Ford first proclaimed and put into effect his theory that every employee should be paid "enough to enable him to maintain a family." Not only were the wages of good mechanics lifted high, but the poorest of unskilled laborers were raised to $5 a day. And his example, of course, greatly affected every other automobile factory there.

Then all the rapturous theorists in America began picturing the future of Detroit, the place where every roof would shelter an independent family, the city in which children aligned like staircases would troop out to greet every tired workman on his return from his day's toil to his luxurious vine-clad cottage. They envisioned, in fact, just such scenes as are common enough in Southern California, but had not been so back East.

And this is just about the time the rosiest of those predictions ought to be coming true.

Mr. Ford has a lot of splendid ideas. The only trouble is that most of them which aren't mechanical won't work.

You may run on people every day who "would have children if they could afford it," but giving them more money won't ever make them afford it. That kind of folks will find some other excuse then.

And it is the people who "can't afford it," generally speaking, who are keeping up the American race. The more most people have the more selfish they get, and selfish people never want to have children. They argue most earnestly that it is wrong to bring children into the world unless one can give them every advantage—but the people who can't afford it keep right on giving the world its Abraham Lincolns, its Benjamins Franklins and a majority of the others who make it advance.

ROADS TO HOLLYWOOD

The damsels go to Hollywood, grown tired of baking beans: "There is our chance and we'll make good," they cry, "as movie queens."

From every rural neighborhood, from every sleepy town the damsels go to Hollywood with dreams of high renown. When once they reach that magic place they visit and visit and visit, their grace of form, their charm of face will put them on the screen.

To Hollywood the damsels flock, with hopes resembling fakes; they'll follow Mr. Mary off the walk in less than seven shakes. No more for them the country store, the crossroads bungalow, no more for them the humble chore, the gown of calico. And when they get to Hollywood they find, to their distress, that scores of damsels, just as good, are in a beauty mess; they also came from sylvan scenes, from farms where cowbells throng, to elevate the well-known screen and cannot get a job. Not one in fifty ever lands the job for which she yearned; and in the end unwilling hands to heavy tasks are turned. It's sad to see the heartless maid, who dreamed of deathless fame, dispensing Volstead lemonade and fish and eggs and gages. It's sad to see her scrubbing floors and making windows gleam, and longing for the old-time chore before she dreamed her dream. WALT MASON.

Ambassador Geddes may be suffering from bad eyes, but he was able to see his flash. Sir Esme Howard will be his successor. Please play that Esme stuff on your radio.

The Year 1924 will be notable in another way. It is the year when Calvin Coolidge will be nominated and elected President of the United States. A splendid work, well accomplished.

The Ohio State Republican Central Committee has endorsed Coolidge for the Presidency. Ohio is no longer the mother of Presidents, but she is willing to occupy the foster relation.

The name of J. W. Zevrel of Washington, Harry F. Sinclair's personal attorney, appears in the Teapot Dome investigation. That is where Sinclair's fast running horse (Zev) got his name.

On the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans President Coolidge stepped out of the White House, walked across the street to Jackson Square and placed a wreath at the base of the monument erected to "Old Hickory." The following Sunday the President and Mrs. Coolidge spent an hour at the bedside of an old negro servant who was quite ill. And yet some folks say that Calvin Coolidge is an iceberg.

If the "millionaire clubman" had been a poor Mexican.

If the two ladies in the case had been no one in particular.

If the chauffeur had been, say, a news-vender.

I wonder if the District Attorney's office would have felt equally adamant about "getting the facts" and seeing that justice was thoroughly done and rather expensively served.

It used to be that the rich and distinguished came off rather more lightly in these matters. Styles change.

Either extreme is equally dubious.

Some clever surgeon appears to have grafted one of those pig eyes on Blind Justice.

In the meantime investors in an oil operator's stock must be highly interested in the company the gentleman keeps.

Of course, morals and manners are not necessarily identical, but they are often closely related.

Front-page news, indeed. A non-profit society is to be instituted. Getting seriously ill will now be denuded of its worst horrors.

So far it has meant both physical agony and bankruptcy.

Dr. Lulu Peters says everybody is either too fat or too thin. The one is normal—or contented with their weight.

You are wrong, Lulu. I am. And reading your column gives me the utmost smug self-satisfaction. I read it exclusively to tickle my vanity.

Talking of manners—the high-brow drama producers seem to have suffered something of an off day when they were all entertained at the Bell Club.

One made inept remarks about other speakers' "tadious" speeches and proceeded to be quite as tedious on his own account. Another hummed ostentatiously throughout a rival's talk.

It seems to be difficult to be both tactful and highbrow.

I see Pemberton Billings is in town. And still sentimentally melodramatic. Mr. Billings once wrote a book explaining himself hysterically—right off the reel—without a stop for even bed and breakfast.

As a member of the British Parliament Mr. Billings got into all sorts of hot water, signed a peace treaty, and was much and cruelly misunderstood patriot.

I see he has expressed in an interview the mournful opinion that the glories of the British Empire are about over and that "The people of my country may be startled at what I say."

But it may be supposed that the British Empire has become used to being "startled" by remarks from Mr. Billings. That book was full of "startling remarks"—and it was quite disgusting how these phlegmatic English took it.

But, then, again, they may be startled by his ringing cry, resounded across the world from Los Angeles, "Give us a foreign land and I am pleading that Britain awake before it is too late."

There is, however, just the possibility that those staid old British newspapers will feel that Mr. Billings has had all the space they can spare for him already.

Every time I go to a vaudeville show I marvel at the virile vitality of the same old tunes done in the same old way by the same old types in the same old voices and the same old jiggling dance steps.

They are putting on exactly the same sort of vaudeville stunts today as when vaudeville first became popular. The acrobats, the couple of "funny" patter men, the girl and the fellow that dance a bit, sing a bit, talk a bit and bump each other a lot; the fat and puffy female star headlines who makes up in energy and noise what she lacks in charm, aided by some supercilious rags; and possibly an animal act or a juggler act or a rather violent comic-musical act.

One rather gets the impression that the noisier and more energetic of the crowd is louder and longer should we applaud them.

The only innovation I have discovered is that many of these stunts are now done by our colored brothers and sisters—there has been quite a local run on the dusky dames lately—and perhaps they really do do them better. Anyway, it seems more natural to see them doing it.

Nora Hayes is our star headliner just now. She is a bright, sensible woman in real life. I want to testify to this because, if you only know her in vaudeville, it's hard to believe. She works so frightfully hard at being just insane. But she has a dozen gorgeous and violently expensive feather fans.

She could gaze quite interestedly at Nora, still and silent, waving one of them. But she shouts and wiggles and stalks around and groans and heaves—all about less than nothing at all.

But we applaud. Large-type ad assure us that we love and admire her. So I guess we do.

A visitor to the city had his first experience in a 5-and-10-cent store. Thinking she would buy her little nephew a 10-cent toy she picked out a miniature bugle and handed the clerk 10 cents.

"The bugle is 15 cents, madam," said the clerk.

"But I understood this was a 5-and-10-cent store."

Joe drove up at the appointed time and gave enough for a week's wages. Then he came against a proposition that should be the mules?

The station agent said that the mules were "stuffed" and Joe didn't know about that. Mules had the name of being careless lot. They might get mules the proper amount of water and again they might.

Another thing, the mules had a temperamental streak. Not being willing to take the amount of food and water was inclined to tote fair.

UNCLE REMUS IS TO REVISIT KJL

Darky Lured Away for Time by Portering Job

Versatility is Exhibited by Immanuel Club

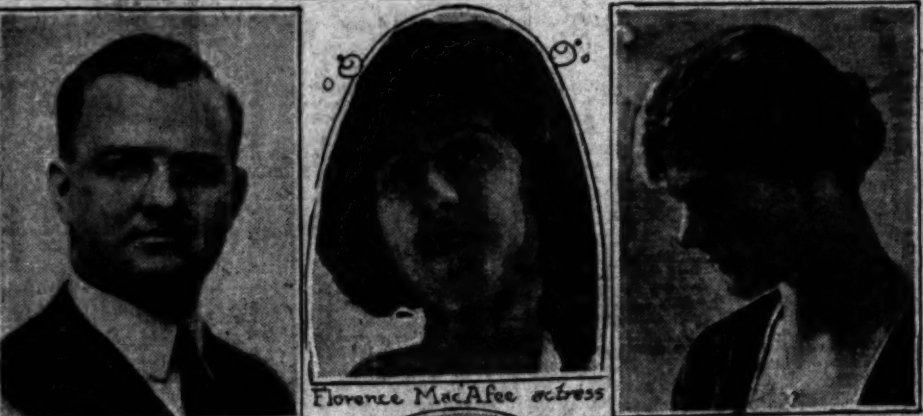

Theaters Lend Artists for Radio Concert

No. Uncle Remus has not deserted his Los Angeles friends. The truth is that business called our "darky" to the north for a few days, but he was fortunate enough to get a position "portering" on the Owl. Between trains the lure of radio led him to KJL, the new station at Oakland, where he broadcast some of his favorite numbers. Question as to the "darky's" faithfulness to KJL has evidently arisen in the minds of his admirers, for phone calls have poured into this office, asking if Uncle Remus had moved to San Francisco. He will appear at this station soon to sing for his friends. The Newbery Electric Corporation arranged last night's program, presenting a number of favorite radio artists. Mrs. Guy Bush, pianist, was headed with telephone requests for additional solos. That versatile quartet composed of Joseph Kinsman, first tenor, David Kinsman, second tenor, Arthur L. Reimer, baritone, and Peter D. Eitzen, bass, gave a delightful performance, not only as vocalists, but as the Immanuel Telephone Club. The lecture of Mr. N. B. Brown, electrical engineer, on "Characteristics of Receiving Sets," was, as usual, very interesting. Irene Watkins, soprano, is a delightful addition to the Radioed entertainers. On the occasion of her radio debut at KJL, she delighted her audience with the remarkable purity of her tones and the clearness of her enunciation. Miss Watkins is a concert singer, who has recently appeared in an artistic sketch at Loe's State Theater.

At 10 o'clock a special program of unusual merit was presented through the courtesy of the California and Miller's theaters. Salvatore Santella, pianist, Chico de Verde, violinist, and Ochi Albi, cellist, have friends and relatives in New York City, who have arranged to hear them on a fine receiving set which is capable of getting KJL through the tangle of power lines and dynamo with which the city is netted. All are musicians of the highest attainments. Mr. Santella, the gifted leader of Miller's Theater orchestra, played "Agitato Appassionato," by Rachmaninoff, in a way that shows his technique and musicianship. Chico de Verde, violinist, accompanied by Mr. Santella, played "Cannonet," by d'Ambrósio. If there was no interference, his eastern friends must have been delighted with that number. Ochi Albi is a newcomer to Los Angeles musical circles, who has at once attracted favorable comment by his splendid tone and interpretations as evinced in Saint-Saëns' "The Swan." The trio gave two delightful ensemble numbers, "Minuet," by Meyer and a pleasing arrangement, by Salvatore Santella, "Popular Melodies." Will and Jack Trevor, father and son, who have pleased KJL audiences on many moon-ride programs, appeared yesterday in flute and violin selections. The name "Trevor" is well known to Radioed through lovely poems of "Mother Trevor." With Bernice Goodell at the piano the flute and violin duets charmed listeners through the atmosphere of home which pervaded their selections. Bernice Goodell, accompanied by Elta Ingledue, sang two charming soprano solos, "All for You" and "I Love a Little Cottage," which was enriched with a violin obbligato played by Jack Trevor. Mary Wynan Williams is a very clever pianist. It would be interesting to hear her in a program for children, for she has that personality which wins little hearts at once. "The Moo Cow Moo" and "The Old-Fashioned Girl" are some of the poems which she has set to music. The third of a series of "Truth in Advertising" talks by Ferris R. Miller of Better Business Bureau was delivered at noon. Quartet gave an impromptu program unsolicited by fans and brought added pleasure to the matinee listeners. Peter Golden, Irish poet and lecturer, read a poem describing the beauties of the Irish coast and sang some old Irish songs. Porter Rhodes, violinist, gave a group of Kreisler compositions and arrangements, "Old Hebrides," "Schola Romarina," "Gypsy," and "Moments Musical." Mr. Rhodes met with an accident in his boyhood days, losing the second and third fingers of his left hand; yet he masters technical difficulties with an ease that is amazing. Helene Pirie, beautiful little star of the silver screen, shows talent in another line. Last night she gave to the children an original verse "My Friends," in addition to several other readings and a bedtime story. Her voice has a musical timbre and resonance unusual in a child of 7 years. Pupils of Katherine Thompson, saxophonist, also helped to entertain the children. Beatrice Wilson played "The Kingdom Within Your Eyes," by Nicholas. A quartet, composed of Beatrice Wilson, Horace Mortimer, George McMurchy and Everett Edwards, gave two ensemble numbers. George McMurchy and Everett Edwards played "Don't You Remember the Time?" by Williams, as a saxophone duet. These young people are all a credit to Miss Thompson's excellent training.

OPTIMISM

BY GRACE A. TREVOR

When summer's sunshine long has fled—
The leaves lie scattered, near and far,
Soft as they rustle 'neath my feet,
They whisper still of springtime
Of fragrant flowers, of June day breeze,
The song of bird, the hum of bees.
No thought of sadness do they bring;
But echo still the bygone spring.
When on my hearth, there cold and gray
Lie ashes, where but yesterday
All cheery warm and radiant Brightly danced flickering flames of fire—
Light, Mr. blackened embers, as in dream
And all its cheery warmth and glow
I still behold the freight gleam.
Will soon be mine again I know.
When out across the leaden sea
The gathering storm clouds, there I see
And angry waves dash leaping
As though to lash the lowering sky.
Dark cloud, nor angry wave I fear,
I know that 'neath their stern veneer
There calm, serene the waters lie.
And ever blue the heaven's own sky.
What though your smile has turned to frown
Still I refuse to be cast down
Though outwardly so stern and cold
Love's warmth within your heart you hold.
All that was mine but yesterday
Again I live in dreams away.
Hearts glow, sweet spring, blue sky, calm sea,
Your love—shall all come back to me.

UNCLE JOHN'S COLUMN

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Hello, kids and ladies of Radio-land! I hope you will get a "kick" out of this story today, for I am going to talk to you about burros. Burros taught Job patience. Properly treated, irrespective of what any old "desert rat" may say, they are almost human. Anyone who says a burro is stupid, is stupid himself, for I have learned that they can read your thought on the other side of a mountain and hide out to fool you.

Patty, Maud and Kitch—and I learned about burros from them. They were the first three guests I had in my prospecting experience. Purchased near Sanger in the High Sierras of Fresno county, they became my loyal friends and taught me many things about the secrets of life and happiness. Patty was a little bit of a gray thing, young and playful, full of mischief. Maud was big and stolid, ways to the balance of power, sometimes represented by a stout Alpine staff, the first of which was cut at the edge of Ten-Mile Creek. These two came by their names honestly.

Kitch was so-called, because she carried the kitchen outfit. She was the first burro unpacked and the last to be loaded and the blacks, or packs, which she carried, contained everything that might be needed for the routine of daily life, or in an emergency. Patty and Maud were just excess baggage and storage trunks, but were the life of the party. Queen, my wire-haired Airedale, taught all of them to fear the snap at their heels, and that's where the kick comes in. Now that I have started on this story I realize that it cannot be told in one edition. Would you like to have the story of your life told in one "Uncle John's Column" of the Sunday page? Well, the life of a burro may be just as interesting and diversified as your young life, only most people don't write about burros.

Very early in our travels I learned that ignoring Patty, Maud and Kitch in the same way that I did not worry about Queen, apparently inspired a confidence and responsibility on their part. When I felt that the confidence was misplaced, I whispered to Queen "Go fetch!" and she brought the three graces up to the front line on the run. After a few days it was necessary to send my loyal dog back to fetch them. They followed, like dogs, and would cry with pathetic little whines if I and my partner disappeared for any length of time.

Once in a while Jack and I would rest in a bend of the canyon or mountain path when the wind was blowing down the cañon, and wait for them to come up. Little Patty was always in the lead, and her plaintive little notes of worry, as to where we had gone, were echoed by Maud. Kitch was "obdurate"—hard-boiled in other words.

On a side trip we had been down to Bishop in the Owens River Valley, where the outfit lived on the fat of the land. Three days later Kitch decided to go back to pasture green. How Uncle John tracked her fifty-two miles at last to sight a black speck, far down the road, munching at the rear of a hay wagon, would constitute a story all in itself. The hobbies which Kitch had on her forefeet had worn her ankle bales. But when I overtook her and received the side-swipe greeting of the hind hoofs there was nothing to do but take the hobble off and ride her back the greater part of the mountainous roads and trails. Kitch never again left camp.

When we circled Mount Godard, above the timber line, we came to granite benches, seemingly unmountable. A true prospector never goes back, no matter what confronts him. I recall one such bench with a drop-off of five feet.

$290 MODEL X Fully Equipped With Built-in Loud Speaker KENNEDY

This radio receiving unit is a newly perfected development of the Kennedy Engineering Staff. It is unusual in that it combines extreme simplicity of operation with the same scientific accuracy and selectivity that characterized the earlier Kennedy models. After an initial setting is made only one dial is required for all tuning. And, when a dial setting of a station is once determined, that station will always "come in" at its own setting regardless of where the receiver is used.

CATHOLICS PLAN CHARITIES DRIVE

More Than Score of City's Institutions to Aid

Fund of $100,000 Set as Goal in Campaign

Most of Money is to be Raised in Parishes

More than a score of charitable institutions and welfare agencies will share in the success of the Catholic Charities campaign which will be conducted in Los Angeles and throughout the diocese during the week of February 11.

This annual campaign, which serves to finance the many and varied philanthropic activities of the Bureau of Catholic Charities, has a goal of $100,000. In most part this fund will be raised in the various parishes of the city, being augmented by a special canvass among the business and industrial associations and gifts from friendly citizens in general.

The Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, D. D., bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego, is supreme director of the campaign, with Rev. Robert E. Lucey, D. D., director of the Bureau of Catholic Charities, as general director.

John G. Mott heads the executive committee as chairman, with P. P. O'Brien as campaign secretary.

Charles A. Meyer has been placed in charge of the campaign in the business district, his aides including Joseph A. O'Connor, Gerald Delamer, Joseph Brady and James Hughes.

Rev. William J. Mullane will head the speakers' committee, whose personnel will include a group of twenty or more prominent business and professional men of the city.

NOTABLES TO AID

In addition to these there are to be two other co-operating committees—a general committee including some 250 or so prominent men and women, and an advisory committee made up of the various Catholic organizations of the diocese.

The pastors of the various Catholic churches will head the parish divisions, each setting up a separate organization unit consisting of a director, an assistant director and secretary. This work of organization has practically been completed, and the enlisting of the campaign workers is expected to be well under way next week.

Plans are being made for a big rally of campaign directors and workers to be held at the Santa Anita Hotel, Monday evening, February 4, when the special guest of honor will be His Excellency, the Most Reverend Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi, Papal Delegate to the United States. The Right Reverend Bishop has called this meeting in order that he may hear in person the reports of the various parishes and note the progress of the campaign being made in each.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

Serving on the general committee for the campaign are the following men and women:

John J. Cantwell, D. D., bishop; Rev. Robert E. Lucey, D. D., director; John G. Mott, executive committee chairman; P. P. O'Brien, campaign secretary; Charles A. Meyer, business district in charge; Joseph A. O'Connor, Gerald Delamer, Joseph Brady, James Hughes, William J. Mullane, speakers' committee head; Rev. William J. Mullane, speakers' committee head; Rev. William J. Mullane, speakers' committee head.

HIKERS PLAN DEDICATION

To Consecrate Mountain Chapel Built by Them Four Miles Beyond End of Arroyo Seco Road

A place of worship for hikers and out-of-door lovers will be dedicated Easter Sunday at Switzer's camp, four miles up a narrow, winding mountain trail from the end of the automobile road in the Arroyo Seco.

The little stone chapel, constructed by a few volunteer workers with their hands, will be dedicated with but a simple service. The congregation will be small, possibly not more than 400 or 500 men, women and children, all clad in the plain and serviceable clothing of the mountain climber.

ONLY THREE HOURS OFF

Situated on a high promontory overlooking the camp and the surrounding valleys, the chapel is the center of the remaining ruins of a mission which, though the Switzer's camp and the many mountain trails which radiate from it are hidden in the rugged beauty and mountain quietude characteristic of a more remote location, the trip from downtown Los Angeles to the camp takes but three hours.

Dedication of the chapel will mark the realization of the dreams of Lloyd B. Austin, manager and manufacturer of the camp, and his wife, who previously had spent their Sundays roving the mountains and valleys will now be provided with a place where they may congregate to worship and at the same time enjoy the open air.

It is planned to place three or four memorial windows in the building. Dedication of each of the memorials probably will be made at separate services.

HAS UNIQUE POSITION

The chapel will occupy an unique position in religious institutions in the Southland, if not in the entire country. There will be no runnings of street-car wheels or noisy exhausts from automobiles to interrupt services. The falling water at the foot of the cliff on which the chapel is located, the stirring of the wind and the chirping of birds will be the only accompaniments to the services.

Possibly, there will be a prayer at the opening service Easter Sunday asking that civilization's progress march with its automobiles and noisy bands be made to stop where it now ends—four miles distant—from the present time, plans are on foot for extending the chapel.

OFFICERS ELECTED

State Safe Deposit Association in Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the California State Safe Deposit Association, at Paulina banquet room, recently the following officers were elected for the year 1924:

Mrs. Helen R. Wallie, president, California Bank; W. T. Denon, vice-president, Merchants' National Bank; H. S. Lewis, vice-president, Bank of Italy; T. H. McDonald, treasurer, Union Bank and Trust Company; Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Drake, secretary, Continental National Bank.

In addition to the above mentioned, the following were elected members of the executive committee:

R. A. Forsyth, chairman, Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank; Mrs. Sylvia Eager, First National Bank; Brown Bank, Security Trust and Savings, Long Beach; L. S. Anderson, First National Bank, San Pedro.

WIFE WINS DECREE

Psychopathic Treatment for Her Hysterics Called Off

Fred G. Mariner sent his wife Lorraine to the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital, she testified yesterday, as a means of quieting her hysterics. Judge Summerfield thought that was going too far, and released her from the bonds of matrimony.

YOUNG WIFE MAKES ATTEMPT ON LIFE

MISUNDERSTANDING WITH MATE PROMPTS ACT; POISON TAKEN

An asserted squabble with her husband prompted Estelle Woods, 19 years of age, to swallow a number of grains of bichloride of mercury yesterday in an effort to end her life. She made the attempt in the bathroom of her mother-in-law's home at 1806 South Union avenue, where she and her husband George reside.

The young woman was found by her husband, who had her removed to the Resolving Hospital. Physicians said she would recover.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

GRANDMOTHER kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it doesn't so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft-brush and draw it through the hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."

—Mrs. GUS VOGEL, 608 Pelouse St., Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Will Propel Dirigible Shenandoah

Made in Los Angeles

Picture shows propeller selected by government to be installed in giant airship before starting on Arctic flight, and Seth Hart, one of the inventors.

AIRSHIP DEVICE MADE HERE

Propeller Patented by Angelino Men Will be Used on Shenandoah on Flight North

When the giant naval dirigible Shenandoah soars northward on its epoch-making arctic flight an essential factor in its success will bear a "Made in Los Angeles" imprint, it was learned yesterday.

The Bureau of Naval Aeronautics has selected the flying speed about 15 per cent.

TOLD FOR LAYMEN Mr. Hart explained the difference between the rigid wooden propeller and the adjustable type so that the layman would understand it.

"Everyone who owns or drives or rides in an automobile knows most cars have three gears, low, intermediate and high. Low is used to get in motion for power, intermediate for power and high for efficient machine, but that is exactly the effect a rigid, old type propeller has on an airplane. When an airplane takes off it needs power and a certain pitch of its propeller, which should be different when elevation has been secured and speed is desired.

"The reversible feature is valuable in airplanes. Of course, an aviator in a heavier-than-air machine cannot fly backward but he can greatly reduce his speed by reversing his propeller. This is a great help in combat flying in suddenly dropping below an enemy and in making forced landings on landing on a small area. A plane with an adjustable propeller can take off in less distance than one with an old type propeller."

Mr. Hart first became interested in the invention in April, 1914, when Mr. Eustis, then employed by Glenn Martin Company as a propeller maker, outlined the idea. Together they experimented and in December, 1916, the first successful flight, using one of their propellers, was made from the beach at Long Beach by Earl Dougherty, commercial aviator.

Mr. Hart became interested in the invention during the war and, for two years, Mr. Hart was at McCook Field at Dayton conducting experiments under air service supervision and help. (Since 1920 it has been used successfully on a number of planes, Army and Navy, and a few Navy dirigibles and promises, since the recent action, to come into general government use, Mr. Hart said.

DAYLIGHT THIEVES ROB FRUIT TRUCK Exceptionally hold daylight thieves yesterday got away with eight boxes of apples, ten cases of eggs and eight bunches of bananas from a Cline-Simpson Fruit Company truck. The truck was parked in front of a store at 444 1/2 Turquoise street, where the driver was making a delivery. The thieves are believed to have drawn up beside the truck in another car and to have used this to haul away their plunder.

OUCH! LUMBAGO! RUB BACKACHE AWAY Kidneys cause backache! Not Your backache is caused by lumbago, rheumatism or a strain and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating, penetrating, penetrating. Rub it right on your painful back, and instantly the soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay plod! Get a 25 cent bottle of St. Jacobs Oil from your druggist. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache or lumbago pain.

In use for 65 years for lumbago, backache, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprains. Absolutely harmless. Doesn't burn the skin. —[Advertisement]

A Pre-View of Women's SPRING DRESSES

—feature priced 39.75 —new Spring colors
sizes 36 to 46

Interesting frocks that tell of new lines, new colors, new silks!
The embodiment of grace... with floating panels, loose slenderizing lines. Intangibly intriguing! That is the way of frocks of Spring.

The dignity of black (favorite with the smart Parisienne this winter) is sometimes enlivened with a dash of color, a skirt of black satin with blouse of reseda, Chinese blue or beige!

Supple moire is much in evidence as are crepe georgette, novelty crepe, canton, satin canton and roshanara. All lovely and in all the sprightly spring shades.

Illustrated are four of the many styles. Specializing particularly in sizes for larger women. In Spring colors of fawn, thrush, grey, lariat, brown, navy and black.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor)

Just In! New and Specially Priced Model Hats from "Ufland"

—made to sell 17.50 five of the many

Each one an "Ufland" model of the highest type

Large summery body hats of hair braid or lacy straws, trimmed with new novelties, flowers and fancy ribbons! Smart tailored Milans combined with new silks!

In the new Spring colors of Empire blue, Mexico, lacquer red, Yu Chi green, Chinese yellow, lariat and zinc.

1000 Wool & Fibre Scarfs! Sale!

1.00 1.89

actual values 2.50 to 7.95

A tremendous clean-up from an importer and manufacturer. More than 1000 scarfs—mohairs, brushed wool, fibre. Amazing variety to choose from!
And with scarfs in vogue with all sorts of costumes. They need no commendation, especially in California where a light wrap is often all that is needed.

Literally myriads of colors and every conceivable style. Prices seem low—they become positively incredible when you see the scarfs.
Narrow fibre scarfs in dainty colors to wear with Spring sweaters and dresses—stunning woven plaids for the sportswoman—great soft wide scarfs or silky mohair or brushed wool
(some with belts are as warm as a coat.)

Plain colors—stripes—plaids—covert effects—braid trimmed.

HALF-YEARLY FURNITURE SALE

Save $25 to $50 on every $100 you spend

The sale tremendous! It comes but twice a year! It permits you to save $25 to $50 on every $100 you spend. And on no piece of furniture in the sale can you save less than 10%.

The entire stock is not included. But most of it is, and every piece is represented by samples on our floors; backed by tremendous warehouse reserves. Here is what you will find in the sale:

- $75,000 in special purchases
- Makers' discontinued patterns
- Our own oddments and sample pieces (These latter including floor samples)

Most of this furniture shows savings of 25%, 33% and 50% as evidenced by the original and special sales tickets. Impossible, of course, to more than hint of the scope of the sale here; consider these items merely as typical suggestions.

Our Easy Payment Plan

is not a plan of installment selling

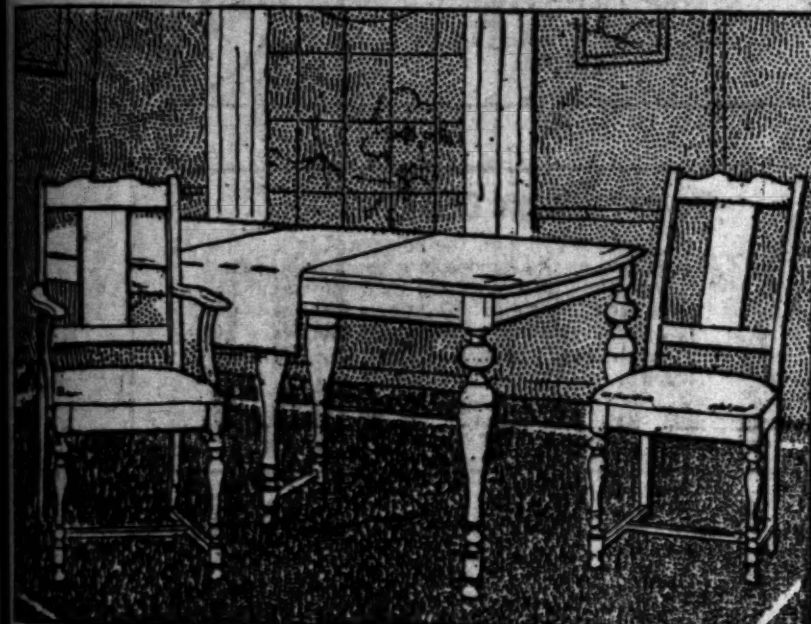

We do not sell furniture on the installment plan. Our prices are based on cash purchases and cash sales.

Cash and credit customers pay the one marked price—the lowest prices, we believe, in the city.

But to accommodate those who prefer to extend their payments over a long time we offer our "easy payment plan," which adds only a slight covering charge to pay interest on the use of our money.

WHO BUYS USED CARS

--The Banker Does

He drives a smart roadster back and forth to business. It has the original tires; not a scratch on it; you'd never dream it was a used car. The investment was small, and it enables him to keep the new sedan bright and shiny.

See the bargains in used cars in today's Sunday Times Want Ads

--The Salesman Does

He knows that owning an automobile opens the door to many a good job; that the extra amount he can earn will more than pay the installments; that the first payment of a hundred or two dollars is an investment that will pay big dividends.

--The Business Woman Does

At first she hesitated—the upkeep might prove a hardship. Now she knows that low-priced gasoline and long-life tires make it easy to maintain an automobile. She picked up a bargain in a coupe. Happy Sundays! Happy holidays! More strength and energy for her work!

--The Mechanic Does

You'll see him on the boulevard in a touring car, at the movies in a coupe, up in the mountains in a stout old roadster which he bought for a song. He knows what it costs to build machinery and that used cars at present-day prices are an extraordinary value.

--The Carpenter Does

His jobs range from Inglewood to Eagle Rock, but that makes no difference to him. He carries his lunch in comfort—extra tools—dry clothes when it's raining—saves on an average an hour a day in time.

--The Wife Does

She drives the children to school—saves money on her marketing—offsets the drudgery of housekeeping with an afternoon spin. Often by good management she meets the installments from her household allowance.

--The Father Does

He sees that all the boys have cars and gets one for son—an old model, fifty or seventy-five dollars. An expenditure of millions could hardly buy more fun. More than likely the lad repaints it—dolls it up, learns mechanical lessons that will last him all his life.

--The Farmer Does

He has solved the freight problem by owning his own transportation system. He can market his products direct—save time and money in getting supplies. All that the city affords is at his command—theaters, churches, schools, lectures.

The Naval Training Station—San Diego.

Destroyers Laying Smoke Screen on Fleet Drill Grounds off San Diego.

Where the Navy Gathers—San Diego

AND NOW out of the great city of Washington comes Uncle Sam and for the Navy Department selects San Diego as the finest place in all the West to train men for marine and naval service.

Already more than $25,000,000 has been spent here for distinctive groups of beautiful, permanent buildings for a naval training station, U. S. Marine Corps base, a great naval hospital and aviation stations. The Navy Department has parked here more than seventy-five ships of the destroyer fleet and has built a great repair base to care for them. These are but the beginning of Navy activities in prospect.

Today the pay roll for these splendid institutions amounts to more than $1,250,000 every thirty days; the monthly disbursement for supplies is $1,500,000, and a large, permanent population has been added to San Diego.

This naval program has focused upon San Diego the eyes of the nation, because when Uncle Sam points his finger and says, "That is the place in the United States where there are more 'training days' and more 'flying days' than any other," the people of this country naturally reflect, "If that is so, San Diego must be a wonderful place in which to live. Let's go and see."

And when they come they find conditions here so ideal, the wonderful sea air so invigorating, the warm sunshine so abundant, the environment so alluring and above all, a cordial reception from the 125,000 residents of this modern business community that they, like those before them, cast anchor and are glad they have come.

In twenty years San Diego's population has increased more than five hundred per cent because life here is pleasant—the big outdoors is ever calling and there is so much to fill one's time.

Those who have come looking for pleasure and health have found it, those looking for business and industry have made a place for themselves, some have made fortunes, and the opportunities for pleasure and for business which existed in a small way in the past are offered now on a larger scale because of the increased population.

New families are coming to San Diego in increasing numbers from all parts of the United States. They all are delighted with what they find.

San Diego is only three and a half hours from Los Angeles by railroad, or by paved boulevard all the way. Seventeen miles away is Mexico. Across the bay is exquisite Coronado and the famous Hotel del Coronado, Tent City and North Island aviation fields. To the west, stately Point Loma stretches like a colossal arm into the sea; in the foreground are twenty-two miles of magnificent harbor dotted with war craft and ships from all the seas; and back of all this, a bulwark against desert storms, is the majestic Coast Range of mountains, penetrated by wide boulevards and dotted with man made lakes for the profit and pleasure of all who may visit them.

San Diego is so unique, there is so much to do and see, so many places to go in this southwest corner of the United States that you cannot afford to miss it. Come tomorrow and pay us a visit. You will be delighted with the service of our splendid yet moderately priced hotels and apartments and the cordiality of those you meet here.

Come to the headquarters of the San Diego-California Club at Second and Broadway and we will tell you where to go and what to see. You can spend a month sightseeing and yet not visit all of the worth-while places.

If you cannot come tomorrow, mail the attached coupon now and we will send you a story of San Diego that will delight you and make you want to come. If you knew the San Diego of old you will be amazed at the growth and development recorded since your last visit.

Come by Santa Fe Railway, or by the Los Angeles Steamship Company or Admiral Line Steamers direct to Broadway, three minutes from the heart of San Diego's business district, or by auto over paved boulevard.

The Homelike Living Room

Have you not often entered a Living Room where the hand of an artist has been at work and said to yourself, "This is indeed a Home"?

When analyzed this home-like atmosphere proves to be the result, not of lavish expenditure, but of good taste.

In creating this desired effect in your Living Room, the "California" can be of great service to you. For many years this institution has been called upon for counsel and for ideas in the creating of some of the most beautiful homes in Southern California.

And these services particularly have been sought by the owner of the modest home who would substitute artistic effect, economically attained, for mere lavish outlay.

The helpfulness of the "California" is available to you, regardless of whether your home be a mansion or a modest bungalow. Feel free to call upon this service at all times. And your visit to the "California" to inspect the many distinctive and beautiful furnishings for the Living Room, and for every other room in the home, is welcomed and value comparisons are invited.

An interesting display of Living Room suggestions is shown in one of our windows this week.

GIFTED YOUNG GIRL IN EAST

Complimented With Many Events

Miss Ulric Cole

THIS gifted young girl, Miss Ulric Cole, after finishing at the Marlborough School here, went to New York to continue her musical studies. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, have just received a telegram that her first musical composition, "Above the Clouds" Saturday evening, Miss Cole is now only 17 years old and since her arrival in New York a few months ago has been complimented with many social affairs. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Rogers, who are now in the East, entertained for Miss Cole with a delightful party at the Biltmore Hotel there. Mrs. G. Allan Hancock and daughter, Miss Rosemary, entertained her during their recent visit in the East. She spent Christmas with Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Woodworth of New Rochelle. Dr. Woodworth occupies the chair of Ferchology at Columbia University. New Year's day Miss Cole visited Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Tucker of Hartford, Ct., formerly of Riverside, Cal. She has also been delightfully entertained by Prof. Ruper of Columbia, and his family.

Hostesses Entertain

ment on the grounds of the Virginia. Musical and Dance—A very pretty impromptu leap year musicale and dance was given by Misses Betty and Harriet Levine at the home of their parents on South Rampart Boulevard Saturday evening, when sixty friends appeared, accompanied by several prominent musicians. Miss Betty's birthday fell on the 17th inst., and Miss Harriet's on the 19th, so the other members of the family arranged the party as a surprise. Miss Harriet is a violinist of ability and possesses a rare mezzo-soprano voice. Maestro and Madame Guerrieri were present and gave several solos. Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gordone introduced Master Robert Violinsky, a musical prodigy, Henri Martinelli sang "Ave Maria," accompanied by Maestro Guerrieri. The Intimate Trio also were on the evening's program of entertainment. Dance music was turned by the Kendall-Humphrey's Orchestra. A delightful dinner was served after the dance, and a two-reel comedy was shown during the dinner. Among the guests were Dr. R. Goldenstein, Jack London, Dr. E. Trattner, Maestro Guerrieri, Harry Martinelli, Theodore Gordone, Frank Steiner, Benj. Schuman, Harry Schuman, Bill Gordon, Edward Krieger, William Rosenbaum, Robert Goodman, Martin Blake, David Shore, Ted Jacobson, Jesse J. Kramer, Mr. Rothschild, Elliott Banks, Lee Boardman, Maxwell Lieb, Harry Lawton, Bertha Gruen, Millicent Cohen, Mrs. Elliott Marks, Dorothy Diche, Rose Orton, Bertha Orton, Edna Friedman, Edith Markham, Rose Trattner, Dr. Miriam Shapiro, Eva Shapiro, Rosalyn Dunn, Mrs. Martha Blake, Rose Blumer, Madame Guerrieri, Mrs. Theodore Gordone, Dr. Kate Levy and Clara Schecter.

Founders Night
The days of the coming of the Indiana Colony were recalled at the celebration of "Founders Night" at Hotel Maryland last evening with a special dinner, entertainment and ball. The affair was arranged especially in honor of the older residents of Pasadena and their descendants and coming on the eve of the outdoor celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the actual date of the birth of the city, afforded a pleasant evening to the many visitors who came to Pasadena for the event.

It was an old-fashioned party, reminiscent of the times and people of the Indiana Colony. Riley immortalized in verse, and of the early and really pioneer days of the Indiana colony as the first settlers of Pasadena.

Formal Opening
The formal opening of the Hotel Vista del Arroyo, on Tuesday evening, will be one of the most elaborately planned and largely attended social events of the season. Manager Stephen W. Royce announces that Carlos Sebastian, whose genius in devising and staging beautiful spectacles has won him a high place among artists and world-wide fame, has been especially engaged to mount the settings and direct the pageantry of the evening, and has conceived the theme of "In Royal Court" as a series of gorgeous tableaux with ballets and a special musical program to carry the spectacle to a wonderful climax.

To Make Home Here
Mrs. Penelope Lindsay Holmes, whose pen-name is Katharine Eggleston, and who is the author of "The Little Boss of Big Ben," "Bully Boss," "Taming Elton," "Miss Angel" and other novels, also is chateau of Holmsheim, a charming residence in Brentwood Park. Here she and her husband, who is also an author of note, have already drawn about themselves a group of intellectuals with social gifts. Mrs. Holmes's authorship of tales of love and adventure is punctuated with clever excursions in the difficult field of essay writing. "The Spinster" series and "Why Should Men Marry?" brought a record-making response from the reading public in all parts of the world. Mrs. Holmes has several lively hobbies which she drives tandem. As a literary interpreter she has achieved a voice to exploit her words which gives hope for great things possible to the American speaking organ. The Holmeses golf at Brentwood Club, which is near their home. Mrs. Holmes is the daughter of two families of distinguished social and intellectual lineage. Her appearance at the Tuesday Salon at the Hotel Ambassador Theatre next week is the initiation of a new and brilliant member into the active intellectual life of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes have chosen Southern California as their residence and the place of their many of the word for many and girls.

The Pasadena Children's Training Society is fortunate enough to have the assistance of the Community Center in the Community Center, but while this institution makes no provision for the repairs, or furnishings, the auxiliary of the Pasadena Children's Society has sent out in the form of a charity ball.

The ball will take place at the Pasadena Hotel on the evening of January 28, and promises to be an affair of unusual brilliancy, carrying on the standard of the large ball of charity balls in Pasadena for the benefit of the same cause in past years.

The big dining-room, turned into ballroom for the night, will be elaborately decorated and two orchestras will play continuously. Supper will be served at 11 o'clock in the gold room.

Boxes will line the wall of the ballroom and many of the box holders are planning dinner parties to precede the ball, some entertaining at the Maryland and others at their homes. Among those who already have purchased boxes are Mrs. M. Cochran Armour, Mrs. Joseph Caunt, Mrs. H. S. Carver and W. L. Brown, Mrs. Robert E. Hunter and Mrs. G. Parker Thomas, Mrs. D. M. ## Rookwood Pottery

America's foremost pottery is Rookwood. And among the finest Rookwood products are the soft porcelain glazes for flowers.

The making of porcelain at Rookwood represents years of chemical research and kiln trials and the closest study of old porcelains. Like certain Chinese varieties, the Rookwood is a soft porcelain with a rich glaze flowing over delicately designed, delicately colored forms. The colors of the glazes are refined and quiet, as well as brilliant.

Rookwood soft porcelain offers an entirely new range of pleasure to lovers of fine ceramics, in the pieces themselves and in association with the flowers they are designed to show to every advantage.

Rookwood Pottery is handled exclusively in Los Angeles by Brock and Company.

Blackstone's
BROADWAY AT NINTH

"One of Los Angeles' Greater Shops"

In every community there is always one outstanding good feature—in every store, there is always one time at which, in accordance with the character of the store, value giving sales are offered and eagerly taken advantage of by the people. At Blackstone's, that time is "Month End Monday," the time when quality merchandise is grouped together and sold at memorable reductions. Month End Monday Sales are held at Blackstone's exclusively—the result of the Effort of a Greater Store to give Greater Values in a Greater Way.

Month-End Monday Sales

House of Value and Quality Merchandise

REGULAR $12.50 FIVE-DRAWER
MACHEUK SETS, $7.95

A Month-end Monday special, offering a good grade of this popular Chinese game at a very material saving. All imported directly by Blackstone's—good values at the regular price—marked specially for Month-end Monday only. Also sale of $1.35 Racks, Special at 95c. (Sixth Floor.)

DIAMOND SET WHITE
GOLD BAR PINS, $10.00

Blackstone's is fast forging ahead in the matter of diamond values—emphasizing the importance of this new department with a Month-end Monday special of interest and timeliness. 18-karat white gold set with one diamond and 2 sapphires. (First Floor.)

$100.00 DIAMOND RINGS
MONDAY AT $70.00

One day only—and just 20 of them to sell at this marvelously low price. Set with one diamond—from one-quarter to one-third karat in weight—in new, fascinating mountings, some with sapphires. Beautiful rings. (First Floor.)

WOMEN'S SILK RADIO
COSTUME SLIPS, $2.95

Silk for the price of cotton! That is exactly what you get Month-end Monday in this special. Long-wearing full cut garments—hip hems of same material, making them shadow proof. Dark colors only. All sizes. Also a group of rayon broadcloth silk costume slips equally special at only $3.95. (Fourth Floor.)

WOMEN'S CREPE DE CHINE
VEST CHEMISE, STEP-INS, $1.85
3 FOR $5.00

All silk—worth more money—but because groups are somewhat broken in size and style range we have re-priced them for this special Month-end Monday selling. These are vest chemise—not envelopes. But many women prefer them and ask for them. (Fourth Floor.)

ALL-LEATHER TURKISH
BOUDOIR SLIPPERS, $1.00

A re-pricing of Turkish slippers, because sizes are incomplete. These are the slippers that everyone has been so enthusiastic about at their regular higher price and that are to be found only at Blackstone's in Los Angeles. Gilt thread embroidered—batik designs in the leather—full silk pom-pom finish. (Fourth Floor.)

BOULEVARD HAIR NETS—45c DOZEN

Many have asked: "When are you going to have another sale of Boulevard hair nets?" Monday is the day! All good shades of blonde, auburn, brown—also drab and black. Single or double strand, cap or fringe. Envelope of six for 25c or 45c dozen, each wrapped separately. (First Floor.)

BIG PURCHASE GOOD RUBBER GLOVES, 30c PAIR

Good quality rubber—heavy enough for wear, light enough not to interfere with work. A very special price made possible only through our purchase of a very large quantity. (First Floor.) All odd groups of Metal Compacts, half price.

CLEAR AND CLOUDY
AMBER NECKLACES, 1/4 OFF

Also Whitty jet—ivory, tortoise shell, real stone necklaces and earrings, cigarette holders—and some novelties. Very interesting groups, well worth searching through to find something that appeals to you. As first prices were moderate and valuable, the reduction offers more than its face value. (First Floor.)

WOMEN'S REAL LACE
SPRING NECKWEAR, $2.95

Neckwear—a bit neglected for some seasons past comes into its own this Spring with renewed vigor—for the boyish dresses, sweaters, suits, etc. MUST have their fresh neckwear complements. Included in this group are many vestees for the open front sweater—beautiful neckwear at only $2.95. (First Floor.)

Special Purchase — Special Price!
New Spring Dresses
$39.50

though every one deserves a greatly higher price, some as much as $65.00

New! Exquisitely new! Tingling with the fresh new themes of Springtime—and they are lovely! There are dresses—about 100 in all—for all the hours of a Springtime day—for all its happy functions—even a few dance frocks are included—and they are treasures!

Straight lines, of course—they are most popular—but then too the draped models that women will not give up because of their utter becomingness.

This is a season of personality—these are dresses of personality—even though the sale price does drop so low. Silks—satins—Roshanaras—crepes and some very lovely tub silks—sizes for women and misses.

THIRD FLOOR—BLACKSTONE'S

Clearing 112 Mirrors --- Save

All Mirrors
On Display—Not Sold from Samples

Odd groups from various higher priced lines, reduced to

$6.95 and $7.95

Large three-panel mantel mirrors 19x49—upright mirrors, oval mirrors, console mirrors 17x33—overall size—some smaller—a bevy of them in greatly admired shapes and colorings.

Blackstone's, long famous as a mirror house, naturally has odd groups accumulate—then it is time for immediate disposal prices, regardless of former prices (many of these mirrors are worth $20.00).

No exchanges, refunds or mail, telephone or C. O. D. orders—all sales must be final.
SIXTH FLOOR—BLACKSTONE'S

Entire Regular Stock
Corsets — Brassieres 20% Off

Very popular makes take part in this sale—the regular stock of Blackstone's—so that Monday it is possible to secure your favorite corset in Blackstone stock and save one-fifth of its regular price. One day only.

Small Group of Discontinued Model Corsets—1/2 Price

Models for the small, medium and large figure—thoroughly first quality and desirable.
FOURTH FLOOR—BLACKSTONE'S

Sale of Fresh; New Spring Hats, $7.50

—bringing higher value hats of decided chic and charm.

New! Exquisitely new—interestingly new! The tight little hat for the tight little bobbed head—larger hats for other people—all smart, all endowed with that ever discernible something that is characteristic of Blackstone millinery.

Straw or silk—or the two intriguingly combined—a dash here and a finish there that tells you why they are NOT $7.50 hats—and challenges value with a vim.

FIFTH FLOOR—BLACKSTONE'S

MEN'S LINEN HANDKERCHIEFS—SPECIAL!

All regulation size—with 1/4-inch hem—at these reduced prices, you may buy them at cost.
6 for $1.15 6 for $1.35
6 for $1.65 6 for $3.00
(First Floor.)

MEN'S SILK AND FIBRE SOX, 35c—3 FOR $1.00

Black only—very good quality—just enough fibre to make them wear—enough silk to make them stay "silk" after tubbings. Only a small group of 300 pairs—in black only—all sizes. Nothing takes the place of black—and these are real values. (First Floor.)

WOMEN'S STAMPED HOUSE DRESSES, 85c

Stamped on excellent quality linens with pretty, new patterns that will not take very much time to work—and then you have that indescribably pretty conceit—a hand-embroidered house dress. Ready to embroider. (Fifth Floor.)

TOTS' STAMPED
"KNICKY" FROCKS, 95c

Simple, effective designs—little knicker affair of chambray and striped gingham, trimmed in pretty contrasting colors. All made up ready to embroider and they are finished! Sizes 2 and 4 years. (Fifth Floor.)

WOMEN'S SILK
SWEATERS—ONLY $10.00

Small group of odd sizes—some slightly mussed and soiled—but so much underpriced at $10.00 that one could afford to have them cleaned many times and still save money on the regular price. Tuxedo models only—good colors—good range of sizes. Pure thread silk. (Second Floor.)

WOMEN'S $5.95 GLOVE
SILK CHEMISE, $3.95

Made of an excellent quality glove silk—cut full length—nicely tailored—with a wealth of wear and good looks to them—at the usual price of a garment only so-so in satisfaction. Bodice styles—in pink, orchid, peach—sizes 36 to 42. (First Floor.)

IMPORTED 8-BUTTON
$5 KID GLOVES, $3.45

You could ask for nothing finer in the way of Spring gloves—made by one of the best known makers in all Europe whose name we must withhold from the advertisement because the price is so special—so much less than his gloves sell for other places. Good spring shades of brown—black and white and combinations of the latter. All sizes. (First Floor.)

BLACK SATEEN AND CRETONNE APRONS, 75c

Little aprons—"fudge" aprons they are sometimes called—though they have a deal of usefulness in their pretty beings. Black sateen, cretonne trimmed—splendid value at this Month-end Monday special price. (Fourth Floor.)

500 PAIRS EARRINGS VARIOUS PRICES, 1/4 OFF

Earrings and more earrings—500 pairs of various shapes, sizes and colors—smart effects very popular this season—but so variously priced that price listing is impossible. Any price you want to pay. Look through to find those that you like best—then 1-4 off the marked price. (First Floor.)

ENTIRE STOCK
HAIR ORNAMENTS, 1/4 OFF

Not everyone DOES wear bobbed hair—and the coiffure with long tresses there is ever in demand for hair ornaments. These are Blackstone quality ornaments—our regular stock—offered at 1/4 flat reductions for Month-end Monday. (First Floor.)

ORNAMENTS, 1/4 C wear bobbed hair—and ing tresses there is ever nents. These are Black our regular stock—offere Month and Monday. (1

Large and Small Affairs in Society's Realm.

the home of Mrs. Nye on Valley View avenue. Old-fashioned games furnished amusement for the evening and a unique feature was the contest to see who could fashion the best clothespin in ten minutes. Miss Anna Spellicy won the prize for the women and C. Williams for the men. Delicious refreshments were served at the close by the hostess. Members of the choir present were Miss Beatrice Remington, Miss Anna Spellicy, Mrs. L. Potter, Miss Elizabeth Nite, Miss Mary Hill, Mr. and Mrs. T. Walker, Miss C. Piccoli, Mrs. E. M.

Greenlee, Kenneth McFadden, Mr. Hansen, C. Williams and C. Walker. Mrs. E. J. Davis of East Orange avenue was hostess to the members of the Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening at her home. A business session was held, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Asisting hostesses were Mrs. A. L. Marchburn and Mrs. P. J. Ott. Mrs. A. R. Clifton entertained on Monday evening with a smart dinner party, her guests being a number of ladies whose husbands were attending the University Club dinner. The hostess seated her guests at one long table, which was daintily decorated with poinsettias and red favors. Bridge and mah jong furnished entertainment for the evening. Plates were laid for Mrs. C. W. Higgins and her house guest, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. M. L. Hutchinson, Mrs. Scott D. Gleason and her guest, Mrs. Ason White, Mrs. S. J. Ryan and her guests, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. J. M. Furman, Mrs. L. O. Force and the hostess. Three couples from this city were entertained at dinner, followed by bridge, by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bowers of Whittier at their newly completed home in this city. Guests at the enjoyable affair were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Buhler, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reynolds, Miss Macdill McDowell and H. J. Denlinger.

An unusually delightful affair took place on Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Linda Bynum were hosts at a party at their new home on North Myrtle avenue. The gathering was in the nature of a housewarming, with bridge and dancing as entertainment.

FULLERTON
Unusual in the menu offered was an informal dinner given one evening last week at which Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dorn were host and hostess. At 8 o'clock the guests gathered at the Dorn home, 223 West Maple avenue, which they found decorated in oriental fashion. Covers were laid for ten when the dinner consisting entirely of Chinese dishes was served. Afterward mah jong was played.

One of the pleasant events each month for a group of friends who live on Orangethorpe avenue, is the gathering of the Orangethorpe Dinner Club. On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Levering were host and hostess to the club members and two guests. The decorations, place-cards, and more cards heralded the approach of St. Valentine's Day in a very attractive way. Following the pleasant dinner hour, five hundred was played. At her home on West Wilshire avenue last week, Mrs. Robert Strain was hostess to the members of Chapter V, of the P.E.O. The usual 1 o'clock luncheon, preceded

Mrs. J. A. Marquis of West Highland avenue entertained at her beautiful home during the week the members of the Daughters of the American Revolution of this city. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Marquis, Mrs. Grace McCready, Mrs. E. N. Nahmens, Mrs. E. J. Noyes, Mrs. Lulu Coggeshall, Mrs. J. C. Ferry, Mrs. M. F. Pierce, Mrs. J. A. Shreck and Dr. Mary Stolz.

The men of the Kappa Sigma Sigma fraternity were the hosts at their annual mid-year dinner at the Mission Inn during the week.

FRESNO One of the interesting weddings to take place this spring will be that of Miss Irene Havner and John K. Griffin, whose betrothal was recently announced at an affair given by the bride-elect in her home in Adeline street for a number of close friends.

Miss Havner, who is popular among the young set here, attended the local schools and was a student at the Fresno State College. Griffin is the son of Mrs. J. B. Griffin of this city and a nephew of Mrs. H. H. Welch of Dpl Rey.

At the meeting of the Woman's Club Wednesday the musical concluding vocal solos by Ewart Wilgram was especially attractive. Inlilama. "Art in the Home," was the subject of an interesting talk made by J. F. Kanst of Los Angeles.

IMPERIAL VALLEY
One of the most interesting meetings of the year was held Friday afternoon by the Mothers' Community Club of Brawley. Current books were reviewed by Mrs. George Beattie of East Highlands in a most able manner. Bradford's biography of Benedict Arnold received special attention, and the discussion proved most instructive. Mrs. L. A. Andrews

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ford of El Centro, entertained with a bridge supper Thursday evening at the home on Sandalwood Drive. Pink and white carnations, artistically arranged with ferns and foliage, were used in floral ornamentation. At the close of the games the prizes were received by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kitching. There were twenty-four guests.

entertainment in honor of Miss Ruth Allison of Indianapolis. Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Allison were hosts at a bridge-supper given Saturday evening at their home in Imperial. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, yellow blossoms and greenery being used in profusion. The bridge prizes were won by Mrs. R. B. Whitlaw, Mrs. Clarence E. Conant, Mrs. Dorsey Whitlaw, Dr. A. E. Elliott, R. B. Whitlaw and George W. Anderson. Twenty-five guests enjoyed

Members of A. V. Chapter, P. E. O. were charmingly entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George W. Anderson of El Centro. Mrs. E. B. Fuller, in an interesting address, told of the work that is being done by the educational department of the organization. Mrs. Henry L. Loud read the third installment of an original story that is being written by members of the chapter. Mrs. Loud's paper was exceedingly clever, carrying the threads of the thrilling plot to a startling climax. After the program refreshments were served, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. L. C. House.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hinderka, who are leaving Calipatria shortly, Mr. and Mrs. Sadtostall entertained at dinner and five hundred. The table was adorned with red roses and greenery, and covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Hinderka, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tate, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Eaton, Edwin Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Sadtostall.

A recent wedding of much interest to members of Holtville's younger social set took place Tuesday evening when Miss Mary Hiebner became the bride of Ford Gordon Smith. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith, of B. B. Blighard reading the service. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith of Glendale. The bride and groom left at once for San Francisco where they will spend a few days before they go to San Francisco, where Mr. Smith will be located for several months on business for the Los Angeles construction company with which he is connected.

Mrs. Ralph Stilgenbauer of Brawley was hostess at a charming bridge supper Tuesday evening at her home on J Street. The menu consisted of delicious hors d'oeuvres with roses and foliage. The prize scores were made by Mrs. Earl McReynolds and Mrs. George Gay. Other guests included Mrs. H. E. Patterson, Mrs. Harry C. Smith, R. W. Thompson, Sincor Carver, Mrs. H. L. Fulton, Mrs. Quay Smith, Mrs. Louis Hausmann, Mrs. Roy Stilgenbauer and Mrs. Eddie Lynde.

At a recent meeting of the Imperial County F.W.C.A., Mrs. John K. H. Thompson was elected president, Mrs. L. N. Thompson of Imperial, vice-president; Mrs. W.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Mulitised cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three tea-spoonsful will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, supple, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulitised Cocoon Oil Shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. (Advertisement.)

Nerves On Fire From Neuritis

Thousands of people afflicted with neuritis take medicine for rheumatism and wonder why they don't get well. Such people do not know that even a slight attack of rheumatism may develop into a severe case of neuritis or "nerve inflammation," which calls for a different treatment.

Neuritis is often accompanied by a feeling as if the nerves were on fire, soreness in the muscles, stiffness in the joints or a tingling sensation in the hands or feet. Always there is pain—sharp, agonizing pain—which may hurt constantly or only at intervals.

Rosa Neuritis Tablets will quickly soothe the throbbing, aching nerves and gradually assist in removing inflammation and soreness. Guaranteed harmless. Used and endorsed by physicians. Price $1. Sold in Los Angeles by the Owl Drug Store.

And all other leading druggists, Deerticks & Runyon Co., Mrs. San Francisco. (Advertisement.)

Had Close Shave

"My wife and children thought I was dying when, after an attack of acute pains in my stomach, I became unconscious. It was right after our Sunday dinner. They say I looked like dead and guess I had a pretty close shave. I had been having more or less stomach trouble and bloating with gas for past two years and could get no permanent help. Talking with a friend about my attack, he advised me to try May's Wonderful Remedy. I have not had any gas or stomach trouble since taking it eighteen months ago." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. (Advertisement.)

PROMINENT IN COMING BENEFIT

Mrs. Herbert Irish

A prominent member of the committee sponsoring the presentation of the extravaganza, "A Night in Montmartre," which the Nu Phi Chi sorority is giving on February 6, at the Gamut Club, Mrs. Herbert Irish is giving generously of her time, canceling many social engagements that she may help make this event a success.

This is to be the annual benefit which the Nu Phi Chi gives for the maintenance of two cribs at the Children's Hospital. It will be truly a Parisian evening with gay costumes, lively music, dances and smart sketches.

With Mrs. Irish on the committee are Misses Justin Gilbois, Cameron Smith, Harold Tuttle, Clarence Broesch, Misses Martha Ann Doerr and Helen Annable will be ushers.

The patronesses and housemothers of the sorority include Misses Edward Lawrence, Dorothy Judson, C. Riva, Robert J. Burdette, Susan Dunham, Jane Davis.

Society News

He is employed here by the California Packing Company.

Among those to whom the interesting news of the approaching wedding were told were Misses Dorothy Griffin, Nettie Griffin, Mary Hall, Alice Williams, Mabel Beckett, Minerva Grossman, Margaret Kruse, Shelby Sparkman, Dana Munro, Naomi Mand, May Wilde Brown, Katherine Gill, Clyde Wooten and Misses J. B. Griffin, M. E. Rigby, A. Thomas, A. H. Coutch, George Killen, Robert Downing, A. R. Walthall, S. M. Ballard and Dorothy Hasty.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cushman have left their home here for a few days to motor to Oakland for a visit. They were accompanied by Miss Margaret Cory, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Arthur W. Goodfellow, in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Bates have returned to their home in Fresno after an absence of several weeks in San Francisco, where they spent the holiday season with relatives. Since the first of the year Bates has been on a business trip to the East and Mrs. Bates has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Booth of San Francisco.

LANKERSHIRE

The new officers of the Eastern Star were the guests of honor at a dinner given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. W. H. Matthews, 1040 E. 10th St., by Mrs. Laura Parks, worthy matron of the Lankershire chapter. The feast was a joyous one for the thirty-three visitors. Cards, dancing, refreshments and music contributed to the complete enjoyment of the evening.

Wednesday was rally day for the ladies' aid society of the Community Church organ music was presented by John Sayre, Mrs. Lawrence sang and Mrs. LeMoine gave a reading. The purpose of the rally was to stir up interest in the organization and encourage new memberships.

Members of the society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception tendered a surprise to the retiring president, Mrs. J. H. Mulhall, at her home Wednesday evening.

As spokesman for her associates, Mrs. J. M. Goyke, the newly elected president, presented the retiring officer with a silver pin, in appreciation of her tireless work for the good of the organization during her tenure of office. A feast followed the social hour and a brief business session brought the evening's program to a happy close.

BURBANK

Thursday evening the Rebekahs celebrated at their lodge room by installing the new officers. The ritualistic work was in the hands of Bertha Collins and her official staff from San Fernando. Beside Matthews is the new worthy matron, Dolly Milam. Refreshments were served during the evening added much to the pleasure of the program.

The Women's Club served the first Tuesday night of the season at the special banquet and entertainment given for the Valley Improvement council of the American Legion, in connection with installation of officers of the local post, D. S. Stafford of Los Angeles was the principal speaker. W. H. Adams and Herbert Walker of Van Nuys responded to Toastmaster A. E. Tale in behalf of the interior valley membership.

Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors joined hands Friday night in the installation of officers at Odd Fellows Hall. Deputy Organizer Martin presided for the Woodmen, C. C. Rhodes taking his seat as Consul. Mrs. Mild Bales, wife of the local post, presided for the Neighbors. The serving of refreshments and social converse brought the evening to a close at a late hour.

Local Yeomen took occasion Monday evening to combine business with sociability in installing new officers. Frank McIntyre took his place as Foreman. Following the work of the evening, refreshments were served and an hour was devoted to social features.

INGLEWOOD

Miss Doris Wentzel was the honoree at a delightful birthday dinner presided over by her parents at their home on South Cedar avenue on Tuesday evening of the past week. Sixteen guests were present and dinner was served at 7 o'clock, followed by dancing and games.

Mrs. A. L. Robbins of West Kelsey street was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a prettily appointed luncheon given in courtesy to Mrs. Joseph Martin of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Walter Reckford and Mrs. Ada Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell of West Grove street, became the bride of Norman Charles Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cook of Pomona.

The bride was attired in a smart frock of gray silk crepe with hat and accessories to match and carried a bouquet of fragrant pink and white sweetpeas and fernery. The Rev. Richard H. Gunther, rector of the church, officiated and following the ceremony a nuptial mass was said. Upon their return from their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Cook are to reside at their home at Wilmar, where the bridegroom is connected with the Pacific Electric Railway.

In compliment to Miss Lenore Nagle, whose marriage to John Nottbusch is to be an event of the coming month, Miss Susan Biggs and Mrs. William Batchelor entertained with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. T. Cook of Pomona. The affair was a most successful one and toward the evening's close a delicious collation was enjoyed. The bride-elect was the recipient of many charming gifts.

In compliment to Mrs. George W. Collins, who is a visitor in the city for the winter, and to Mrs. Newton Wilson, Mrs. Laura E. Halfhill entertained Friday afternoon with a tea of charming appointments at her home, 302 East Fourth street. Fanciful work and chat occupied the major portion of the afternoon and a collation followed. Mrs. Halfhill was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Cooper Limber.

Prof. and Mrs. Wiley W. Mather were hosts Thursday evening at their home, 404 Euclid avenue, to the members of the Honor Society of Chaffey Junior College of Agriculture, numbering twenty students of the 250-acre school whose scholarship is highest. Miss Doris Smith is president of the society and contributing to the program of the evening were Miss Irene Fitch of Pomona, Miss Kathryn von Stein of Ontario and Miss Gladys Merryfield of Colton.

A pleasant time was enjoyed Friday afternoon by members of the Erskine Bridge Club when they were entertained by Mrs. E. S. Rousaville at her home in Sycamore court. Red carnations and ferns were brightly combined as decorations. At conclusion of the games a prize was awarded the winner and refreshments served by the hostess. The substitutes were Misses Calvin Russell, Andrew Monteverde, Frank Hesse, C. H. Whistler, E. H. LaMarina and W. E. Anderson.

A few members and friends of the Community Club were entertained by Mrs. Bob McDaniel Thursday night at her home on North "B" street. Five hundred other games and music made the evening enjoyable. At a late hour dainty refreshments were served. The members present were Mrs. and Mrs. Grove Elster, Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Curlee, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Home, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howe. The guests were Mrs. and Mrs. John Vieth, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Baxter, Roy Collins and Milton Carter.

Mrs. W. H. Wilbur, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. John Haesey and Miss Betty George were hostesses to members of the Women's Club of Buena Vista Thursday afternoon in the club rooms. Thirty-three

Jacoby Day

No Phone Orders—No C. O. D's—and No Deliveries!
$40.00 FLOOR LAMPS--With Shades $27.98
and Pull Cords--Jacoby Day will be . . .

—It's the way of Jacoby Day—you buy the outfit complete, including pull cords and finials—for just a bit more than you pay for the shade alone usually!
—The standards are in polychrome and gold-finished effects! The shades are made of sheer georgettes combined with shimmery metal cloth! Deep fringes of silk and bullion trim them and they're finished with rich metallic braids!
—Pull cords to match included! Also finials to hold the shade in place!

Fourth Floor, South Bldg.—Jacoby's

$25.00 FLOOR LAMPS $15.98
With Silk Shades . . . . .

—And you'd gladly pay even $25.00 for them!
—The standards are of imitation mahogany while the shades are of georgettes trimmed with deep fringes that are double! Three pretty styles of shades!
—In blue and rose, black and gold and black and mulberry!

Fourth Floor, South Bldg.—Jacoby's

1000 Banded Sailors and Untrimmed Hats Half Price and Less!

—And oh! what a sale it's going to be! SPRING HATS—mind you—the brand new styles that are going to be worn all summer—HERE AT 1/2 PRICE AND EVEN LESS!

—1000 of them—a manufacturer's sample line—and that means they're made with extra care and just a little better than the usual run of them! And a great number of them have linings carrying the name of a very prominent maker—

—Just about every kind of straw besides the new hair cloths, and braids, you could want! The styles are too numerous and varied to tell about!
—In the colors you'll like!
—Prices range from $1.29 to $9.98.

Third Floor, North Bldg.—Jacoby's

Women's Bathrobes—Samples Less Than Wholesale $5.98

—Ever so many of them—when they arrived at Jacoby's—carried their wholesale prices—and many of them were even more than $5.98 if you please! So you can figure how the $1 we have will fly out!

—And they all come from a maker of very high grade bathrobes. Soft beaver robes; old-fashioned prettily satin-bound; mannish quilted collars and cuffs trim some of them; just one or two corduroy robes included—and ever so many other styles—most every one different!

Real Camel's Hair Chappie Coats—About Half—$7.98

—We've had the very same chappie and Mandarin coats right here in stock at prices ranging from $15.00 to $17.50—and even yet it seems impossible that there's a brand new lot here, ready for Jacoby Day at $7.98.

—Soft, woolly-looking sweaters that come in brown, buff, Copenhagen, orchid, jade and combinations!

—None sent out or held for approval, please!

Third Floor, South Bldg.—Jacoby's

$2.50 Apron Dresses—In New Spring Styles $1.69

—They are such extraordinary values that their buyer was given just twice her allowance—in order that she might buy double what she had originally planned!
—Eight different styles! And they're made of very attractive ginghams combined with chambrays! In sizes 1, 2, 3 and 4.

—We wish there were more room to tell about them!

Third Floor, North Bldg.—Jacoby's

3000 Pairs Misses' and Women's LOW SHOES Reduced for Jacoby Day to $1.45

—“A smart looking shoe for $1.45!—hardly believable!” is the thought probably in your mind. A rare happening, we'll admit, but another Jacoby Day surprise!

—On Monday these shoes are going for two, three, even four times less than they ordinarily cost!

—3000 of them, all good looking! Too many to tell about, but they're the favorite styles—oxfords, strap styles, and the lovely novelty effects!

—A big assortment of kid and calf leathers, satins, etc., in black and brown! Plenty of patents, too! Many style heels also!
—Sizes 2 1/2 to 8 and widths A to EE, but not in every style.

Don't Miss These Women's Felt Slippers 83c

—1000 pairs, all worth far, far more! —The product of a famous maker! Very good felt. Have soft padded and leather soles! Very pretty colors!

Jacoby's Downstairs Store—South Bldg.

In the Downstairs Store 2292 Apron Dresses 50c That were 88c, Jacoby Day

—50c—how many yards of material could you buy for that price—and how many yards of trimming left alone buttons, etc?

—They're the very same aprons we ran some time ago in a big sale way at 88c—and the Downstairs Store was jammed all day long—figure how they will go Jacoby Day at 50c.

—Made of percales in dark and light colors! Many different styles! SIZES 36 to 50.

—NO PHONE ORDERS, NO C. O. D.'s, NO EXCHANGES and NONE DELIVERED.

Jacoby's Downstairs Store—South Bldg.

$13.98 to $24.75 COATS—Will Be $9.98

A Big Downstairs Store Sale

—56 of them, reduced in price for Jacoby Day only—keep that in mind!
—Well tailored of good quality velvet and bolivia. Attractively fur trimmed, most of them being beautifully embroidered too. Fully lined!
—Navy, brown, and deer.

Dresses that Were $1.98 $3.98 to $9.98, Now

—Almost unbelievable, but true! 98 of them and not one sold for less than $3.98! Some are slightly soiled, but even they could command many, many times more than $1.98!

—Of organdy, French gingham and voile.

Downstairs Store, South Bldg.—Jacoby's

$1.50 & $1.39 Sweaters 98c

—The very same sweaters that sold for $1.50 and $1.39, but we're clearing them out Jacoby Day at this reduction!

—In the lot are alipovers, tie styles and sleeveless.

—A big range of very pretty colors.

Bringing a Bewitching Brightness Before Theatergoers

was the cottelet and there was the thrill of a lavishly produced beauty. There was a definite reason why the cottelet was the sheer pleasure of knowing that some 500 individuals took part in the play without counting those engaged in the staging of it. The cottelet was the result of designs of Norman-Bell Geddes, and the work of Fokine who arranged the cottelet to be the cottelet. In addition to those mentioned there is the great Werner Kraus, who played Calligari and Schuyler, who memorably associated with "The Yellow Submarine" and the Schlickraut. And the play the audience received the communicated the message that too a worthy member of the cast.

Earlier there was produced a play of another order which also gave rise to speculations about reform to "Outward Bound" it ought to be said specifically that it is one of the most interesting and entertaining of the series. The author, having said that, I should add that to me it had no spiritual significance of any kind. Perhaps that is because it is not an English play, by Sutton Vane, and it might be called "Charon's Ferry," for the three acts take place on a boat, the passengers lying between the shores of life and death. The passengers all find themselves on board, but they do not know how they got there. The bar of the boat is like that of any other boat, and the passengers are any accidental group that might have been picked up between Polotsk and Boulogne.

But there is a queerism. For instance, the mobster Mrs. Cliveden-Bagge, who is a very bad woman Mrs. Midget ought not to be informed in the first-class bar; she is told that this is a one-class boat, and that her husband is going out to meet her husband, but some one else on the boat tells her that her husband died six months earlier. No other boat seems to know its destination and each one is more or less uncertain of his or her own point

LEARNING THE TRUTH
The realization that they are all dead comes first to the young, named Prior and it happens that he is one of those least able to bear it. He has been drinking to forget other things; suddenly he is made aware that he will have to face the reality of the things he has done. Although they think he is mad, he finally persuades the others that it is a phantom ship, that there is no captain and no crew, that Scrubby, the steward, is sitting cross-legged in the air, that no sidelights are carried, that they are dead. He seems hysterically to think that they can do something

And a meeting is called. Langley, the big business cutthroat, is chairman and they all prepare to dodge their Maker, rather than to meet him—with the exception of Mrs. Langley, who seems to think it will be all right. And the inspector comes on, in the guise of a minister, and dictates rewards and punishments, and so it ends.

This is a good theater, and two things added made it fine entertainment—the types chosen and the production. The waster, the driving

business man, the smug woman, the minister of the gospel, honest and uncertain; the wrath of a steward, each has a specific character. The story is not only interesting, if rather obvious, in the story of Mrs. Midget is that she starved and slaved in order that her son should be brought up a gentleman, that he should never know his parents, and that he should be, in the end, is, of course, her son who is the master, literally going to hell.

When his time comes before the examiner his mother comes in, determined to be sent with him to help him out of his predicament. She thanks really joins her husband; but this time she is to offer the

BALKED INTENT
The sentimental case is that of young couple who have committed suicide. They were not married; they are afraid they will be narrated a after life; the man wonders what will become of his dog, that he seems to hear barking at a window. With them the examiner refuses to have anything to do. They are "half-ways," and presently the man forsakes the girl. He has gone back to the living, the dog has awakened someone to turn off the gas; and presently he rushes back and saves the girl too. You gather then that they were only half way on the road to death when the ship set

The director of this play is Robert Milton and he has been both soft and decent, giving much pleasure to the audience by emphasizing the sentiment which is certainly inherent in the play. He has had a super cast. Of the nine players, six are familiar; the other three, I am told, are also well known—Charlotte Granville, Ljovell Watts and Eugene Powers, playing the snobbish woman, the business man and the young minister. Of the others, J. M. Kerri-

... plays the steward gravely, sympathetically and with humor: Alfred Lunt is the wastrel, Berri-er, a young opera singer, and the the charwoman, Dudley singer is the Examiner, and Leslie toward and Margalo Gillmore are the suicides. Each of these I have seen from three to six times because I think I know their tick-marks and habits. It was intensely interesting to note the absence of the ax and to see them all "in the kay," definitely. It is really a place, where, to sing on one of the great, the finest, the most interesting together was as good as the separate parts.

I have left myself little space

 not realizing that it was produced too late for me to write out last week. It is comic, it neat, it is never dull, it is comme excellent music. It is speedy execution, and the English

BIT OF THE PAST

Mr. Lewis serve the family; the women wear the same old-fashioned gowns of their forefathers. It is like stepping into another world, or rather back into a world I've often lived in, sort of, in my dreams.

Allen's boyish eyes glowed; he had been absent—for him a Tennessee lad—because the more profound to a boy bred upon old traditions of the South and the old-fashioned ways of the crumbling estate of a bygone age must have been.

George Timmaurice and Ouida Berge, his scannairfe, have shown the great reverence for the High Calve stone and that is all right with me. Mr. Timmaurice has shown a real reverence for the beauty that is Rome; and that is far more important. The cast is full the time that he selected him for the lawyer owing to his ability to register such a pleasant, sincere smile. Lewis still possesses the same he used as Gov. Stoneman in "The Birth of a Nation" and had among his treasures the overcoat and wide cravat that he used as the miser in "The Conqueror."

One of Ralph's greatest treasures is the old trunk that he has been treasuring since his first first bit on the legitimate stage. Husk

John, Jonasson would make that we do take such a chance, but he failed to provide any interesting story. A day or two after this picture opened many people remarked on what a perfectly terrible continually it had.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK

Opinions of "The Times" Readers Regarding Pictures, Plays and Music

Harlan as Romeo
VENICE (Cal.) Jan. 17.—[To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] There is so much talk about again producing "Romeo and Juliet," but that there is a dearth of fitting Romeos. While I do not consider the Shakespearean plays great screen material, I do consider the above a very worthwhile number for that medium, and I most certainly would like to see Kenneth Harlan play Romeo. He has blossomed forth from a dashing, handsome juvenile to a really splendid actor, and we want to see him have more big opportunities like "The Virginian."

MRS. LORENZA STEVENS.
A Great Fight
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—[To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] The battle between Frank Mayo, the hero, and Charles A. Fox, the half-wit in "Wild Oranges" was one of the most realistic affairs that I have ever had the privilege of witnessing since "The Spoilers." It was remarkable the punishment these men apparently stood.

I have seen others "pull their punches," so to speak, in the ring, but I am doubtful whether it could be done in a fight of that kind without killing the realistic value. It was great. I am curious to see a fight staged for the screen, particularly to see if it is just one of the screen illusions or if the combatants are really as battered up afterwards as they should be from all outward appearances.

W. P. YOUNG.
The Cold, Friendless Heroine
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—[To the Theatrical Editor of The Times:] One thing that has always puzzled me is why, in motion pictures, the irate father invariably turns his erring daughter away from his door on a rainy or stormy night. Then the daughter is later shown wandering aimlessly through the darkness either drenched to the skin or about frozen from a blizzard. For instance, in the film version of H. C. Payne's "Master of Men," which has been showing at the California Theater, just as the stepfather bars the door against his stepdaughter's storm comes up—and we have to go through the agonies of another girl cast out into the raging elements!

Why can't the directors give us something new and have their wayward girls cast out into an orange grove and California sunshine?

The Three Dennis—Ruth Ann and Cherie—musical comedy artists of note, began a limited engagement last night at the Plantation Club in Culver City. These three delineators of popular songs are well-known here, having appeared at the Mason a few seasons ago in "Poor Mamma," a musical comedy success. Since then they have been abroad, appearing chiefly at Grafton's Galleries in London, in which place they were featured. Many of their popular songs have been recorded for the phonograph. Upon their appearance last night they were greeted with many rounds of applause.

British Film Star to Remain in Hollywood for Art's Sake

Howard Gays, clever depicter of suave heavies, who will next be seen as the Duke of Norfolk in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," will definitely remain in the Hollywood film colony. Mr. Gays, who was recently featured in Gaumont's London-made production, "Byron," has just declined an offer from a British company to continue in historical characterizations of this type in England.

"Great as is the temptation to take advantage of an opportunity to concentrate upon the historical roles which I prize so highly, I realize that the future of the screen is in Hollywood; therefore, it behooves all cinema students to keep in close touch with the only here," said Mr. Gays the other day. "I have always enjoyed my English work, but I should like to play to my full potential as a player to desert Hollywood for the London studios at this time."

Betty Francisco Refuses to Tie Up Freedom With Long Contract

Betty Francisco, who has a featured role in "The Old Fool" at the Criterion Theater this week, came to Hollywood direct from the Ziegfeld Follies, where she made a tremendous hit.

This momentous occasion occurred two years ago and Betty has been a very busy young woman ever since. She came with a neat picture contract in her pocket and she has managed to keep one safely tucked away somewhere ever since.

Miss Francisco has many strings to her bow, having been a dancer of note, a dramatic actress and now on the moving-picture screen as a featured player.

"I have always played pictures as a girl," says Miss Francisco. "Two or three times I have had an opportunity to sign a contract, but I like free landing; there is always the uncertainty between pictures—and then working under so many different directors and with so many varied casts gives one an opportunity to study methods and types and to learn."

"It is my belief that nearly all the actors and actresses will eventually drift away from the long-time contracts—unless the producers elaborate on their present system of loaning out their stars for roles with other companies that are especially suited to them."

"Of course, one can never tell what one will do—and perhaps the feeling of safety of knowing just what is going to happen has its advantages, but I always feel as if I'm taking a new and fresh start when I begin a new picture with a new company and a different director."

High School Students to Offer Play

Students of the Huntington Park Union High School, members of the Patette and Brush Club, will offer "The Flower Princess," a pantomime, in the school auditorium Friday evening.

The production is entirely the work of the students, the sets being designed and painted by the art department, and constructed by the boys in the woodshop. Most of the costumes were also designed and made under the direction of the art department, although some are the ones used in the Douglas Fairbanks production of "The Thief of Bagdad."

About seventy pupils will appear in the production, among them being Vera Swanson, as the princess, and Roger Thies as the prince. Others include Forrest Ferrie, Eugene Drake, Winifred Barrett, Wilma Smith, Marion Staples, Astrid Randby, Lloyd Hubbard, Kenneth Short, June Coverly, Jewel Hodges, Clair Barton, Blanche O'Connor, Roland Dalrymple, Warren Marin, Winifred Pike, Jeannette Stewart, Bert Sarver, Helen Jones, Dorothy Woodward, Grant Edlefsen, Helen Egan, Lillian Blackburn, Sheldon Bannister, Margaret Stark, Edna Warnack, Violet McCoy, Audrey Davies, Mabel Russell, Margaret Moran, Alice Loman, Margaret Rudolph, Doris Wells, Edith Staples, Lucile Duckett, Norma Chapman, Ruth Griffin, Theresa Edwards, Allen Douglas, Vera Jones, Juanita Clark, Johnny Baratta, Lyle Barcus, Merton Smith, Bert Simmons, Grant Davis, Thelma Chapin, Evelyn Nelander, Katherine Moran, Louise Bush, and Margaret Mathews.

CATTLE ON A THOUSAND HILLSIDES

Herd Such as Never Dreamed of Gathered for Historical Film

Half a million cattle are moving over a 200,000-acre Mexican ranch for "Sundown." First National's shadow-painting of American history, which has just gone into production, Laurence Trimble directs. He is riding the ranch as this is written to establish locations. The company will join him within a few days.

Hobart Bosworth, Beanie Love, Roy Stewart, Charlie Murray, Tully Marshall, Ben Alexander, Hal Wilson, Wilfred Roth, Charles E. Crockett, Bernard Randall and Tom Delmore are in the cast.

"Sundown" was written by Earl J. Hudson, supervisor of First National's own production unit. Frances Marion and Kenneth Clark collaborated on the script. The picture is of history and in making history. It tells of the passing of the old West and will show the actual drive of the last great herd to be assembled in America.

The herd, now being rounded up on Las Palomas ranch, was conveyed from the north rim of the Grand Canyon, Flagstaff and Co. lumbus, N. M. The line was crossed at the latter place and the actual drive placed on the ranch that runs below the Mexican border from the western States line of Sonora to within twenty-five miles of El Paso.

The company will be administered as a military force. David Thompson, production manager, will be in direct command, working under orders from Hudson at general headquarters. The play-ers will be in barracks and a camp club. So he played his "bit" and observed the anniversary of his debut at one time.

WILL INSTRUCT IN ADVANCED DANCING

Norma Gould

National recognition of the artistic and educational achievements of the Norma Gould School of the Dance came with the appointment of its director, Miss Norma Gould, to teach at the recent convention of the American National Association Masters of Dancing. Now comes the highest appointment awarded to an instructor of the dance, the directorship of the dancing courses of the most advanced course in physical education yet to be given in the United States. This course will be conducted this summer at the University of Southern California. Miss Gould enjoys the distinction of being one of the foremost dance instructors of America, in that her method requires the highest culture, including an appreciative knowledge of the music, history, literature and the pictorial and sculptural arts of all nations.

HEADDRESS IS INDIAN'S INSIGNIA

War Bonnet Once Savage Equivalent of Uniform of Civilized Army

History books, Indian lore, writers of early American romances and students of "What to Wear" never have told why the American Indian adopted the gaudy feather head-dress as the major portion of his attire.

The secret is about to be told here for the first time. The information comes from the members of the Hopi Indian tribe, now appearing in the Mission Play.

In the old, old days when America was young the Indians wore only a breech cloth and a look of hauteur. Mentally and physically some of them stood out above their brethren. But—what booted it? The chiefs couldn't tell them apart, though they may have distinguished themselves in bravery, cleverness and wit.

So it was that feathers and other designations were adopted so that the chief might readily pick out his lieutenants without asking them to step forward.

Feathers from the yellow hammer were used to denote superior strength; owl feathers for night messenger; sage hen feathers for secretiveness; the road runner for speed; eagle feather, leadership.

And there were many others. Each sub-chief was decorated, at first, with only one of these feathers. The chief of the tribe, having all of the attributes that are required for a leader, wore all of the designations.

And there was the head-dress originated, according to the Hopi Indians, now doing the Dance of the Buffalo at the Mission Play at the old San Gabriel Playhouse, where John Steven McGroarty's famous pageant-drama of the early California days is playing to packed houses.

The fourth week of the thirteenth year of the Mission Play is now under way. Performances are given every afternoon except Monday and on both Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

NATIVE COMPOSER WRITES NEW SONG

Mrs. Mabelle M. Dyer

The California musical world will welcome a new native composer of ballads in the name of Mrs. Mabelle M. Dyer, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. W. N. Monroe, early settlers of Monrovia. Mrs. Dyer's last composition, "My Dear," published by Sherman Clay & Co., will soon be on the press and add more laurels to the achievements of members of the Women's Press Club of Southern California, of which Mrs. Dyer is an active member.

Mrs. Dyer's childhood days were spent in Monrovia and she later lived several years in Mexico where her father was active in railroad construction. She has been identified many years with musical work, having a voice of decided merit.

Enacts Role to Celebrate Screen Debut

Sentiment is not dead in the movies—not by a long way. A director—Mal St. Clair—remembered the other day that on the morning of January 13, five years ago, he began his career in cinema as a bounding policeman in a comedy made by the redoubtable Mark Sennett. St. Clair is now directing the new "Telephone Girl" series for F. B. O. Alberta Vaughn is the lead.

A situation arose the other day in which an unusual type was required—a lanky, rather handsome individual—to play a role of more or less importance. No actor was at hand. St. Clair filled the requirements to a nicety. He recalled that very day, five years ago, he made his debut on the Bengett lot with a uniform and a cops club. So he played his "bit" and observed the anniversary of his debut at one time.

RAY COMPLETES ONE

At Ray has completed direction of "Bargain Day," a cameo comedy of department store life, in which Virginia Vance is the pretty sales-lady, and Cliff Bovee and Sid Smith play a couple of counter-jumpers.

LOS ANGELES TO BE PRODUCTION CENTER

The Edward Small Company, in association with Lewis and Gordon of New York, have made an arrangement whereby they will produce sketches, in which will be presented artists of screen fame, in Los Angeles, thus making this city a production center.

Robert Edison, veteran of dramatic technique, will stage the productions. The sketches, after playing here, will tour the largest coast cities and then play the key cities of the Middle West and the East. The Edward Small Company, in association with Lewis and Gordon, heretofore produced successfully acts with Bushman and Bayne, Mildred Harris, Mrs. Redolph Valentine, Mrs. Drew and others.

BETTY BLYTHE DUE IN HOLLYWOOD SOON

Betty Blythe, screen star, is due to arrive in Hollywood within the next few days. Her next production will be made here, Miss Blythe, who played the title role in "The Queen of Sheba," has spent most of the last year abroad. Her first picture to be made in Europe was "Chu Chin Chow," the exterior of which were made in Paris, Vienna and Berlin. The interiors were made in the Graham-Wilcox studios in London, and a few scenes were made in the vicinity of Algiers. Her latest picture, "The Recol," which will be a Goldwyn release, was filmed principally in Paris.

STUDENTS IN THREE-ACT COMEDY TUESDAY

The Parent-Teacher Association at Lawndale will be entertained Tuesday evening, when the Wallis Players will give a three-act comedy entitled "Tom's Triumph." In the leading roles will appear Hortense Prohaska, director, Olga Ve Olin, Melton King and Oliver Cornell.

The Children's Department has an organization hereafter known as the Juvenile Players which will entertain for the Parent-Teacher Association Friday afternoons and evenings during February, playing the four-act historical drama, "The American Republic."

COMPLETES SCRIPT FOR "LOVER'S LANE"

Dorothy Farnum has completed the scenario for "Lover's Lane" from the play by Clyde Fitch. The picture is soon to go into production at the Warner Brothers studio under the direction of William Beaudine. "Lover's Lane" calls for several difficult characterizations in the film version, as it did in the stage play, and an all-star cast is to be assembled. This is the second of the Fitch plays in the prepared for the screen by Miss Farnum, the first, "Beau Brummel," with John Barrymore in the title role, having been completed a few weeks ago.

Among the Holy Jumpers at Boyle Heights, Where a Large Colony Is Becoming Americanized

Marked day in the Russian colony.

MOLOKANS LEAD HAPPY LIFE AT BOYLE HEIGHTS

Visit to Colony of Russians Known as 'Holy Jumpers' Shows Them to be Americanizing Rapidly

BY J. T. MEARS, JR.

Ever hear of a Molokan? There are more than 5000 of them in Los Angeles. They have a colony, their own religious services, prophets, elders, and a sort of a government. The local colony is the largest in the United States and one of three such outside of Russia. The others are in San Francisco and at Guadalupe, in Lower California.

The Molokans founded their relatives and friends of the original settlers arrived between 1904 and 1908. Since 1908 the Molokans, nesting secure in their colony in Boyle Heights, situated in the area bounded by East First and Fourth streets, Anderson street and Boyle avenue, have gone about their business.

It is doubtful whether a considerable number of Angelenos know there is such a colony. About the only instance in recent years the Molokans have come to the notice of the public was in 1918. Their objections to bearing arms naturally conflicted with the plans of the draft board. The young men, sons of the original settlers, of the draft age registered and a delegation was sent to Washington to plead their cause with General Crozier, head of the draft board. They won out and were exempted from service.

The quiet and orderly manner in which the Molokans conduct themselves is felt when one walks around in the colony in Boyle Heights. Everywhere one sees the bearded men with their quaint blouses and caps. Bright-eyed children scamper about chattering in English. The streets are as clean as in any similar section of Los Angeles, probably more so than in some where native-born people predominate.

One thing is sure, Margaret Sanger and advocates of her kind are unknown in the Molokan colony. Large families appear to be the rule. The women who are seen on the small porches or walking in the streets, usually have several children at their heels. The appearance of these women, with the inevitable white shawl wrapped about their head in many cases, resurfaces one that birth control has not achieved a headway there.

Americanization, a term objected to by many foreigners in that they feel it assumes they are not anxious to become good citizens, is working wonders in the colony. (Continued on Page 40, Column 1)

The workman's home coming—Molokan mothers use the card index system to keep track of their children.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Diggs N. Scoops, Who Imagined He Wanted to Take Things Easy

BY LEE SHIPPEY

Diggs N. Scoops has the work habit just as he has the breathing habit. For twenty years he kept as busy as a pinwheel on a high pole on top of Mt. Lowe. He was as industrious as a chigger and as restless as a flea. But he was doing it all to achieve his life ambition.

"My dream of a job," he would confide, "is nothing to do but pick the blooms off of one century plant. As soon as I have $20,000 a year, above all taxes, upkeep and business expenses, I'm going to retire and do just that. Philo-sophers may say that once a man gets the getting habit he wants but little here below to belong to anybody else, but I'll disprove 'em."

His hard-won success had kept Scoops from ever becoming a home body. Besides his main business he had side lines of more varieties than Heinz and Pantages could think up together.

His silent car, usually slipped away from his home before the family was up, and most of his evenings were spent in conferences.

The first morning of his freedom Scoops tried sleeping late, but couldn't. He lay abed until 9, though, and got a headache for going so long past his usual breakfast hour.

He sprang out of bed on the first stroke of 8 like an athlete at the starter's pistol. Kicking aside his business clothes, he hopefully got into his pajamas. He had planned to inhabit from that time on and tried them on. But a conservative man past middle age is a good deal shyer in his first pair of knee pants than a small boy is, and one look in the mirror over-awed him. He hadn't imagined his legs would look like that.

CONFIDENT WOMAN
He was wearing a dark business suit as conservative as Henry Cabot Lodge when he entered the breakfast room. There he confronted a young woman he did not instantly recognize, but she knew him instantly from his pictures in the papers.

"Why, it's father," she cried. "Glad to meet you, father." From 10:30 until 12:30 Scoops spent the longest day of his life in his library. He wondered what he was going to do with his leisure, like a man in jail. He had never had time to acquire social tricks, could not dance, bridge, golf or gossip and didn't (Continued on Page 33, Column 1)

LATE JUDGE ROY BEAN AND HIS SOUTHWEST JUSTICE

Quaint Magistrate Followed March of Southern Pacific and Became "the Law West of the Pecos"

BY J. P. CRANKE

It was but the other day press dispatches from Langtry brought the news of the death of Judge Bean. He whose decisions had been the wonder of the legal profession of a great commonwealth for forty years was no more, and there was hardly a lawyer within the confines of Texas who did not relate, or listen to, some anecdote of the unique western judge. The very name of his town brought forth the story of how the gallant justice, entertaining the Jersey Lily one day at Vinage-roon while repairs were being made to the locomotive of the train bearing her to the Pacific Slope, changed the name of his town from that of a poisonous insect to Langtry in honor of his beautiful and sparkling guest.

In the early '30's I was District Attorney for the Forty-first Judicial District of Texas. It then embraced what is now three districts and was but little smaller than the German Empire as it was before its mad Emperor destroyed it. At various points within the district I occasionally came in contact with Judge Bean, who, I believe, was the most original and picturesque character I ever met in that region of remarkable personages. I say, "at various points," advisedly, for Judge Roy Bean moved his residence and jurisdiction ever westward as the construction of the Southern Pacific Railway progressed toward El Paso. I do not know if he had ever been elected to the office, but certain it is, none of the turbulent char- (Continued on Page 28, Column 1)

CANYON LIFE DAYS OF JOY

Unrestrained Happiness and Freedom from Worries of City Reign Supreme in Hillside Homes

BY RUTH DENNEN GARNER

Here comes the canyon dweller into his own, in Los Angeles! Where is the man or the woman, either, who has counted the words, pages, volumes written of those who inhabit bungalowland—the apartment sheiks and sheikesses or the folk who follow the call of the duplex?

But the canyon habitué—who has thought of him or her or "us" we hasten to add since now that we're on the map we're all ready to shout for ourselves. Via the road of traded wives, temperamental holocausts, that literally "raised the roof" of one dwelling in a recent storm, and now the gold-toothed, bald-headed and daring bandit, Laurel Canyon has taken her assured place among the season's dramatic sensations.

And we who live in Laurel Canyon have felt ourselves on the map all along. It only remained for (Continued on Page 22, Column 4)

THEODORE ROOSEVELT IN BOSOM OF HIS FAMILY

Like a Farmer at Sagamore Hill, Writes Capt. Butt, the President's Personal Aide

OSTER BAY (L. I.) July 24, 1908.
Dear Mother: The greatest surprise to me so far has been the utmost simplicity of the home life at Sagamore Hill. Instantly asking myself if this can really be the home of the President of the United States, and how is it possible to enforce such simplicity in his environment. It might be that of a well-to-do farmer with literary tastes or the same college professor.

There was no one at the house when I got there. Mrs. Roosevelt had been out to see some friends. They both, however, he in a simple dress with a large white hat and she in a simple dress with a large white hat. They both were waiting for me. They both were waiting for me. They both were waiting for me.

Like OVERALLS
I knew when I enjoyed so much. I could not remember how pretty Mrs. Roosevelt looked in them. I did not admire them. It was one of those garments and overalls like a suit of overalls.

YEAR'S EVE AT JUAREZ

Tells True Story of Picturesque and Tragic Life in This Noted Border Town

BY LUCY BENDER

War and revolution are questions of little moment on the border cities of any size—on the American side, where there has become so accustomed to existing conditions in Mexico. A new revolution brings hardly a ripple of interest and excitement. Details of each fresh uprising, are read with interest and comment. There are many reasons for this.

by the wine of unrest. To a thoughtful mind they suggest the trusting natives of the volcanic regions who build their homes on the sides of volcanoes, underneath which the fires of hell are burning, gaining in intensity and power every moment, until they burst forth and wipe away the fruits of the toiler.

There are always those who (Continued on Page 35, Column 5)

RADIO AND BUGS

Now We Can Hear the Secret Thoughts of Insects

BY MARY DESERT

What a cultured world we live in! Even the moth millers are becoming radio fans. Ever since I heard about the scientist who, by an ultra-radio something or other, can listen in on Mr. and Mrs. Moth telling the baby moths not to eat too much muskrat this season or they'll get rough on rats, and that too much camphor gives tummy aches, I've been dying to get one of those sets and find out first hand if a few pet fleas my dog gave me really have a preference for light meat or dark. Imagine how beneficial to science it will be to get the exact data of Mr. Phillips's potato bug on their sensations the morning after. It might be a good plan to while away the hours and improve the minds of prisoners to install an outfit in the jails, that is, if the noise wouldn't be too deafening.

And what a great help to the doctor who can cure lupus with bee stings! He can keep the bees' knees well oiled by giving them their choice of lean meat or fat. He can consult his busy little bees about improving each shining dollar, and contract for stings in lots of 500 to 5,000,000, according to the number of loops a man's tied up with. ## ROOSEVELT AND HIS HOUSEHOLD

well, and after that to the guest of honor, and so on.

FAMILY CUSTOM

Mrs. Ethel was late in coming to dinner, and every one, including the President, rose. From the conversation that followed, I learned that it had always been a rule in the household for the boys to rise when either their mother or father or their sister came to the table. In fact, Kermit said that since such was the custom, the girls ought to make it a rule to be on time for their meals, and this remark started the Roosevelt ball rolling. The President said that he thought Ethel ought to try to be on time, too; that he preferred that no notice be taken of him when he came to his meals late, but that since Mrs. Roosevelt (with a deferential wave of the hand toward her) insisted upon this medium of respect being paid to the President, he always tried to be in time to his meals. Mrs. Roosevelt said that she did not insist upon the mark of respect being paid to the President, but to their father, whereupon all laughed, and Ethel said she would try to be on time to all her meals except breakfast.

I was very hungry and enjoyed my dinner, being helped twice to nearly everything. We had soup, fish, fried chicken and corn on the cob and jelly. There was nothing to drink but water. The President asked me if I would have something, but as it was not the custom I declined.

TAKE SOMETHING

"We often have something," said the President, "so do not hesitate to take what you want. We are not the tipplers followed by friends in Wall street would make us out, but don't mistake us for prohibitionists."

I was much interested in meeting the family in this way, and never saw less restraint than at the President's table. Every child has something to say, and when one makes a remark it is certain to bring forth a volley of denials or contemptuous rebuffs from the others. In fact, there was nothing studied or formal, and every member came in for a little fun before the dinner was over. Even the guests did not escape.

When Mrs. Roosevelt reproved Kermit for putting his elbows on the table the President said that his children were well behaved as a rule, but that when he saw me do the same thing he felt that the example would be quickly followed. I then told how you had urged me to mind my table manners, especially while at Oyster Bay, and how you had no faith in me even at this late date. The President said he would not give a hang for a boy, no matter if he was 40, in whom his mother could not find something to reprove.

"LIKE MOTHER MADE"

I forgot to mention the fact that the fried chicken was covered with white gravy. The President said that his mother had always said it was the only way to serve fried chicken; that it gave the gravy time to soak into the meat; and that if the gravy was served separately he never took it.

Ted is now grown up, and while not handsome, has a keen face and is certainly clever and with a splendid sense of humor. Kermit is very attractive in manner and in appearance, and I have an idea that he is his mother's favorite, though, of course, she would deny it, just as you do when accused of favoring me over the others. Archie is the one who was so ill, and still looks very delicate. He is a very nautical member, evidently he takes up the cudgel at every chance. Quentin is the youngest, and is large, bounding youngster, who brought in his last made kite to the table to show his father, and who explained to me the merits of the new fangled kites for flying purposes, which controversy would not interest you in the least. There, I have introduced you to the family, and will stop, as lunch is nearly ready, the first bell having been rung some ten minutes ago. By the way, the bell is a cow bell just the kind you hear on cows in the cow lot, but sounds as sweet as any other if one is hungry.

ON VERANDA

I shall resume where I left off before lunch. After dinner we all went on the broad veranda which runs around part of the house, and which affords a beautiful view of the Sound. The house sits on top of the hill and there are only one or two trees in its immediate vicinity. The ground slopes in all directions from the porch, and there the foot of the hill the trees grow in great profusion and in many varieties. What charms me specially about the location is that there is not another house visible from it, nothing to mar the landscape. As the President says: "We have no one looking into our pantry and there is no need to close a shutter."

We smoked and chatted on a hundred different subjects and made plans for the following day. Mrs. Roosevelt finally took her knitting inside and was soon followed by Mrs. Winthrop. Miss Ethel evidently found us dull, and went walking with her dog Ace, and the boys went to the Mayflower to spend the night. The President, Winthrop and I sat and talked on every subject which three men knowing something of the affairs of the day (I have a smattering, perhaps) can talk. The talk naturally drifted to Taft's nomination and the chances for his election. The President seemed to think he was elected, though there are certain elements of danger.

TAFT PRAISED

"If the people knew Taft there would be no doubt of his election," he said. "They know what he has done, but they don't know the man. If they knew him they would know that he can be relied on to carry out the policies which I stand for. He is committed to them just the same as I am, and has been made the mouthpiece for them as frequently as I."

He did not think Mr. Taft would break the South. "You know," he said, "my chief regret in not making the race this year is that I am not able to demonstrate the fact that I can carry Georgia. I am convinced that I would carry Georgia, Virginia and possibly Louisiana. I doubt if I would carry Tennessee or Kentucky, but I am certain about the others. I would make my opening speech in Savannah or Macon and would fight my way out from there. I would carry those States for the reason that I am not sectional; I have not got a sectional bone in my body. I imbibed the traditions and the folk lore of the South from my mother, my earliest training and principles were Southern. I sought the West of my own accord, and my manhood has largely been fought out in the North."

He spoke of his popularity as I would speak of riding ability. I said that to me the great danger to Mr. Taft came from the reactionary league ideas, but that I thought this would be counteracted by the fact that Mr. Taft would also be the legate of the President's popularity. "Yes," he said, "I think so. I do not think Taft would be as aggressive as I have been, but there will be no backward step under Taft. He then referred to the recent decision in the Standard Oil case and added:

JACKSONIAN ATTITUDE

"Like Andrew Jackson, when the enemy gains some advantage, I advance a foot nearer. I have never betrayed the people, yet, and I don't propose to do so now by default. If a technicality protects the criminal we must overcome the technicality."

ality. I am popular because I am trusted and I believe my policies to be best for all classes. If ever the unidentified class in this country feel that the legislature class is not to be relied upon then they may wish to elect a man who will expect trouble. In this country we have got to play the game squarely, for we don't want to be allowed to play it at all. The people are too well educated to be fooled."

We talked of this man and that man, and he had something of interest to say about each name as it was mentioned. Winthrop asked him if he did not think Garfield a very ordinary man.

"Not at all," said the President. "His great fault lay in the fact that he had no horror of corruption. He cared nothing about it, while a perfectly honest man himself. But next to Jefferson, Garfield was the most brilliant President we have ever had."

"Hoar," he said, "was always small, inasmuch as he was sectional. He said that because the Declaration of Independence was signed that all men were free and equal, and that Massachusetts had approved it for personal reasons, so Hoar really thought the negro could be legislated to be as good as the white man, forgetting the natural limitations of the negro."

"I am afraid I have not got as much reverence for the Declaration of Independence as I should have known it by heart. It is an untruth immortal. The Declaration of Independence would be rejected by any political party of the present day as a platform, being palpably insincere and dishonest."

BEST THING PICKED

He said that he thought Senator Platt of Connecticut, Senator Lindsay of Kentucky and Senator Cockrell of Missouri the three best men he had ever met in public life, and that old timers of Texas did not come far behind them.

He then talked of Monroe and I fear he has a very poor idea of him. He took us into the library and read us a number of speeches of President Monroe made on a trip through New England. It was an old volume he had dug out of some obscure library. One speech he almost knew by heart. It was made in answer to an address of ministers and preachers in Portland, Me. One sentence he recalled with great glee. It was to the effect that all religion in general would have his hearty approval and support.

"Why," by the side of our estimable Vice-President, Mr. Philbrick, would seem most indigestible, if not positively indecent. Good-by, with much love.

ARCHIE

CAPT. BUTT TO HIS MOTHER
SAGAMORE HILL, OYSTER BAY,
July 26, 1908.

My Dear Mother: It rained all the morning, but that did not prevent us from going in swimming and playing tennis. We started off with a good breakfast, and every all three ingredients were wanting and then—well, the refuse had a way of collecting and it kept on increasing until the natural aroma of the canyon hadn't a chance to tell us either spring or autumn was near. And as for the homes where only women lived—for them was the garbage problem a real one.

SOUTHERN BREAKFAST

"Why, Mr. President," I exclaimed, "this is a southern breakfast. I have never seen hominy served anywhere out of the South in this before breakfast." "What did I tell you, Edith? Yes, it is just the breakfast my mother always had, varied as to the meats, of course. I have the hardest time with most of my guests, who usually want to eat the hominy with sugar and cream, and some think it is a fruit. We eat it just as you do in the South with salt and butter and nothing more."

The President ate his coffee and pot and sugar, and cream pitcher and sugar. I think it is a complete set in itself. Mrs. Roosevelt says that it is next to impossible to get the coffee to suit him, and as he is a great coffee drinker she provided him with a service of his own, and if the coffee is not right he has no one to blame but himself. He drinks several cups at his breakfast and makes each one a matter of great formality. It is really interesting to see such much pleasure he gets out of it.

I note with some hesitancy to speak of it that the President is a good eater. You think me a large eater; well, I am small in comparison to him. But he has a tremendous body and really enjoys each mouthful. I never saw any one with a more wholesome appetite, and then he complains of not losing flesh. I felt like asking him: "How can you expect to?" He does not smoke, and the time when other men take to the weed he gets the papers and magazines and for about ten minutes is absorbed in them. "He only takes the New York Herald and New York Tribune. He kept his eye on the anything in them to upset his digestion."

POST AND SUN TARRO

"I could not stand the Evening Post or the Sun after a hearty meal."

Secretary Loeb says that he hears what evil is published of him just before meal time. He says he could never fight on a full stomach. But while he does not take any of the other papers at his home, everything reflecting on him or which would be a guide to him in any way he has laid on his dog.

"I always want to see the laudatory things, so I think it my duty to read the contrary."

After breakfast we went on the porch and shook our feet at the rain. The President said the rain would not bother us, as we (he and I) had played a record game with the Postmaster-General one afternoon in the rain. While we were sitting there Quentin was seen scuttling around the corner. His mother said:

"I know what that means. She called to him and when he came she whispered to him and I heard him say:

"Oh, mother, I thought you would forget."

"Mothers never forget these things," if little boys ever do, he laughed, and he went out as we all have done on similar occasions and cleaned his teeth. Oh, horrors of boyhood days!

We all went in swimming after tennis and a lot of fun we had. Every one joined in the water fight and sides were chosen to see who could clear the float.

CANYON LIFE
DAYS OF JOY

being "on the level" even in the matter of habitation. Right here we'd like to hang a red flag and a sign saying "Notice—Saturday Evening Post and other eastern periodicals!"

(And here proceedeth a truth which we hardly expect you to believe, though it remains true just the same.)

One of the blessings of the canyon miss (and we're glad for the chance to be overlooked) is that daily string of door-to-door salespeople, advertisers, peddlers, tramps—and real estate parasites that line the boulevards and alleys below us. Yes—believe it if you can. We've lived in the canyon almost six months and not a real estate man has come to even offer to sell us anything.

There's a cunning little fairy story for our eastern and northern premises—only it happens to be true. Why up here even if our bills are overdue no one takes the time or makes the effort to hunt us up to tell us about it.

New tell us that isn't life. Think of it—some more peace in Los Angeles' roary. We who live in Laurel Canyon just about know that the canyon is a place where we have one—and we haven't—that something important is on hand. Even our relatives forget to call on us. As a matter of fact, a sentence that might be expanded into a novel, a sort of Arnold-Bennett-like novel, if we could choose the style. Bandits or no bandits most of us sleep all night long above the world, inhaling the best of air and never thinking to lock our doors. If you need your neighbor's aspirin in the night—simplest thing in the world—to run over, creep in (don't disturb 'em for worlds) and help yourself. Of course, being neighborly, as we all are up here, you know just where it's kept. Banquet thing ever—no one's sleep broken, tell 'em the next day and life goes on as before.

BURIED GARBAGE

One of the thrills that came to the hillside hangers-on in South Canyon recently (following shortly upon this canyon's inclusion within the city's confines) was the knowledge that upon a certain day that indispensable dispenser of depreciable odors, the city garbage man, was to make his initial appearance in our midst. For years the older inhabitants had collected the refuse, which they carried to the dump, but the city garbage man was to make his initial appearance in our midst. For years the older inhabitants had collected the refuse, which they carried to the dump, but the city garbage man was to make his initial appearance in our midst. For years the older inhabitants had collected the refuse, which they carried to the dump, but the city garbage man was to make his initial appearance in our midst.

So that the coming of the garbage man aroused among the canyon dwellers a festive spirit and a desire to celebrate. Strangers within the canyon for the first time of our few days here remember must have thought South Canyon folk had suddenly slipped a cog in their otherwise rather reliable and for the most part artistic minds for up and down the drive, among the houses, and embroidery pattern of brightest colors, were lined on this day of days, all the garbage cans of South Canyon, sportsmen decked (all the hilarious adjectives apply) with ribbons, bows, bon-bons and real flower bouquets.

Notwithstanding their heterodox appearance the garbage man must either have survived his surprise or the city must be truly efficient in its refuse gathering department for either the same garbage man or a substitute has continued to come on regular days since.

LAVENDER NEEDED

Our little canyon has a truly Danish-ian appearance. While we haven't a water front (natural setting for such a picture) we have a colorfront truly much like the famous streets of Europe's free city. Our houses, like Danish's are all colors. All we lack is a lavender dwelling to make us perfect. We have 'em yellow and orange, pink, gray, green, bluish and black-trimmed. Now required to give us that imported look and a real Danish tone, remains only that purple cast.

As for our people, well, it's like the real estate ads, "you have to know 'em to love 'em." We talk over our back fences, when the hills don't get in the way, and over our front pickets and we call across the street or drop in on one another unannounced. We borrow recipes and eggs and everything else we want for if one hasn't it the other always has. We "pick up" rides when the old gas wagon is out of commission. We do all sorts of trivial, unbecoming things, but when you really want to live a free life within the city's confines commend us to the canyon dwellers among whom we've so far been unable to discover even a filament of gossip or unkindness or anything other than good human qualities.

DIRECTOR ANXIOUS TO FILM FRANKLIN

ROMANTIC LIFE OF COLONIAL
MELFORD

Before many more years have elapsed George Melford, Paramount director, hopes to bring to a realization an ambition which has grown in "momentary" for eight years—the filming of the life of Benjamin Franklin, whose anniversary was nationally celebrated on the 17th inst.

"Franklin's romantic entry into Philadelphia with a loaf of bread under his arm, his experiments with electricity, his diplomatic success in France, his founding of the Saturday Evening Post—all represent an absorbing story fairly shrieking for camera reproduction," declared Mr. Melford. "Every side of Franklin's life was filled with romantic phases. Some day I hope to record it in film."

"Some producers will scoff because a vehicle of this type would have to be done in 'costume.' But I intend the activities of Franklin's career and his personality would far outweigh any prejudice of this character in the public mind."

SOUTHLAND'S EDUCATIONAL TORCH FLAMES BRIGHTLY

Increased Enrollments at Schools as New Term Opens Identifies Mecca of Discriminating

Education! Magical word in a magical world in the most democratic age of history! You will not find its full meaning in the dictionary for the word cannot be defined in a paragraph. But glance around you at the miraculous achievements of men and meditate on their source and the word "education" will strike your consciousness with staggering force. Time was when any man holding an open book in his hand was considered a potential criminal. Today the man who either cannot or does not read is likely to be looked upon with suspicion by his fellow beings. The kings of old feared the enlightenment of their subjects. Democracy fears the ignorance of its citizens.

The ideal of the Stoics was self-control. The Epicurean's ideal was pleasure. Plato pleaded for symmetry in individual and national character. The Christian preached contemplation and orderly action as the greatest practical good. The ideal of Jesus seems to have been service. Today, with men everywhere declaring that the future generations will dwell in the dimensional consciousness of this generation live, and act in three dimensions, "education" is taking on a meaning which includes the best of every system of philosophy, science, ethics and art.

The heronious development of the educational world of today to educate means to lead and the best authorities in educational world are insisting more that education shall be in the best within himself and inspire him to give it expression, as well as to show him the means and opportunities of attainment.

In the matter of public and private schools and colleges, Southland bears a shining record. It is becoming the Mecca of the best authorities in educational world. The challenges any other section of the world, in the United States or elsewhere, to show a greater number of educational institutions of learning.

Harry Nash, "prince of education" in a recent address at the University of California declared: "It is your duty to lead the schools of learning and to make them the best of libraries, such as the University of California and the University of Washington, that are making the city known as a mecca for education."

SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S NEW HOME

Noteworthy Plans of Big Local Institution Announced

Building Just Completed for the Southwestern University in this City. In the inset is J. J. Schumacher, head of the institution, who tells of its plans for expansion.

BANNER YEAR PREDICTED

How LaSalle Extension University Will Help by Training Salesmen

Based on his opinion on the location, climate, natural advantages and past growth of this community, Mr. E. Appelbaum, salesmanship head for Southern California and Arizona of the LaSalle Extension University, yesterday predicted a banner year of prosperity for the city.

During the recent contest drive, inaugurated by J. G. Chapline, president of the Extension University, Southern California led the entire country, and the bronze tablet in the new university at Chicago, bearing the names of the ten greatest salesmen in the United States, representing the institution, will have at its head the name of Mr. Appelbaum, the Los Angeles representative.

"GREAT OPPORTUNITIES" "It is doubtful if in any other section of the United States today there exist such varied and rich opportunities for the efficient salesman as are to be found in Southern California," said Mr. Appelbaum. "With the constant influx of visitors and home-seekers, with the opening of new enterprises and the continued expansion of business and industry along all lines, the opportunities offered the wide-awake salesman are almost unbelievable."

"When it comes to salesmanship no intelligent man will claim that the employer begrudges the salesman any part of his commission," said Mr. Appelbaum. "On the contrary, the more a salesman earns, the happier is his employer. The commission is already figured in the price of the article. Consequently, when the salesman gets a bigger check it means that the employer has sold more goods and made more money. The salesman is really his own boss, with this exception—that he has no money invested and takes no financial risk."

Mr. Appelbaum said that it is deplorable that there are thousands of salesmen in the Southland who insist on spending many years in learning how to capitalize a graduate of Atchison University. He attended the Kellogg School of Dramatic Expression and was awarded the gold medal for the highest marks in elocution and dramatic art. He was coached in Shakespeare by Thomas W. Keane and completed most of the Shakespearean work under Prof. Williams of Harvard University. He then accepted the directorship of the Kellogg School of Expression and, after five years with that school, returned to the stage playing in support of many well-known stars. In 1912 he became interested in motion pictures and was engaged by Oscar Eagle, stage director for the Selig studio at Chicago. In 1913 he was sent by Col. Selig to Los Angeles for leads and he remained with that studio until 1917, when he became identified with the Morosco Stock Company, playing in such plays as "Under Fire," "Watch Your Neighbor," and "De Luxe Annie."

Miss Prager, who is in charge of the dance department, is again active after spending a month's vacation in New York, New Orleans and Atlanta. Miss Prager, before joining the Egan School faculty, was on tour as the premier danseuse of "The Soul Kiss" and "The Parisian Model."

Among the independent colleges here offering courses in law, higher accounting, commerce, engineering, secretarial and stenographic training is the Southwestern University, which will dedicate its new home at 1121 South Hill street on Friday evening, February 1.

Coincident with the publication of the first issues of the "Southwestern Law Review," the third school year of Southwestern University was brought to a close. Enrollment for the spring term is now active and a capacity attendance is expected at an early date. About 1000 students may attend at one time.

The new home of the university at the property of the institution, advantageously situated in one of the rapidly developing business sections of Los Angeles just opposite the Chamber of Commerce Building, the structure is fireproof throughout, was designed by Albert C. Martin and erected by C. L. Feck, contractor. The foundations were built to carry ten stories.

"It is our intention to add the remaining stories within three years," said J. J. Schumacher, head of the institution. We confidently expect to occupy the entire structure ourselves within a very few years. We are determined to give Los Angeles one of the most modern and efficient educational institutions of its kind in this country. We recognize the fact that we have an important function to perform here and are striving to meet the situation fully."

The process of establishing Southwestern University was one of normal evolution. As a matter of fact, it had a precursor in the Southwestern College of Law, a nonprofessional school, which was organized by John Schumacher, then a young man 25 years of age, on November 25, 1911, and which was continued until May 10, 1913, when its work was absorbed by Southwestern University proper.

In 1913, the founder of Southwestern University undertook the task of organizing the faculties of both schools. Men of the local community possessing the necessary qualifications were gradually associated, and, for the rest, leading universities were drawn upon.

The Schools of Law and Accounting of the university are oldest and are renowned for their efficiency. The School of Law showed greatest growth in the last semester. More accounting graduates of Southwestern than of any other school in the West are said to have passed the difficult examinations for certified public accountants in recent years.

The School of Engineering is a new department, having been organized last summer under A. J. Wineta, B.S., C. E., Dean. For the present, courses only in structural engineering and architecture are available.

MISS DIXON TO TEACH The School of Secretarial Studies will occupy the entire second floor of the new home and will be under the personal direction of Miss Kitty Dixon, for eighteen years head of the Gregg School in Chicago, at which institution she personally trained more than 1000 Gregg teachers. Miss Dixon is said to be the best-known shorthand teacher in America.

Among the unique features of the institution are a large gymnasium, students' store, individual lockers, students' fountain and lunch counter, sanitary drinking fountains on each floor, ladies' restroom, complete dictograph system, large library, spacious court room and magnificent administration offices.

Opening FEB. 8

WITH its own splendid new building and home now complete, Southwestern University offers to Los Angeles for approval one of the finest appointed educational institutions of its kind in America. The most down-to-date equipment for efficient administration and comfort of students has been installed. The faculties have been greatly strengthened for the new term opening February sixth, and twelve hundred students now can be accommodated at one time.

Educational Institutions of Southland Rank With Finest in Nation

CUMNOCK METHODS FAMED

Founded in 1894 by Mrs. Merrill Moore Grigg, the Cumnock School of Expression, located on Third street between East Palmes and McCadden streets, has attained an enviable reputation among similar institutions of its kind throughout America. Originally housed in small quarters, year by year the school has been compelled to enlarge its accommodations and teaching force until today it occupies a commodious building in one of the choice residential districts of Los Angeles.

A three-fold institution, consisting of the junior school, the academy and the school of expression, the purpose of the Cumnock School is primarily to help the student find "her own beautiful self and to realize her own powers, as well as to prepare her for a vocation." Helen A. Brooks, the director, and her splendid faculty of assistants believe that real development comes only from the spirit of service and the institution lays special emphasis on this ideal. Particular stress is laid upon the value of sincerity and of simplicity in thought and conduct.

"Believing that mechanical rules restrict rather than develop the creative spirit, the Cumnock School has nothing to do with those modes that make for artificiality," said Miss Brooks. "Students are encouraged to express themselves in many ways. In the study of literature they are given the opportunity to write lyrics and plays, to read aloud and to tell stories. Once a week a regular assembly period is in charge of the students, the programs being left to their own initiative."

The Wednesday assemblies are proving interesting to the public as well as to the student body. At these sessions lectures and recitals are given by members of the faculty, alumnae or prominent artists having no connection with the school.

In 1918 the examiner of colleges from the University of California visited Cumnock School with the result that the committee on credentials of the university has voted to grant to students of Cumnock "credit for credit" wherever the work is parallel—which means forty-eight units of credit at the university for work during the three years of the regular course at the Cumnock School of Expression.

Weekly recitals are given at the Cumnock School throughout the year in which all regular pupils participate. These recitals have proved of great benefit in awakening confidence before an audience and arousing a spirit of endeavor. To these recitals the public is admitted free of charge.

While the school recognizes scholastic work as the most essential factor in the development of every pupil, it also considers wholesome recreation a matter of vital importance and therefore makes provision for desirable social life. The various class dances and plays furnish opportunity for the girls to realize the responsibilities of hostesses.

Los Angeles has over a million population; some of the world's richest people.

Los Angeles has just passed through the greatest era of prosperity in its history.

Los Angeles has an improvement program for 1924 exceeding over $85,000,000, and its building and industrial campaign will surpass the great and prosperous year just ended.

Are you keeping with this great development?

Can you conscientiously say that your present position exceeds your highest capabilities?

In short—wouldn't a better knowledge of present day business methods make for a realization of your greatest ambitions?

DESIGNERS KEEP BUSY AT STYLES

Head of Sawyer Declares Department is One of Best West of Rockies

"The employment department of the Sawyer School of Commerce is one of the best west of the Rocky mountains," is the modest statement made yesterday by W. O. Anderson, president of that school.

"Our school holds an enviable position among business firms of Los Angeles," continued Mr. Anderson. "It is one school upon which many firms call for help and know that they will get a man or woman who, because of thorough training, will fit into whatever position they may be called upon to fill."

The business administration is headed by Harold McLanahan, M.A., formerly of Columbia University. The secretarial course includes all subjects necessary for thorough foundation in business principles. It is terminated with an office practice course which prepares the student to enter the business world.

The stenographic course trains the student to go into the business field as a stenographer, and includes many allied subjects, such as filing, commercial law, correspondence and other specialized courses.

Interior Decorating, Advertising and Costume Designing Courses

Collaborating for the artistic betterment of the arts of interior decorating, advertising and costume designing is the purpose of the Casa de Artistas Studio in the Fine Arts Theater Building, which has begun its fourth year under the direction of Mrs. Agnes J. Meyers, Mrs. Genevieve O'Hara Sutton and Francisco Ross.

Mrs. Meyers, counselor on interiors, has been engaged in designing homes and offices during the past three years and in her classes she seeks to teach a clearer, finer appreciation of the fundamental principles underlying this art.

Mrs. Sutton, a grandniece of Theodore O'Hara, author of "The House of the Dead," has had wide experience in literary work and her purpose is to play American advertising on a "high artistic plane." She specializes in catalogues, novelty folders and unusual letter heads.

Mr. Ross is a clever costume designer and has done extensive work for motion picture stars and for many of the smart shops of Los Angeles. He is the creator of La Santa French novelties.

TAKE HIM SERIOUSLY

Ralph Lewis, since his portrayal of the title role in "The Mail Man," has received numerous fan letters from young and old alike, asking his advice about what action to take in regard to poor delivery, and requesting information about parcel post, registered mail and other branches of the postal service. The writers seem to think that inasmuch as Ralph was a mail man on the screen, he should really be some sort of a general information bureau about everything in general pertaining to Uncle Sam's mail service.

ment on the salesmanship course for each of their students," said Mr. Appelbaum. "The sales manager of the Matthews Candy Company has also made the same offer. Officials of the Equitable Life Assurance Company, the Tracy-Shoups Company and many other firms have announced that preference will hereafter be given to LA SALLE salesmanship students."

"Every salesmanship course is guaranteed with a money-back satisfaction bond," continued Mr. Appelbaum. "The tuition is refunded forward to at least a week's vacation between the pictures they would adapt. In the thirteen months of their partnership, however, this expectation has consistently failed to materialize. The longest time they have had off of calendar day! And that was six months ago."

Since that time they have adapted "A Lighter of Flames" for Bill Hart and "Broken Barriers," by Meredith Nicholson, for Reginald Barker, and their original story, which they sold to Metro some time ago under the title of "Woman's Intuition," but which will be filmed under another name.

In between these scripts came the writing of "The Wanderer," "Pleasure Mad" and "The Man Life Passed By." Nothing daunted, however, Cowan-Higgin is still hopefully looking forward to their long-anticipated week's vacation, even if they have to wait another year before they get it!

Here Are a Few More of Our Numerous Successes:

MRS. LEIDENDECKER, housewife, never sold before, earned in first week selling (1 week) preparation $200. W. E. MICKEL, sales man, sold in first week $1000 for values of my La Salle Salesmanship Course and no sales taken before. EDGAR SCHAEFER, of Tracy Shoups, owners of Hollywoodland, increased his income $200 per cent within two months. C. A. THOMAS, with same firm, increased his income 100 per cent within 1 month's application. CHESTER MATSON, advertising salesman for Evening Herald, increased his income 50 per cent within 4 weeks. H. SAWILL, never sold before, placed him and is selling for Western Lithograph Company. "Overnight" selling could be made so simple! He is now on road to success.

La Salle Extension University is the largest, greatest business training institution in the world—its American clearing house of modern business methods. In the educational field since its birth in 1912 was over $1,000,000.

Each course is guaranteed with a "money back satisfaction" bond; easy terms—no time limit, and last but not least, backed by its splendid reputation!

In business service, "Salesmanship" means "Service for Profit!"

The Salesmanship Head for Southern California and Arizona conducts a personal coaching class in addition to the course, which is given free of charge for the pleasure of helping to build "Man Power." Free placement bureau.

Collaborative Authors Get One Day off in Year of Labor

About a year ago, when they first started on the active collaboration as motion-picture authors, Sada Cowan and Howard Higgin vacation between the pictures they would adapt. Since that time they have adapted "A Lighter of Flames" for Bill Hart and "Broken Barriers," by Meredith Nicholson, for Reginald Barker, and their original story, which they sold to Metro some time ago under the title of "Woman's Intuition," but which will be filmed under another name.

KEYBOARD RECITALS

THREE PIANISTS WILL BE HEARD THIS WEEK

Three world-famous pianists will make four appearances in three days this week. Mme. Ethel Leginska, English pianist and futurist composer, and Moritz Rosenthal, who has long been before the public, appear on the same evening.

For many years as a composer, Leginska, exponent of Chopin and the subtleties of musical expression, will be heard twice, Thursday evening, and Saturday afternoon.

Ethel Leginska has attracted considerable attention during the past three years as a composer. Her reputation as a concert pianist was already assured, critics acclaiming her as one of the great Beethoven interpreters.

A new Leginska came to light in her compositions, for she has written nothing that is not conservative and is looked upon as an exponent of the newer school. Friday evening her string quartet will be played by the Philharmonic Quartet, a composition which has been programmed with great success by eastern and London string quartets. Miss Leginska will also play a group of her own modern piano solos, the Beethoven "Sonata Op. 10," and "Rondo a Capriccio" by the same composer.

The Brahms Quintet is included on the same program. Vladimir De Pachmann, now 75 years old, achieved fame 15 years ago. De Pachmann has not been heard in America for eleven years, and Rosenthal has not been heard in Los Angeles for seventeen years. Both musicians play in greatly different styles and yet each musician is a master of his own particular type. Rosenthal made his first reputation largely by his prodigious technique, and his art has ripened gradually over the years, giving him a quality in his playing which is extraordinary. De Pachmann is best known for his Chopin interpretations and, as well, certain eccentricities which make him unique.

De Pachmann often singles out two or three in the audience, those who may have aroused either his admiration or ire, and talks to or about them. These eccentricities create the most extraordinary vaudeville in the world, and yet throughout he is the supreme artist.

The welcome back given Moritz Rosenthal after his somewhat prolonged absence from the United States demonstrates how deeply his name is cut in the movement to the great musicians who have played before the American public. His art seems to have no bounds or limitations. He has always been marvelous because of his technique; now it is said that his technique is only the means to an end, and the end is music.

Some music lovers will recall the feat that made Rosenthal famous technically. One of these involved the playing of Chopin's "Minute Waltz" in thirds. This composition is difficult to play at the moderate speed with single fingers, but with Rosenthal's double fingering it becomes an achievement which only a technical genius could accomplish.

Varied Program
Friends of the Ellis Club, as well as music lovers who have never been afforded the opportunity of hearing this vocal organization of male voices, will find that the program to be rendered at its concert this afternoon in Philharmonic Auditorium, contains very satisfactory musical variety. The program in fact, the second half of the program is devoted to selections from Wagner's operas "Parsifal" and "The Ring of the Nibelung," from Tannhauser, and the "Feast of the Holy Grail" from "Parsifal," the club being accompanied by the Philharmonic Orchestra.

The first half of the club's program, in contrast, is made up of lighter selections. Elinor Maria, guest soloist, possesses a mezzo voice of power and richness. Her selections will be "Quelle Souffrance" (Lemond), "My Love He Comes on a Skiff" (Clough-Lester) and "Song of the Robin" (Woman) from Cadman's opera "Shanewau."

The Ellis Club's numbers will include "Tragic Tale" (Fox); "Captain Kidd" (Murchison); "A Moorish Serenade" (Protheroe); "Dawn" (Carl Dies); "The Northmen" (Greiff-Grey).

J. B. Poulin will direct both singers and orchestra and Mrs. M. Hennion-Robinson will be the piano accompanist.

New Ones for Pop Concert
After the enthusiasm displayed by the capacity audience that heard the popular concert by the Philharmonic Orchestra last week, it is no small feat for Conductor Walter Henry Rothwell to select a program for the seventh concert to be performed next Sunday afternoon, that will not prove an anticlimax.

The opening number is the march, "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar, the first of four military marches by the English composer. It is a spirited and heavily scored composition using the entire resources of the modern orchestra.

Then, for the first time at these concerts, the Ballet Music from the little known "Rosamunde," This romantic drama would have been considered to oblivion long ago had it not been for the incidental music Schubert wrote for it.

Both in style and temperament Arensky, one of the leading composers of the younger Russian school, shows considerable affinity to Tchaikowsky with new and then traces of Rimsky-Korsakov with whom he studied. His "Silhouettes" Suite, which is programmed, is one of his rarely heard and lesser known, though none the less characteristic and beautiful works.

The soloist of the day, Miss Elinor Maria, an Eastern mezzo soprano, sings two selections, the first of which the Aria, "La Mort de Jeane d'Arc" by Berlioz, heard for the first time at these concerts, is from a short cantata of the same name by this French composer. Her second number is "Fahnestock" from Bizet's "Carmen," affording an excellent opportunity to display not only her vocal attainments but dramatic ability as well.

The "Wallenstein's Camp" movement from d'Indy's Trilogie of Wallenstein, is programmed.

Lecture Series
F. X. Arns, New York maestro and coach, announced four lecture recitals at the Ebell Auditorium, Tuesday, February 5; Tuesday, February 12; Tuesday, March 4, and Friday, March 11. Subjects: "The Four Cardinal Principles of Voice Culture: Breathing, Throat, Vowel Shaping and Placement." The lectures will be illustrated with numerous charts showing the anatomy and physiology of the tone-producing, tone-benefiting and maintaining organs.

Vocal demonstrations will be given by artist students of the Arns Vocal Studio. Complimentary tickets may be had at Barker Brothers, Birkel Music Company, Schirmer's Music Store and the Arns studio. These lectures are the fruit of exhaustive study and investigation carried on by Mr. Arns for many years, plus his extensive experience as a vocal builder.

Glendale Chorus
The Glendale Community Chorus will hold its second meeting next Thursday at 7:45 p.m. in the old Glendale High School auditorium. The feature of the program to follow the community singing will be an illustrated musical lecture, by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth of New York City, on the topic "Old Times for New."

As a result of the enthusiastic gathering which attended the first meeting of the Glendale Chorus, it is expected that a capacity attendance will be present Thursday. The chorus is under the auspices of Glendale Community Service and is open to the public.

ECHOES OF MUSIC ACTIVITY HERE

Miss Elva McDowell, artist pupil of Thomas Taylor Drill, will leave on a vaudeville and concert tour in the near future. For her vaudeville audiences she will give scenes and arias from "Carmen" and other operas, with specially arranged costumes and stage effects. Her voice is said to be deep and rich, of great range and power. She is a contralto.

Miss McDowell has received recognition in Finland under the name of Eva Southern, and has played important parts at Lausky, Universal and Goldwyn pictures.

Edith Rice Durand, soprano from the East, and known in Europe as well, has recently located in Los Angeles. Mrs. Durand is a pupil of Emma Eames, and has also studied with Whitney and Bostume, Boston, De Cady in Chicago; Koenig in Paris; Schjeldens, Dresden; and Allison Fernat in Florence, Italy. She has traveled and studied also in Russia, Norway and Sweden.

Bertha Vaughn, vocal teacher, will give the second of her Morning Star Series, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock in Chickering Hall. She will present Eunice Rose, contralto, Gladys Slater, soprano, Cornelia Glover, contralto, and Clarence Kellor, pianist. Sol Cohen, violinist will assist.

Haasi Elwell, Pasadena soprano, has recovered from her recent illness, and is arranging to fill several engagements in the near future. She is also resuming her teaching.

Monthly student recitals in Chickering Hall will be featured by Louise Gude, resident vocal teacher, who has just returned from New York where she studied with Herbert Witherspoon, famous vocal pedagogue.

Leona Neblett, violinist, is on tour in New Mexico, with Ruth

May Shaffer, soprano, and Raymond McPeeters, pianist. New Mexico is Miss Neblett's native state, and she booked the entire tour here. The Leona Neblett Violin School continues under the direction of assistants during the absence of Miss Neblett.

Touring through Washington, Oregon, Canada and the Middle West, Grace Wood Jess, mezzo-soprano and interpreter of folk songs, has delighted audiences wherever she had appeared. Mrs. Jess left Los Angeles October 7, returning yesterday to remain for the present.

Mary Newkirk Bowen, soprano, assisted by Lois Puttita, violinist, and Mrs. Hennion Robinson, accompanist, was heard in a program of songs last Sunday evening at the Herndon Arms Hotel. A feature was a group written for her by Beatrice Fenner, talented resident composer. Miss Fenner played the accompaniment for these compositions.

Piano pupils of Gladys Littell, Romana Baker and Francis Kendrick, and dramatic pupils of Hazel G. Penny and Arthur E. Kachel, teachers of the Hollywood Conservatory of Music and Art, were heard in recital last evening in the auditorium of the conservatory.

STAGE EXPERIENCE
Every principal player in George Archambault's production "The Plunderer," now nearing completion at the William Fox Studios, has been on the stage. Frank Mayo, lead, has been off the stage for eight years; Evelyn Brent, feminine lead, for four; Eddie Phillips, juvenile, for three years; Tom Santschi, heavy, for sixteen years; Dan Mason, character, for nine years; and Peggy Shaw, ingenue, for three years.

HIS BEARD HELPS
Earl Schenck is using his beard to advantage as the picturesque heavy in Charles Seeling's production of "Yankee Doodle."

A Celebrated Factory Sends 21,600 Pieces of Imperfect Etched Glassware

—The manufacturer, who is noted in glassware, asks us to withhold his name from the advertisement.

—We may say that there are 21,600 pieces of this etched table glassware that did not pass the first inspection at the factory; which means that here and there may be a slight flaw in the pattern or a tiny speck in the glass, consequently we bought them at away less than usual.

—When this lead blown glassware, beautifully etched, is offered at these low prices, the announcement usually results in very active early selling, so our advice is to be here with the opening of the doors Monday.

That Itching Skin Needs SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even itchy, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthol-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worms.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and discomfort, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles' Menthol-Sulphur from any good drugist and use it like cold cream. —Advertisement.

Firm, Plump, Fresh!

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp—the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-door girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth.

S. S. S. since 1836, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—rekindled vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of youth return to your cheeks. Watch that flabby, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 1/2 ounce of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the asthmatic throat tickle and hush the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

HOOVER URGES RAIL MERGERS

Many of these projects require finance beyond the powers of private investment. Public utilities are under rigid national and State regulation. Therefore, any great national policy in all these matters must be carried out with the co-operation of the Federal government.

The expenditures from the national treasury on these enterprises which cannot be compassed by private enterprise—such as flood control, navigation, and reclamation—are not an imposition upon the people. Their development is fundamental if we are to support larger populations at an increasing standard of living and comfort. Their development is fundamental if we are to permit the production of more commodities at less effort for division among us all.

Furthermore, the advances in science during the past score of years have brought us to the threshold of new possibilities in all of these directions. The jobs immediately before us are the economic development of our railway transportation, our water transportation, power, and reclamation. The larger items crystallize into certain policies and certain projects.

The growth of our national activities and population requires that we double the capacity of our railway transportation every twelve to fifteen years. Unless we evolve definite policies for railway development we shall have the nation strangled for lack of transportation. Any maximum of rates in our complex of railways, whether established by competition or by government regulation, is found to render the earnings of certain railroads too low for progressive development and service, and we only hope to assure such development by their absorption into larger systems of stronger financial foundations.

COMPETITION NO PROTECTION

Under our firmly established national and State policies of regulating rates of monopolies and semi-monopolies in public utilities, we have in fact absolutely abandoned the idea that the public can be protected as to just charges through competitive action. We should, therefore, seek the advantages of larger economies in operation and better service through the consolidation of our railways into larger units. Our problem is to secure their most expeditious consolidation. Tentative steps in this direction have been taken in the Transportation Act of 1920, but there is nothing in this legislation that will absolutely assure the consummation of these consolidations. We need more positive action—no compulsory consolidation but provisions that will naturally lead to consummation.

In our water transportation one of the outstanding opportunities given us by the topography of North America is the St. Lawrence waterway. The development of this avenue to the sea at a cost of perhaps $250,000,000 or $300,000,000 will make it possible for every port on the Great Lakes to become a seaport. That this must be an advantage to the whole of our seventeen great agricultural States and to Western Canada is indicated by the effect it will have on one commodity alone. At the present time, ocean-going rates on grain and provisions to consuming centers in Europe are the same from Montreal and from New York. The grain rate from Montreal to New York is from 5 to 12 cents a bushel, whereas with the St. Lawrence waterway, the rate from Buffalo to Montreal when not exceeded 3 or 4 cents—a difference that must inevitably reflect back in the price of grain to the farmer.

WOULD REVIVE ERIE CANAL

Some groups in New York have objected to the construction of this waterway as being a diversion of commerce through foreign territory and a consequent loss to our greatest commercial center. As a matter of fact, the development of the St. Lawrence will produce by products in electrical power amounting to something over 2,000,000 horsepower, of which a minimum of one-half will be available for American consumption. The natural point for consumption of the American share of this power for industrial purposes is along the Erie Canal, and here lies a promise of the canal's further development and a return to the State of New York far greater than the small amount of values that come from the handling of commodities through the port of New York.

Moreover, the foundation on which New York City rests is the progress of the United States, and the commercial benefits to the whole country from the development of this waterway are far greater in their reflex to New York City than the transportation of western commodities across the State and their staving returns at New York harbor. We, of course, cannot proceed in this matter until our Canadian friends are ready.

Another of these great projects is the development of the Mississippi waterway through the deepening of the drainage canal, permitting enlarged barge service from Chicago to the gulf. Still another of these great developments is the inland waterway along the Atlantic seaboard. In these we can act at any time.

SUPERPOWER DEVELOPMENT

In power development we are at the threshold of one of the greatest advances in our history. We have increased our kilowatt consumption in twenty years from about 100 per capita and we are still only on the way.

The possibility of a new stage in progress is due to the perfection of high voltage, longer transmission, and more perfect mechanical development in generation of power. We can now undertake to develop the cheaper sources of power—cheaper generation from coal through larger and more favorably placed generation plants. We can secure even greater economies in production costs which are not so apparent upon the surface. Through the inter-connection of load between different local distribution systems we can bring about a reduction in the amount of reserve equipment. We can thus secure a better average load factor through the pooling effect in day and seasonal variations by

ARTICLE No. 14

One point of bidding that players love to discuss and which they most frequently disagree about, is the so-called pre-emptive or shut-out bid. One very fine player claims that practically every hand demands a shut-out bid and for that reason he bids two no-trump or three or more of a suit at every opportunity. He has been nicknamed "I-N-T" and is just as effective in starting things at the Auction table as that high explosive is on the battlefield. At times his "two no-trumps" are effective, but as a rule they are big losers. The weakness of shut-out bids, if carried to extremes, is that they fail to give exact information. The following is a good example of a shut-out bid made without any possible reason or excuse:

Z dealt and made a pre-emptive bid of four spades, and the other players passed. A opened his singleton diamond and he and his partner won five tricks, setting Z's bid two tricks. If Z had made the proper bid of one spade, Y could have overbid with two diamonds and a game would have been possible either

Z dealt and bid five clubs and the other passed. In the play of the hand he lost his contract by one trick but saved a game in hearts by A. Neither of his opponents was strong enough to bid the hearts over his pre-emptive bid, and yet their combined hands would have made five hearts against any defense. This hand is a fine example of a sound pre-emptive bid.

Frequently hands that justify pre-emptive bids if held by dealer, should be bid up gradually after opponents have shown a suit. Our problem is to make an unnecessarily high bid after your opponents have shown their suit. The only value or purpose of such a bid is to shut out, if possible, a bid by opponents that will enable them to go game. After they have bid however, there is no necessity for a pre-emptive bid. The information has been given.

~from the little town Bohain in Picardy~

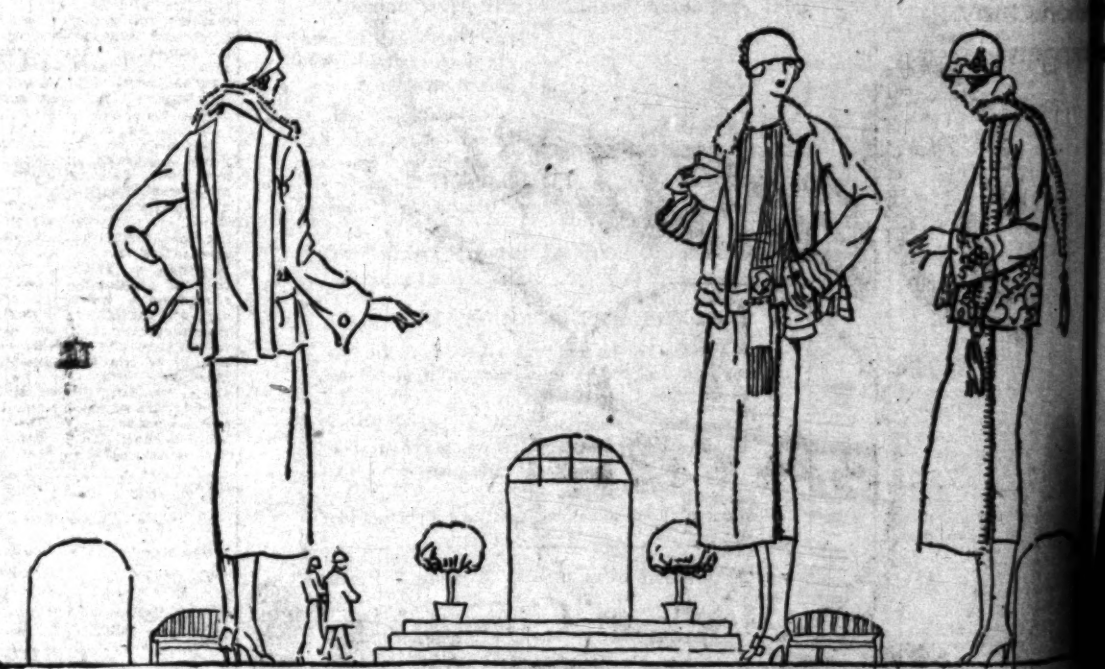

—to Bullock's in Los Angeles—fabrics strange and lovely! Done in new three-quarter coats, the new tailleurs—of Spring! By such famous interpreters of the mode as Philip Mangone and A. Beller.

Fabrics that show smart evidence of Moroccan influences. Dull-surface pliable. Characteristic of the artistic craftsmanship that distinguishes the fabrics of the Rodiers.

Coats very far removed from the usual Coats that dare as much in the way of decoration, interesting materials and combinations of materials—as dresses or costume suits. Not at all content with the limitations of other years—these quite different coats are their own smart excuse for being. Often they are the reason for a springtime costume—the decorative center 'round which a costume is evolved.

Again—to quote a recent cablegram from the Paris Office—"Colored brocaded coats at Cannes with white dresses." These vivid in color vividly brocaded fractional coats with white or neutral frocks—a very new way of achieving newness in one's sports outfit. Decorated top coats—an interesting and very phase of spring fashions.

Suits of Kasha, Juina!—A white jacket with rabbit fur collar—over a skirt of black Juina. Beige Kasha done in wool embroidered three piece tailleurs. Putty colored Kasha Duvelty to fashion a three piece costume. Actually three pieces! the problem is one of combined reclamation and power. In the drainage of this river 5,000,000 acres can be brought into cultivation through irrigation and, incidentally, some 5,000,000 horsepower can be developed. The first of the projects is now economically ripe and that is the construction of a dam somewhere on the lower Colorado that will control the floods of the river, store its seasonal flow for the irrigation of 2,000,000 acres, and develop approximately 800,000 horsepower for distribution in Arizona and California. Another such great power development lies in the Columbia River basin at Priest Falls. The government has already undertaken the development of the Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals. All these projects should be advanced to early consummation. These are the things that contribute to the real uplift of millions; that place them in position to receive and enjoy the finer flowers of our civilization. It is an illusion of romance that we must have poverty in order to make spiritual and intellectual advances. Those who rail at "materialism" seem to forget that it is a people comfortable in their economic life who can absorb these joys.

CRITERION AIDS SCHOLAR FUND

Monday evening, February 4, is to be University Club night at the Criterion Theater, when, through the courtesy of the managing director, H. B. Wright, the club is to take over the theater for the benefit of its scholarship fund. Reggie Doran, assistant director of the theater and herself a member of the club, is assisting the club to make it a gala night. Several special attractions have been arranged which are

Tickets may be obtained at the clubs-rooms, 865 Brack-Shops, and should be ordered as early as possible. The Women's University Club already has three girls in college for this year through this fund and wishes to send more.

Music at Glendale

An exceptionally fine program is to be given by the southland Trio at next week's meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club of Glendale at 2:30. The trio is composed of Mrs. J. W. H. Smith, pianist; Marion Manion, violinist, and Ivy Mae Travis, pianist. These three talented young women have received wide recognition in musical circles for their delightful interpretations, and their program is anticipated with great pleasure.

Ending the January feast with a program that is truly a dessert to the nourishing courses that have preceded it through the month the

The Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club has scheduled for tomorrow a series of delightful treats beginning at 10 a.m., with a trip into the Superior de Mexico personally conducted by one of the widows of the club's members, Mrs. H. J. Engelbrech, which will be followed at 11 a.m., by brief reviews of "Broad," by Charles Norris; "Gravemonger," by Robert C. Brown; and "The Lost Lady," by Willa Cather, given by three members of the literature section.

The noon luncheon will have as its theme "The Christmas Season," and the afternoon program will be identified by the afternoon program which begins at

West Ebell Social Tuesday

Next Tuesday is a social day for West Ebell Club, with luncheon at 1 p.m., followed by cards. February is to be a red letter month for the club, for on February 5 Mrs. J. H. Lorbeer, vice-president of the district, will be honor guest and speaker, and on February 19, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, district president, will speak. The parliamentary law section will give an evening card party on February 6. Bridge and five hundred will be played.

Honest Home Life of Glendora's Founder Casts Light on Activity of Children in Foothills

In the small towns throughout the wide world are enacted the same love pageants behind the curtains of the cottages, the same trysts of the hearth, comedies of the kitchen, the same drama of birth and death behind the shades of the bedroom windows. Every window shade is a curtain of tragedy or comedy. Once the lights of a little town are gleaming, where is the one who could ever hope to tell all of the story or even the story of a single dwelling place?

Work Begins Friday With Meeting Saturday; Formal Opening on 15th

The month of February promises to be most historic in the annals of the Young Men's University Club at Los Angeles. February 1 will be moving day, when all of the club belongings from grand piano to lemon fork will be installed in the new house at 943 South Hoover street. February 2, will mark the date of the first regular meeting and luncheon for members. Mr. Charles F. Turner, hostess, and service being provided by Sections No. 4 and 7, with the president, Mrs. Charles F. Turner, hostess. The formal opening will be on February 11.

On the 12th, the courtesy of H. B. Wright, managing director of the Critterion Theater, and his assistant, Miss Reginald, will be extended to the club, the evening of February 4, at the Critterion will be Col-created in the hearts of those who attend the seed which will later be the fruit of the greatest drama of all, the awakening of manhood and womanhood. The school itself is called the Glendora Football School, and half hidden, as it were, in the heart of a wonderful live oak tree, it gives seclusion and rest, which forms a background for the training and study of the growing children who attend.

The Football School is primarily for children, and parents from all parts of the country take their children to the school because of the unusual opportunity it affords for out-of-door sports and recreation, and with the fun which can be found only in the open. The school is located on the corner of 10th and San Francisco educators, but now it has the unusual honor of being the only school in the world. Dr. Robert A. Millikan of the board of trustees.

The children really find it home for there are chickens to feed and rabbits to care for. The children of the school nestled up against the hills, and there is plenty of useful work to do. They receive regular instruction in gymnastics, dancing and horsemanship.

Geography is a very vitally interesting subject to the children of the Glendora Foothills School. Their textbooks are supplemented by field trips to all about them. Hills, mountains, valleys, canyons, creeks, rivers, seas, lakes, oceans, etc., are explained of their actual experience. An orange grove of sixteen acres and a peach orchard of twenty acres are nuclei around which the study of the industries of the State and nation is carried on. The children are keenly interested in the parts of the world where the orange and peach grow, and the manner every phase of geography is approached from a beginning the orange grove, a real producing garden is planted. The children keep account of all costs and expenses, and sell the products—mostly to the school kitchen. This

Chief among the agencies working among them is the international branch of the Y.W.C.A. under the leadership of Miss Elizabeth Beglaroff, Russian secretary. Miss Beglaroff is a Russian by birth, speaks several languages and loves the work she is in. She sits continually in and out of the colony, giving helpful advice and aid to those in distress or need.

ASSIMILATING RAPIDLY

"The old folks who were born in Russia," said Miss Beglaroff, found the English language and American customs hard to learn. But they are giving their children every advantage possible to grow up like other children. The children are learning English and in another generation the Molokans will be thoroughly assimilated."

Miss Beglaroff and the reporter were walking through the colony when she made the above statement. She pointed to a beautiful young matron who was passing. The young mother was carrying a healthy, jabbering, blue-eyed baby.

"This is the daughter of one of the Molokans," Miss Beglaroff said. "She went to school and has an education and now is happily married to a native American, who is not of Russian descent."

On down the street a trio of young girls was noticed. They were typical dappers, bobbed hair, "velly sweaters" and the other characteristics were there. One asked to fish her "compact" from some unknown hiding-place. In a minute she had remade her face and rouged her lips. The conversation of the girls, in excited tones, referred to some sort of a dance and the frequent recurrence of masculine names, not Russian in origin.

PRESERVE DECORATIONS

A typical house in the colony was visited. There the quaint interior decorations of Russian homes were preserved. The green and red colored paper garlands hanging from the ceiling were not a survival of Christmas but an all-year feature, it was explained. The paper decorations cover up the electric light wires, the mother of the household said.

Another Russian article seen was a handsome brass samovar. Poets have sung of this but it remained for the Molokan mother to explain how it is used. One put the charcoal in the little cylinder in the center of the samovar and the vase-like container with water. In a few minutes boiling water is available at the spout for the teapot. English are not the only ones who like their afternoon cup of tea, it would appear.

In another home an old patriarch with white beard reaching in bib-like fashion to the third button on his shirt (if he had worn a shirt instead of a blouse) was asked through Miss Beglaroff, if he believed the Molokans were generally contented in this country. His replies, expressive and punctuated by gestures were finally translated.

WANT ENFORCEMENT

"What he was trying to say," smiled Miss Beglaroff, was that they like it very much here, except for one thing. They think the officers should enforce the prohibition law more. Their religion says they must not drink but they say their sons are able to get liquor from the bootleggers."

The old man evidently was not satisfied with the translation, he being able to catch some of the English. Then he went off on a long string of guttural sounds.

"He said that they believe the government is going to keep the liquor away from their sons," explained the interpreter. "But they wish they would hurry up with it." The adults of the colony are employed for the most part in common labor, usually in lumber yards or industrial plants. The second generation is going to school and in many cases planning to take up skilled trades or continue their studies in higher education and the arts and sciences.

The night classes at the Utah street school near the colony are attended by more than 150 persons, it is said. The younger of the native Russians are more eager to learn English. A reassuring picture, the Molokan colony. Although they occasionally hear glowing reports of Bolshevik accomplishments, they are skeptical. The colony consists of periodic meetings when matters of general interest come up. Recently at a gathering the matter of sending a delegation to study conditions in Red Russia was discussed. It is interesting, said at the same time of tremendous importance in aiding an understanding of the Molokans to know that they desire to send the delegation to Russia, not to find whether it is safe to return but whether it is possible to bring their friends and relatives to the United States.

Shakespeare First Writer of Scenarios

Thomas J. Geraghty, who is among the number who have won fame through scenario writing, beyond doubt who was the first to dedicate his genius to the continuity.

"Shakespeare," says Mr. Geraghty, "was what we might call the first scenario writer, in that he took old stories and legends from many sources and made them into plays which always live. All of his contemporaries had access to the same stories and the same opportunities. So it goes to show that the good scenario writer is a matter of treatment."

Mr. Geraghty adds that Shakespeare's mode of writing, breaking up as he did his story into scenes and settings of one and two minutes, is similar to the brief episodes in the motion picture. As Mr. Geraghty, who has adapted many Paramount successes and is the author of an equal number of originals, discusses the scenario, he makes it convincing that here is the greatest opportunity in the writing field for the highest type of creative work.

Elizabeth Arden Salon

RECENTLY established in Los Angeles, on Robinson's Seventh Floor, this new Elizabeth Arden Salon is bringing the message of healthful beauty to fortunate women.

It offers the same specialized treatments which have given her Salons in London, Paris, New York and other American cities, an international distinction. And it is under the direct management of Miss Arden and her New York staff.

SEVENTH FLOOR

A New Sweater

BEING of spring, it is of course boyishly trim and tailored—with its three-button fastening and convertible collar.

And it includes spring's own shades: Copen, Chinese red, tomato, beige, tangerine, brown, Copen and gray and black and white.

With plain collar, priced at $15. With braided collar, at $18.50.

THIRD FLOOR

Millinery

A NEW spring Hat means a new state of mind—and both will be happier if the Hat comes from Robinson's.

The countless models arriving for early spring favor tiny brims and higher crowns.

An effect endlessly varied—and in the Hat sketched attained by means of an up-standing bow of plaided ribbon. $29.50.

THIRD FLOOR

Flannels!

A SINGLE word that speaks volumes: of the dominant note in fabrics for spring; of the sports mode for spring and summer—and of the kind of frock which will appear severally in every smart woman's wardrobe.

Robinson's Flannels cover practically every point of the sports compass. All kinds—from the plain, smooth colors like melted fondant, to the daring plaids and stripes which will decorate every self-respecting country club veranda or summer porch of 1924.

SECOND FLOOR

Flannels Exclusive to Robinson's

SHOWN only at Robinson's in Los Angeles—and worthy of a special announcement of their own—are these Flannels from the master designers of England and France.

French Flannels in white—plaided and checked by brilliantly colored lines—or by pastel shaded lines—or by threads of black or navy. In 64-inch width—priced at $6.00 a yard.

English Flannels in colors—their soft gray, tan, brown or blue grounds set off by vivid plaids, stripes and checks in other colors. Having all the originality, beauty and life associated with French fabrics. 64 inches wide—$6.00 a yard.

English Flannels—plaided after the manner adopted by famous Scottish clans. Or in soft heather mixtures of delightful smoothness. In 60-inch width—at $2.75 a yard.

SECOND FLOOR

Notice to charge customers—Purchases made during the remainder of the month will appear upon February accounts, payable in March.

SUITS The MODE

ROBINSON'S are displaying Spring Suits in a variety which predicts unlimited popularity for this particular mode. And in a whimsical variety which runs the gamut between two extremes. For they are either as severely tailored as a man's suit—or as feminine as soft silks and furs and brilliant colors can make them.

THE TAILORED SUIT

SO boyish in its simplicity as to add years of youth to the woman who wears it.

The skirt wrap-around, with one pocket. The coat short, straight, smart—and emphatically masculine.

Many models are to be found at Robinson's, in checks or plain shades and the new twills and velours.

Tailleur, $45

Sports Suit $97.50

THE COSTUME SUIT

A COMPLETE costume with its frock and its matching coat or cape. Deliciously feminine—fashioned of soft silks—rich metallics—the finer fabrics of every sort.

And endlessly varied—those at Robinson's—to fit many occasions and tastes.

Tailleur, $55

Costume, $175

THE SPORTS SUIT

NEITHER as mannish as the Tailleur nor as feminine as the Costume Suit—the Sports Suit has an entire field all to itself.

It is one of the happiest of the spring modes: Colorful, graceful and comfortable.

Robinson's new Sports Suits comprise a variety in which almost no two are alike, but each tells its own vivid story.

THIRD FLOOR

Spring's Jaquettes Are White—and of a New Length

FUR JACQUETTES have grown a bit—are some several inches longer. And their new length is as becoming as the dazzling white furs of which they are fashioned; white ermine or white caracul.

Typical of the beauty of Robinson's newest Fur Jaquettes is the one sketched—which contrasts the white of broadtail caracul with the soft gray of its fox collar and cuffs. Priced at $275. White Ermine Jaquettes, colored in white fox, are $425.

Permanent Waving

SO dependable and so effective are women finding Robinson's Permanent Waving process, that countless curly locks are growing now where only straight ones grew before.

Those who prefer not to be troubled by their own hair will find skillfully-made transformations whose naturalness justifies the recent vogue for this convenient arrangement.

In almost any desired style—and all shades.

HAIRDRESSING SECTIONS—SECOND FLOOR

Handmade Blouses

SO exquisitely are they made—and of such fine materials, that they need little else to recommend them. But these have an entire newness of style and a low pricing on their side as well.

Some are softly ruffled from collar to waist line—and finished with fine hemstitching, and with embroidery in black or colors. Others are entirely white—and strictly tailored.

They are priced to begin at $5.75.

THIRD FLOOR

A New Slipper

SLIPPERS of patent leather lead the mode—particularly when they can claim a medium vamp, slightly rounded toe, and Spanish heel—as do these.

They are finished with kid straps cleverly interlaced.

And they may also be had in black satin with suede straps. Priced at $14.50.

THIRD FLOOR

Trunks

ROBINSON'S Wardrobe Trunks combine a thorough excellence with an exceptionally low pricing. And offer to the fastidious traveler convenience, beauty and strength in one.

Built to withstand the tug and strain of constant travel they are strong enough to endure almost a lifetime. And from their delightfully convenient interior, one's wardrobe will emerge at the journey's end with practically all its original freshness.

These are Special at $47.50

ROBINSON'S special cushion-top Trunk is constructed after tested processes—solidly reinforced on edges and corners—and given added strength by cold rolled hardware and extra metal runners on front and back panels.

It has four spacious drawers (one for women's hats) which are automatically locked—and further secured with special metal reinforcements. And is completed by a combination laundry bag and dust curtain.

With a ten-hanger capacity—a gold-colored lining—and priced at $47.50.

LUXOR ANTIQUES
TRADE BOOMINGGreat Demand for Relics of Tut-Ankh-AmenPharaoh Scarab Brings High as 100 PoundsValley of Kings Visited by
First Rain in Years

(BY CARL AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)

LUXOR (Egypt) Jan. 26.—The

discovery in the Valley of the Kings has given a great fillip to

the trade in "antiques" as the Egyptian

call them, for which Luxor

has been the headquarters for many years.

The main source of supply of

rarer than the forgeries, lies in

the pyramids which were up in

interesting and valuable pieces in

the fields and in the native diggers

employed by the foreign excavat-

ors who, despite rigid supervision, are able to do a certain amount of pilfering during their work.

Any present finding an "antika"

is compelled by law to hand it

over to the local inspector of antiquities, who will try it, if he is decides, at his valuation, but in most cases the peasants prefer to take their chance with the Luxor

dealer.

LICENSED LAWYERS

These dealers can trade only by virtue of a license from the

Egyptian government; consequently

whereby the authorities license the

dealers to break the law, namely,

by purchasing antiques from the peasants.

At present the first demand of

of the Tut-Ankh-Amen. The demand far exceeds the supply, indeed, to such an extent that even the forgers are unable to keep up with it. For genuine Tut-Ankh-

Amen scarab as much as 100

pounds has been realized by one

Luxor dealer, while a small blue

porcelain ring is priced at 25

pounds.

FIRST RAIN IN YEARS

Denizens of the Valley of the

Kings were astonished today when

a sharp shower of rain fell, lasting ten minutes. It was the first

rain the valley has seen for several years. The members of the Howard Carter expedition, who

are working to improve a road

to the tomb of the pharaoh, were glad to see the rain. They had been working for several days

without a drop of rain. The rain was a welcome change. It was the first rain in years. The rain

First Rain in Years

(BY CARL AND ASSOCIATED PRESS)

LUXOR (Egypt) Jan. 26.—The

discovery in the Valley of the Kings has given a great fillip to

the trade in "antiques" as the Egyptian

call them, for which Luxor

has been the headquarters for many years.

The main source of supply of

genuine antiques, which are far

rarer than the forgeries, lies in

the pyramids which were up in

interesting and valuable pieces in

the fields and in the native diggers

employed by the foreign excavat-

ors who, despite rigid supervision, are able to do a certain amount of pilfering during their

work.

Any present finding an "antika"

is compelled by law to hand it

over to the local inspector of antiquities, who will try it, if he is

decides, at his valuation, but in most cases the peasants prefer to take their chance with the Luxor

dealer.

LICENSED LAWYERS

These dealers can trade only by virtue of a license from the

Egyptian government; consequently

the Egyptian situation arises

whereby the authorities license the

dealers to break the law, namely,

by purchasing antiques from the peasants.

At present the first demand of

every foreign tourist is for a relic

of the Tut-Ankh-Amen. The demand far exceeds the supply, indeed, to such an extent that even

the forgers are unable to keep up

with it. For genuine Tut-Ankh-

Amen scarab as much as 100

pounds has been realized by one

Luxor dealer, while a small blue

porcelain ring is priced at 25

pounds.

FIRST RAIN IN YEARS

Denizens of the Valley of the

Kings were astonished today when

a sharp shower of rain fell, last-

ing ten minutes. It was the first

rain the valley has seen for several years. The members of the

Howard Carter expedition, who

are working to improve a road

to the tomb of the pharaoh, were glad to see the rain. They had been working for several days

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A protest has been made by Japan to the United States government against the proposed immigration law now pending in the American

Congress that would bar all Japanese immigrants to the country.

The State Department today officially confirmed that the communication in which Japan makes formal representations on the question has been received from Ma-sahiro Hanahara, Japanese Amba-

sador to Washington. The note for part of the lucrative flow

by special advertising campaigns

in this region. Cities in the vicinity of Los Angeles also are bidding for their share of the overflow from Los Angeles, seeking to interest both visitors and prospective permanent residents.

Tourists spend more than $135,-

000,000 in Southern California in 1923, according to estimates made by the All-Year Club. This has yielded a still greater tourist influx and a revenue to the Southland of at least $150,000,000. The value of the tourist trade to business and general prosperity is so great, he said, that the All-Year

Club plans to expend $350,000 in the promotion campaigns of railroad and steamship companies.
